GOVERNMENT'S BUNGLING AIDED BREWERY FRAUDS

Mrs. Willebrandt Says Beer Leaks Largely Due to Lax Rules Governing Permits

BY MABEL WALKER WILLEBRANDT

([illegible] 1929, by Current News Features. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.)

(In this article Mrs. Willebrandt, discussing another type of "leak" [illegible] tells how bungling tactics on the part of the government played into the hands of the fly-by-night brewers and encour[illegible] honest near-beer manufacturers to evade the law. She [illegible] how beer is "needled" and describes the magic "wort.")

I have attempted to describe to some extent up to this point [illegible] principal sources of supply for the bootleg fraternity, in[illegible] leaks through the Canadian border and from privileges ex[illegible] by holders of permits to manufacture, sell and use de[illegible] alcohol.

[illegible] has been persistent leakage, [illegible] breweries scattered about [illegible] country. Under the existing [illegible] breweries or cereal beverage [illegible] as they are commonly [illegible], are permitted to manufacture and sell "near beer" contain[illegible] more than one-half of 1 [illegible] of alcohol. In order to [illegible] near beer, however, the [illegible] involves the creation, first, [illegible] beer with an alcoholic [illegible] of 5 or 6 per cent, or in [illegible] even more. Much [illegible] evidence was brought to [illegible] concerning the methods in [illegible] breweries in that locality [illegible]," as the saying goes [illegible] beer barons, but, due to [illegible] granted by the Federal [illegible] from interfering with the [illegible] are granted, some of these [illegible] still hold permits.

The "Malt Brothers," hold[illegible] permit to manufacture cereal [illegible], have been caught cheat[illegible] and have had permissive priv[illegible] revoked. They still desire to [illegible] but under the law, the [illegible] further permit privileges is [illegible] being denied, they se[illegible] three or four citizens, general[illegible] individuals with good reputations, [illegible] to place the same for, of [illegible] consideration, at disposal [illegible] [illegible]. BANK RATE RISE EYED

Coincidence of Advance With British Official's Visit Stirs Comment

Hints of Foreign Influence on Board's Policies to be Told Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Developments of the last few days in the credit situation have increased the certainty that Congress will turn its attention this winter to an investigation of Federal Reserve Board policies. The part played by European financiers in controlling the actions of the board will figure prominently in whatever inquiries are undertaken.

Those who have observed the various shifts of position taken by the Federal Reserve Board during the last two or three years find significance in the fact that Thursday's unexpected approval of an increase in the rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank followed closely upon a visit of Sir Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, to this country.

OFFICIALS TIGHT-LIPPED

As has been the case at the time of previous visits of the British financier to the United States his movements were surrounded with considerable mystery and there has been no official admission that he transacted any business with Reserve Board officials.

Heretofore Mr. Norman has usually come to Washington for a conference with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and members of the Federal Reserve Board. So much criticism followed his former visits that this time he remained away from Washington. It is known, however, that he was in the United States for four weeks, sail-

HAGUE TIE-UP UNSHAKEN

British Still Stand Pat

Heart-to-Heart Conference Fails to Break Deadlock on Reparations

Turning Down of Young Plan May Result in Germany Ceasing Payments

THE HAGUE, Aug. 11. (AP)—The six principal delegates to the reparations conference had an hour and a half heart-to-heart talk here today, but the British impasse was not breached.

Emerging from the conference room Arthur Henderson, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, put the situation this way: "The entente cordiale continues." Philip Snowden, his colleague, however, would not go that far.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer made it absolutely clear that his demands were maintained integrally. He will continue to defend them with less sharpness perhaps, but with no less vigor, he said.

Under these circumstances, Snowden's resolution to revise the Young plan will remain on the table tomorrow, while a general discussion of the reparations situation goes on, but, according to the best information obtainable the chief British delegate will demand a vote on that resolution the very minute the general discussion is finished. The attitude of the British is said to be so firm that the French and Italian delegates, who made tentative offers of concessions on both deliveries in kind and annuities, are reported to have withdrawn them.

SPECULATION RIFE

For the past two days the chief delegates have been concerned mostly with what will happen if the conference fails. The first eventuality taken into consideration is the probability that Germany will cease paying reparations under the Dawes plan on September 1. There has been no formal notification of such intention, but it has been made clear that the Reich will not continue to pay creditors more than the experts found she ought to pay. There being no generally accepted percentage of reparations agreed to between the creditors, the money probably will accumulate in the hands of S. Parker Gilbert, agent-general for reparations, since it will be impossible to set up the new reparations trustee—the bank for international settlements—in the absence of an agreement on the Young plan.

It has been suggested that the present conference may be adjourned to reconvene at Geneva during the sessions of the League of Nations Assembly where, in an atmosphere of internationalism, it is more likely to succeed. Another suggestion is that the conference suspend sittings until after the proposed meeting in Geneva of Premier Briand of France and Foreign Secretary Stresemann of Germany and Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain. Out of the uncertainty and confusion arising from the uncompromising attitude of the British only one thing remains clear tonight—that is that the reparations problem is not likely to be settled at The Hague.

GERMANS DISAPPOINTED

The Germans are greatly disappointed at the turn of events because they had been expecting to go home and announce that the Young plan would become effective September 1 and that the evacuation of the Rhineland would be an accomplished fact within three months.

Officers of the various armies of occupation will be here tomorrow to begin study of the technical details incident to evacuation while the committee of jurists will go to work on the question of whether a committee of control may properly be required by the French.

The possibility of creditors other than Great Britain accepting from Germany part of the annuities due them under the Young plan without agreement with the British has

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Aug. 11. [To the Editor of The Times:] Mr. Ramsay MacDonald says that England got the worst of it in the late war. Say, Ramsay, if any man could figure out who got the worst of it out of the last war he would go down in history with Confucius and Calvin Coolidge. That's one good thing about wars, it takes smarter men to figure out who loses 'em than it does to start 'em.

When China and Russia didn't start this late uprising that leads me to believe that China, as ignorant as they are, and Russia, as dumb as they are, are the two most highly civilized nations on the face of the globe. The more ignorant you are the quicker you fight.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

HOOVER CONCLUDES OUTING

President Due at White House Following Week-end of Relaxation and Birthday Celebration

MADISON (Va.) Aug. 11. (AP)—The quiet of his usual week-end outing broken by the observance of his fifty-fifth birthday, President Hoover was to return to the White House early tomorrow morning after three days of rest at his fishing camp in the mountains near here.

Although heads of two governmental departments—Secretary Hyde of agriculture, and Surgeon-General Cumming of the public health service—were members of the Presidential party, relaxation and not government business has been the keynote of the week-end. To the President, his weekly holidays are means of breaking the strain of White House duties, and he avoided business as much as possible.

Hiking and horseback-riding along the paths surrounding the mountain retreat are usual diversions for Mr. and Mrs. Hoover and their guests. The usual routine was upset this week, however, by the birthday dinner, in which the First Lady and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, wife of the distinguished flyer, were leaders, and a bit of engineering work in which the President led.

Only the men participated in the labor, which consisted of blocking the headwaters of the Rapidan River to provide pools in which trout may gather. Several of the men donned high rubber boots and waded into the stream after large stones and carried them to the dams, where they were set in place by the others.

The party will break camp early tomorrow morning. The President leaves his mountain retreat in time to arrive at his desk during the morning, and the early departure also permits the party to avoid driving in the midday heat.

FORD PLAYS LIFE SAVER IN AUTO CRASH

Car Maker Helps Rescue Three from Fiery Wreck in Front of Hotel

BOSTON, Aug. 12 (Monday.) (Exclusive)—Henry Ford in his shirt sleeves last night assisted in the rescue of two men and a boy from a blazing automobile, after a crash of four machines within 100 yards of the Wayside Inn in Subury had brought death to one person and probable fatal burns to three others.

Mr. Ford was sitting on the front porch of the inn when the accident happened. A second after a large sedan had crashed into the rear of a Boston-to-Worcester bus there was an explosion and a burst of flames.

Without pausing, Mr. Ford, accompanied by the manager of the inn, E. J. Boyer, ran across the field to the new stretch of cement road which he built last year.

Together with occupants of passing automobiles, Mr. Ford and Mr. Boyer assisted in taking the occupants of the blazing car to a place of safety.

ALCOHOL MADE BY COAL GAS

Unlimited Sources of Supply Now Revealed by Experiments Allowed by Prohibition Forces

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—A new and unlimited supply of ethyl alcohol, commonly known as grain alcohol, from nonagricultural sources is disclosed by correspondence passing between Senator Watson, majority leader of the Senate, and Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of prohibition.

The data from official records elicited by Senator Watson's letter for the information of Congress reveal an advance in the application of scientific discovery to industrial accomplishment which is little short of revolutionary. It apparently removes the conclusion of recent years that industrial alcohol might not be equal to the increasing demands of science and industry since the World War.

At present nonedible "blackstrap" molasses from the sugar-cane fields of Cuba is the principal and cheapest source of this alcohol, as this country's supply, chiefly from Louisiana, is negligible; the higher price of corn and other grains make them unavailable to any appreciable extent.

With the success of the operations undertaken by the West Virginia plant under government permit now officially conceded, there remains only the matter of expanding facilities for producing such alcohol from chemicals and gases. As Commissioner Doran observes in his letter to Senator Watson, "the manufacture of alcohol in this manner is only limited by the supply of petroleum and coal, as it is apparent that the manufacturing problem has been solved."

The experiments at South Charleston have been going forward quietly for several months. They were undertaken necessarily under a permit issued by the prohibition bureau, but the Department of Commerce early evinced an interest in the tests and it was partly on the suggestion of that department's experts that the commissioner of prohibition co-operated to the extent of granting the authority which resulted in the production from the first test of 48,000 gallons of synthetic alcohol which Commissioner Doran says, is "the identical chemical compound produced by ordinary fermentation methods from grains and molasses."

EX-HEAD OF MRS. EDDY'S SECT KILLED

David N. McKee, Christian Scientist Leader, Victim of Automobile Crash

YORK (Me.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive) David Newton McKee of Brookline, Mass., Christian Science healer and former head of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, was killed here by an automobile accident on the State highway a mile from this town.

McKee was in an automobile with his wife, Mrs. Clara K. McKee, and a friend, Mrs. Harriet Vincent of Brooklyn, N. Y.

A mile from the spot on the State highway, known as York Corner, an automobile cut out of line behind the McKee car, struck it, and caused the operator to lose control of the machine. A moment later the McKee car collided head-on with another machine and was demolished.

McKee died a few minutes after the accident. His wife was hurt seriously and Mrs. Vincent probably fatally. Both are at the York Hospital, Mrs. Vincent's name being on the danger list.

Following the accident, Mitchell Rosenberg, 15 years of age, of St. Augustine, Fla., was arrested for manslaughter.

McKee was a native of Ohio and a pupil of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of Christian Science. He was a member of the last class taught by her at Concord, N. H., in November, 1898.

He was a graduate of Wabash College at Crawfordsville, Ind., where he received his B.A. and M.A. degrees. He became interested in Christian Science in 1898 and after instruction by Mrs. Eddy practiced healing continuously. He was a former pastor of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Scranton, Pa. He served as first reader of the church in Scranton until 1902. In 1925 he was elected president of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

PLANE FALL KILLS TRIO

Side Slip Blamed for Tragedy

Lieut. Stephens in New Craft Dies With Airport Men at Clovis, N. M.

Desert Hunt for Lost Vent of Cockpit Brings Crash to Bed of Dry Lake

CLOVIS (N. M.) Aug. 11. (AP)—A side slip ending in a crash from a low altitude took the lives of three persons here today, while they were engaged in a hunt for a cockpit vent cover, lost by a United States Army racing pilot shortly after he took off from the Clovis Airport for Cleveland, O.

The dead:

Thomas E. Scully, 32 years of age, manager of the Transcontinental Air Transport field.

Philip Berry, 29, assistant manager of the field.

Lieut. O. L. Stephens, attached to Mitchel Field, Long Island.

The victims apparently were killed instantly when the plane slithered sidewise into a dry lake bed and crumpled up. The machine appeared to have crashed from an altitude of about 100 feet as Lieut. Stephens was putting it into a sharp bank to make a turn. His body was found lying on the wrecked motor, mangled beyond recognition. Scully and Berry, riding in the passenger compartment of the plane, a four-place cabin job, were pinned in the cabin.

FROM LOS ANGELES

Stephens arrived here last night from Los Angeles, flying a new plane which he intended to enter in the Cleveland air races late this month. Shortly after he took off this morning, the vent cover on the cockpit blew off. He turned about and landed at the airport, and with port officials tried to locate the cover afoot, without success.

Stephens with two mechanics then went aloft in his plane to scan the immediate countryside for the cover, but he was again unsuccessful. Landing again, the army flyer took Scully and Berry with him as passengers in a third attempt to find the missing cover. They had proceeded only a short way west of the port in a zig-zag course when Stephens banked the ship for a turn, witnesses said. At the same moment it went into a side slip and fell like a plummet into the lake bed. The machine was demolished.

Scully came to Clovis in March to take charge of the T. A. T. Airport.

LAID OUT AIRPORT

He formerly had been connected with the Department of Commerce airway lighting service at Washington, D. C. Berry came to Clovis early last spring, and was a member of the engineering staff, which laid out the airport. He had been construction engineer for the Roland-Parks Company at Baltimore, Md., before coming west.

Lieut. Stephens was in active army service. He passed through Clovis en route to Los Angeles a few days ago, as a flying companion of Amelia Earhart.

Scully is survived by his widow, who lives at the airport. Berry was single. His mother lives in Baltimore.

STEPHENS ON LEAVE FROM MITCHEL FIELD

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (AP)—Lieut. Orville Stephens, one of three men killed in an airplane crash today at Clovis, N. M., was on leave from Mitchel Field, New York, and had planned next fall to enter the tactical school at Langley Field, Virginia. He was 38 years of age and unmarried.

He enlisted in the American aviation corps during the World War. In 1926 he participated in air reconnaissance during flood-relief work in New England.

YOUTH STABBED TO DEATH

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11. (AP)—William Duncing, 22 years of age, was stabbed to death in a fight on Bush street early today. Raymond McRobbie, 22, and a friend of Duncing, surrendered later to the police and was booked on a charge of murder.

CRASH KILLS THIRTEEN

Truck Struck by Train in Texas

Eight of One Family and Three of Another Die In Grade Smash

Party Had Been on Picnic In Dallas and Machine Was Nearing Home

DALLAS (Tex.) Aug. 11. (AP)—Thirteen persons were killed tonight when the Sunshine Special, crack train of the Texas and Pacific Railroad, struck a truck bearing home a picnic party at a grade crossing leading to the Forney-Terrell highway, twenty miles east of here. The accident virtually wiped out two families. Eleven were killed outright. One died in a Mesquite hospital and one in a hospital at Forney. The fourteenth member of the party, a little girl, was rushed to Dallas and placed on an operating table.

The train pulled ahead a short distance and stopped.

The truck was demolished. Eyewitnesses said it stalled on the track and was struck broadside. Bodies of the truck's occupants were found for several hundred yards along the track, most of them mangled so that identification was difficult at the Forney morgue.

LIST OF DEAD

The dead:

MRS. IVY BADGETT, 46 years of age.
VERA AND EVA BADGETT, twins, 23.
EMMA BADGETT, 19.
TEXAS BADGETT, 16.
BIRDIE BADGETT, 7.
MARY JOE BADGETT, 2.
JESSIE BADGETT, 6.
E. L. HENRY, 55.
MRS. E. L. HENRY, 50.
WILLIE HENRY, 5.
BEULAH HENRY, 16.
— — HENRY, 8.

Sherwood Badgett, about 55, father and husband of eight of the crash victims, is said to have witnessed the accident, which occurred about 150 yards from the Badgett farm home.

The train resumed its eastern trip after a short halt.

J. T. Vawter, the engineer, and G. P. Martin, the conductor, both live at Fort Worth.

Claud Chapman of Mesquite, who said he witnessed the accident, declared the truck halted as though to wait for the train to pass, and then started suddenly just before the locomotive reached the crossing.

SMASHED TO BITS

Destruction of the truck was so nearly complete that news photographers who rushed to the scene reported that there was nothing of which to make a picture except the scene of the accident.

The party had spent the day in a park in Dallas so that the children of the two families might see the animals in the park zoo.

The Badgett home could be reached only by turning from the main Forney-Terrell highway down a lane across the Texas and Pacific right of way. One version of the accident had the truck stalled at a depressed end of a small wooden bridge just at the tracks and then lurched in front of the speeding train.

The only survivor is Mary Lee McHenry, 14. She is in a Dallas hospital, with both legs broken.

FOUR IN NEW YORK KILLED AT CROSSING

COBELSKILL (N. Y.) Aug. 11. (AP) Four persons were killed today at a railroad crossing in Barnerville, north of here. They were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fox, Johnstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Swartz, Gloversville.

ZEPPELIN CREW IMPATIENT

Dirigible Carefully Prepared for Tokio Flight; Start Expected Wednesday Night

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN (Germany) Aug. 11. (AP)—Sunday proved no day of rest for the Zeppelin workers who are preparing the Graf Zeppelin for its second and most difficult stage in its round the world passenger flight.

However much in need of repose the officers and crew may have seemed on arrival Saturday after completion of the second round-trip Atlantic crossing within a year, they all declared their long sleep yesterday afternoon and evening had put them in shape again and were most eager to continue the flight at the earliest possible moment.

"If Dr. Hugo Eckener, the commander, allows us we would rather start Tuesday night than Wednesday," one officer stated. "But of course Dr. Eckener has hitherto always been right when he delayed because something was not quite in order, and so if he decides the Graf Zeppelin will not be in 100 per cent shape by Tuesday night we will simply have to wait."

This officer intimated the start of the flight to Tokio is most likely to occur at midnight on Wednesday.

The officers of the giant dirigible fully realize the gravity of the task ahead of them. They are therefore eliminating everything superfluous to diminish the weight. The comfort of the messes of officers and crew has been reduced to Spartan simplicity.

They also have eliminated everything likely to cause friction and thus retard the progress of the airship. This care for detail has gone to the extent of revarnishing all propellers that their surfaces may be perfectly smooth to afford a minimum of resistance to the air.

For fuel, the Graf Zeppelin will take a maximum supply of Blau gas and a minimum of benzine for three reasons, viz., the engines respond more readily to it; it weighs less, and the ratio of its effectiveness compared with benzine is 140 to 100.

FIRE KILLS SIX IN AUTO WRECK

Chinese Burned to Death in Sacramento Suburb

Driver of Other Car Held Pending Investigation

Victims Were Driving from Wedding in Stockton

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 11. (AP)—Six members of a party of Chinese returning to Sacramento from a wedding in Stockton were burned to death near the capital early today when their automobile collided with another car, overturned and caught fire. Two other Chinese were injured, one perhaps, fatally.

The dead: Harold Lew, medical student at the University of California.

Rose Ah Tye, believed by authorities to have been the bride at a Chinese wedding in Stockton.

Ella Lew.

Oro Chang.

G. S. Pond and wife.

The injured:

Bola Lowe, in a Sacramento hospital with injuries from which he may die.

J. S. Yip, hands burned. Yip returned to Stockton following treatment in Sacramento.

Henry A. Kreuter of Stockton, driver of the automobile with which the Chinese car collided, is being held by Sacramento county authorities today pending completion of their investigation of the accident. He was uninjured.

As nearly as could be ascertained through their preliminary investigation, Sheriff's deputies are inclined to believe that the accident was unavoidable.

The Chinese were driving toward Sacramento, investigation showed, and at Elk Grove, a suburb of Sacramento, collided with Kreuter's machine, plunged from the highway and overturned.

Yip managed to extricate himself and was endeavoring to free his friends of the wrecked automobile when the gasoline tank burst into flames. The heat of the burning fuel drove would-be rescuers back and quickly silenced the screams of the trapped, injured persons.

Traffic Dead in New York for Year Total 1000

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (AP)—The combined Union and Confederate losses at the first battle of Bull Run were less than one-ninth as large as the number killed or injured in 1928 in New York City in highway accidents.

The annual report of the traffic division of the police department disclosed that more than 1000 persons were killed and 45,000 injured in the streets of the metropolis last year.

The losses at Bull Run were 2896 for the Federals and 1982 for the Confederates.

What Determines The Cost of Furs?

THE FIGURE on the price ticket is determined by the original cost of the fur, by the quality of the workmanship, by the integrity of the dealer, and by his cost of doing business.

Arthur W. Isaacs carries only furs of the highest quality. The reason for his noticeably lower prices lies in his location, on the Mezzanine of the Fine Arts Building, instead of an expensive ground floor location. The difference comes to you in the form of very definite savings on fine furs. Comparison will be worth your while.

Arthur W. Isaacs is well known in Los Angeles as former manager of Colburns'. He is an authority on furs and fur styles.

VIRGINIA TRADE MISSION ON WAY

Delegation Will Seek More West Coast Business

Intercoastal Canal Route Will be Boomed

Conferences to be Arranged With Leaders Here

RICHMOND (Va.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive) — Virginia this week launched a definite drive to interest west coast shippers in greater use of intercoastal trade through Hampton Roads when a delegation representing the State and the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce left here via air-rail transportation for the Pacific Coast to hold a series of conferences with West Coast shipping interests.

The delegation is composed of J. Gordon Bohannan, chairman of the State's port authority of Virginia, and the president of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, and Maj. Leroy Hodges, managing director of the organization. Los Angeles and San Francisco, Portland, Or., Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver, B. C., are to be visited during August and early September.

TRAFFIC MOUNTS

Intercoastal traffic via the Panama Canal route during 1928 amounted to 9,361,038 tons, according to figures furnished by Maj. Hodges, but of this tremendous volume of business the Virginia ports handled only 136,020 tons. New York, with 3,663,567 tons to her credit, represented more than twice the volume handled either at Philadelphia or Baltimore, and the Virginia ports considered as one unit ranked seventh, below Boston, New Orleans and Mobile.

According to the Virginia State Chamber the major portion of West Coast business of the Virginia ports in 1928 was from San Francisco, with Los Angeles, Seattle and Portland following in the order named, although Los Angeles considerably exceeded San Francisco in 1927 in Hampton Roads business.

Because shipments to Virginia ports were greatest in lumber, totaling in 1928 a tonnage of 14,769, special attention will be given by the Virginians to this commodity.

Possibilities for the development of the shipment of canned and dried fruits which last year totaled 9785 tons to Virginia ports, will also be considered.

CALL ON LEADERS

On the list of those the Virginians hope to confer with in San Francisco are C. L. Tilden, president of the Board of State Harbor Commissioners; Almer M. Newhall, president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce; Capt. Robert Dollar of the Dollar Line; Capt. C. W. Saunders of the Matson Navigation Company, and many others. During the trip port authorities in cities named and the personnel of committees handling commercial matters for local and State chambers of commerce will be interviewed.

One important matter for discussion on the West Coast, Maj. Hodges said, will be the shipment of commodities produced and assembled in the Hampton Roads area, to the West Coast. Maj. Hodges said that Virginia realizes that the port area producing tonnage suitable for intercoastal shipment is at present small, but he pointed out the fact that the shipment of leaf tobacco and cigarettes to the Pacific Coast from the Virginia ports totaled 23,512 tons last year, more than doubling shipments of the same commodities in 1927.

Shipments of steel, chemicals, provisions and cotton manufacturing will be discussed.

DANCER IGNORES RICHMAN DENIALS

Ellen Franks

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Ellen Franks, professional dancer, remained undaunted today in the face of reports from Hollywood quoting Harry Richman, New York night-club owner and fiance of Clara Bow, as saying he does not know her, despite the $250,000 damage suit she has filed against him.

In the action, on file in Federal court here, the girl accuses Richman of having drugged and beaten her on a railroad train. Trial of the suit is held up pending the service on Richman of a summons requiring him to appear here and defend it.

been considered with relation to evacuation of the Rhineland. If it is found possible to make a separate arrangement of that sort then the French might agree to take French troops out of German territory. The weakness of this proposal lies in the fact that it lacks the guarantee of a united front by Germany's creditors.

The general discussion of the Young plan probably will be concluded at tomorrow morning's session of the financial committee after which may come the demand by Mr. Snowden for a vote on his resolution to appoint a committee to revise the plan.

MacDONALD INDORSES SNOWDEN'S SPEECH

LONDON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald has sent a telegram to Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden at The Hague conference on reparations indorsing the latter's speech of last Thursday and emphasizing that he has the support of the whole country. This telegram will be produced at the meeting of the financial committee tomorrow.

The Mail quotes the Premier as saying, "In view of statements so widely spread on the Continent that Mr. Snowden was bluffing, I want to make it perfectly clear that the claims he is making that Great Britain has now come to the limit of bearing unfair burdens had all of our support. I stated that that was so irrespective of party."

Mr. Snowden has insisted that Great Britain cannot accept the reduction in the Spa quota for division of reparations proposed in the Young plan and considers that this question must be settled before the conference can proceed to discussion of other details.

The Express quotes David Lloyd George, leader of the Liberal party, as saying, "I fully approve of the stand taken by Mr. Snowden and hope, and am firmly convinced, he will stick to it."

SNOWDEN SCORED BY FRENCH NEWSPAPERS

PARIS, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—France is more shocked at "the unprecendented impudence" of British Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden's outbreak yesterday, than at the grave international consequences which are inevitable unless a miracle is performed tomorrow. The front page of every newspaper in Paris—and there are no less than thirty—today splashed indignant headlines decrying the unparalleled "insolence" of the little lame Yorkshire man who dared to come out and say what he thought instead of stalling around for several days and concealing his attitude behind a verbal smoke screen." A few of the journals that go deeper into the question of politeness make no attempt to refute the Chancellor's figures, contenting themselves with arguments based on pure sentimentality—the same tactics as were employed for many months when these newspapers were engaged in opposing ratification of the American debt accords.

In the meantime that old scoundrel, "Uncle Shylock," has been entirely forgotten and "John Bull" has suddenly assumed the role of usurper who is cold-bloodedly demanding his pound of flesh.

The governmental newspaper, Le Temps, which carries the greatest weight, starts out with a leading editorial identical in tone with the less responsible journals, declaring that Mr. Snowden "shows a lack of political maturity if he naively believes that political negotiations can be carried out in the same tone as an election campaign." Like other newspapers, Le Temps also is inclined to be skeptical of Mr. Snowden's explanation that his words were less injurious in English than in French. The injury is not so much in the words as in the attitude taken, the brutal gesture of refusing to discuss arguments to which France is opposed and to qualify them as "ridiculous" and "grotesque."

A semiofficial newspaper, however, probes the question deeper and asserts that the entente cordiale itself is endangered by Mr. Snowden's words, calling upon England to save the situation and declaring that if the conference is broken up Great Britain will suffer more than the continental countries.

Upholding of the French thesis of the Young plan cannot be tampered with, the newspaper concludes. Whatever happens, it would be better to abandon the entire problem than to risk a distorting solution by revision of the experts plan, which again would bring up all the basical questions, which made the accords so difficult to realize.

GROWERS FORM NATIONAL BODY

Fruit and Vegetable Groups In $50,000,000 Venture

Co-operative Marketing on Vast Scale Proposed

Work to be in Accord With Farm Board Policies

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (AP)—Formation of the United Growers of America, a nation-wide fruit and vegetable growers' co-operative marketing organization, to work in harmony with the Agricultural Marketing Act and in accordance with the policies of the Federal Farm Board, was announced here today. The association will have an authorized capitalization of $50,000,000.

The new organization, with executive offices in New York, will have as members several smaller independent associations located in various parts of the country. It will maintain a domestic and foreign sales service for the joint use of the co-operative associations and growers' organizations.

LEADERS IN VENTURE

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be chairman of the board. Other directors include Robert W. Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal and a leader in the co-operative movement in the South; William M. Jardine, former Secretary of Agriculture; Arthur H. Rule, executive vice-president of the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, and Gray Silver of Martinsburg, W. Va., former Lieutenant-Governor of that State and long associated with the American Farm Bureau. Additional directors will be named soon.

Plans for the operation of the new association do not contemplate any absorption or change in the existing co-operating growers' associations, the announcement says.

ORGANIZATION AIM

The purpose of the United Growers of America is to strengthen such local organizations by obtaining for them a more complete marketing service, adequate credit and other advantages not now accessible. The organizations becoming associated with the United Growers of America will continue to function in their respective local fields.

The announcement says a large number of co-operative associations, both national and local in character, have pledged their tonnage and financial support in the organization of the United Growers and that pledges already received provide for many thousands of carloads of fruits and vegetables for shipment to the domestic and foreign trade.

It is stated that there need be no fear of any so-called food trust in the formation and operation of the United Growers, as the organization is formed in compliance with the Agricultural Marketing Act and the Capper-Volstead Co-operative Marketing Act.

NORTHWEST STILL FACES FIRE PERILS

Old Blazes Break Bounds as 80,000 Acres of Waste Mark Wake of Destruction

SPOKANE (Wash.) Aug. 11. (AP) The critical period of the Northwest's forest-fire season entered into its third week today as blazes in Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Canada have left a charred trail of some 80,000 acres in area in their wake.

Forest officials and protective associations directing more than 4000 men in the terrific battle to save vast stands of merchantable pine, fir and spruce, as well as towns and rich agricultural lands, are unable to predict how many more acres will be ravaged as uncontrolled fires still are raging in most national preserves and private holdings in the region.

Last night a month-old fire on the edge of the Nez Perce Indian reservation, near Lapwai, Idaho, jumped out of fire lines patrolled by Indian rangers to menace the rich wheat region of the Camas prairies. Farmers called their hands from the fields to fight the blaze, which was being aided by heavy winds.

The Bald Mountain blaze in the Selway forest of Idaho is one of the most obstinate in the region. After having been alternately under and out of control for nearly two weeks, it has taken on new life and is spreading at the rate of 400 acres a day. It had burned over more than 2000 acres last night.

In the Chelan Forest of Central Washington, the Rainier Forest of Western Washington, the Butte and Missoula preserves of Montana and in Klamath county, Oregon, forest officials are pleading for additional men to check the blazes before they devastate more thousands of acres. In many sections over-ripe grain is being neglected in the fields, while harvest crews join the fire fighters.

The worst blaze in Manitoba, Canada, in ten years was reported under control yesterday after having menaced the town of Rennie.

RESERVE BOARD MOVE SCANNED

Financial World Dubious of Rediscount Advance

Visit of Bank of England Official Coincident

Congressional Investigation of Policies Looms

ing for Europe only about ten days before the Federal Reserve Board reversed the policy which it had pursued since last spring, when it flatly refused to grant the requests of the New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia banks for permission to increase rediscount rates.

YEARLY CUSTOM

While members of the Federal Reserve Board have denied seeing the Bank of England official while he was in the United States it is taken for granted that he was in touch with some one connected with the Federal Reserve system. Formerly, during the life of the late Benjamin Strong, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, it was customary for Mr. Norman and Mr. Strong to hold annual conferences, either in this country or in Europe. Usually they were joined by officials of the governmental banking institutions of France and Germany.

Since the death of Mr. Strong a year or more ago George L. Harrison, his successor as head of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, is credited with having maintained contact with Mr. Norman and other European financial powers. It is believed that Mr. Harrison was in touch with Mr. Norman during his recent visit.

Reports emanating from London since Mr. Norman's return have indicated that he arranged while in this country for a credit of $600,000,000 for use if needed in maintaining British gold reserves, which have been diminishing at a rate causing some degree of concern. A similar credit was arranged by Mr. Norman through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York with the approval of the Federal Reserve Board when the Bank of England re-established the gold standard a few years ago. Thus far there has been neither admission nor denial from Federal Reserve officials as to the correctness of the London reports.

COINCIDENCE, ANYWAY

Just what part Mr. Norman may have played in the Federal Reserve Board's decision to permit an increase in rediscount rates, if any, has not been made entirely clear. While resisting an increase in rediscount rates throughout the spring and summer, members of the board offered as one objection, that it would force similar advances abroad, particularly in England, where industries could not with ease support higher interest rates.

Unless the Bnk of England increased its rate also, it was asserted, it could not protect its gold supply. The news of the increase of the New York rate was received somewhat unfavorably in England on the theory that it might force higher rates there. Mr. Norman, however, announced that the Bank of England will for the present maintain its rate of 5 1-2 per cent. The advance in New York rate was from 5 to 6 per cent.

Whether members of the Federal Reserve Board came to the conclusion that other factors made it imperative for them to permit the New York bank to increase its rate regardless of the effect upon European finance, or whether the reported arrangements of the Bank of England for a $500,000,000 credit in this country had something to do with it, are matters of speculation.

CONNECTION ADMITTED

Ever since the Federal Reserve Board forced the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank to lower its rediscount rate in the fall of 1927 as a means of helping the European gold situation, members of the board have admitted that their policies are interwoven with considerations affecting international finance. An upheaval in the membership of the board followed the controversy over the Chicago rate, Roy A. Young succeeding D. R. Crissinger as governor. Mr. Young, after a year on the board, made it known last fall that he had become convinced that it was desirable to take cognizance of European financial problems in the determination of policies.

"The conclusion that I have reached during the year that I have been with the Federal Reserve Board, is that participation in world affairs is a matter of enlightened self-interest for the United States," said Mr. Young, who, before his appointment by President Coolidge, was governor of the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank.

POWER FOR PEACE

"I feel confident that a similar attitude toward international co-operation prevails among the authorities of the principal European central banks. The mutual respect and confidence which have developed as a result of joint undertakings by the central banks and the consideration shown by them for each other's problems and difficulties augur well for the maintenance of cordial relations between nations; in other words, peace and world prosperity."

FIRE LOSS REDUCED

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (AP)—Evidence that fire losses in the United States are definitely on the down grade, after more than a quarter century of warnings, is cited in a report by the Underwriters' Laboratories. "Within the last two years," says the report, "the annual fire loss has dropped from $550,000,000 to $472,000,000."

FLOOD OF ILLEGAL BEER BLAMED ON LAW'S LAXITY

Honest Brewers Not Safeguarded Against Crooked Plants, Says Mrs. Willebrandt

OVER THE BORDER

[illegible] futility of periodic "drives" in the border towns while cor[illegible] of the officials and stupid departmental jealousies exist [illegible] pointed out by Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant [illegible] States Attorney-General in charge of prohibition, in her [illegible] revelation of legal smuggling across the Canadian [illegible], in the ninth article, "The Border Leak," appearing in [illegible] issue of The Times.

[illegible] a cash business, made no [illegible] and though manufactur[illegible] an synthetic cereal beverage [illegible] were able to keep going [illegible] of finance apparently sound! [illegible] her racketeer calmly ad[illegible] the assistant administrator [illegible] Philadelphia that he was the [illegible] beer cheater" in the State [illegible] Pennsylvania, and that if he, [illegible] administrator, would [illegible] with his forces for about [illegible] he would shoot enough [illegible] hold them for a month. [illegible] modern brewer also de[illegible] himself of the statement [illegible] would "shoot beer any time [illegible] could get away with it." [illegible] operated in Pennsyl[illegible] as follows:

[illegible] WATCHED

[illegible] regular beer is manufactured [illegible] the brewery sends out its [illegible]," or spies who determine [illegible] of government officers. [illegible] coast is clear, the regular [illegible] quickly "shot" out to what [illegible] "drops," the latter be[illegible] garages, or other convenient [illegible] places, located about the [illegible].

[illegible] the past year, prohibition [illegible] officers in Philadel[illegible] unearthed a syndicate which [illegible] its purpose, the supplying [illegible] concerning activities [illegible] officers to breweries. [illegible] organization was found to [illegible] some seven or eight [illegible] of the prohibition organi[illegible]. [illegible] had three offices, one in a [illegible] to Philadelphia op[illegible] ostensibly as a radio shop, [illegible] others up-State. Former [illegible] agents, employed by this [illegible], were stationed out[illegible] the entrance to the prohibi[illegible] headquarters. It was their [illegible] check in all prohibition [illegible] as they reported in the [illegible]. This information would [illegible] to the city adjacent to [illegible] and thence up-State, [illegible] would, of course, be used [illegible].

[illegible] TRIED TO BE GOOD

[illegible] method breweries have [illegible] in other sections, to defeat [illegible] was the supplying to near[illegible] products con[illegible] the one-half of 1 per [illegible], but accompanied [illegible] supplies of alcohol which [illegible] "needled" or "shot" into the [illegible] of near beer as served.

[illegible] difficulties would have [illegible] had the government [illegible] fairly and in a [illegible] manner with established [illegible] when prohibition took effect. Brewers had large investments in plant and equipment and during the first two or three years of prohibition most of them made an honest effort to deal squarely with the government, converting plants to other uses, building up a demand for near beer and disposing of the excess alcohol taken from the beer in a legal manner. Had the government adopted a forward-looking policy and protected the established breweries from fly-by-night competition fostered by politicians, there would have been less leaks from the breweries.

Instead, however, of restricting brewing permits as far as possible to old line dependable concerns, prohibition executives have too often construed the law as making any person with a nice clean face and no guns sticking out of his pockets, eligible to enjoy such privileges after, of course, making application in due form and most important of all, bringing along with the application an indorsement of a Congressman, alderman, or some other politician. Many of these new companies had little invested in the enterprise, knew little or nothing about the brewery business, and were unreliable in every way. The sole object, of course, was to keep about three jumps ahead of the law and while cutting in on the profits of the old-established breweries, they not only surreptitiously sold near beer, the kind with the "kick," but in addition supplied large quantities of alcohol to whisky bootleggers and carried on information agencies and "bribing" on the side.

EASY PERMITS

The law provides that before a permit of any nature is issued prohibition authorities must make a careful investigation of persons who made application therefore. The character of some of the investigations made were ridiculous in the extreme. The general run of such inquiries would constitute interviewing the chief of police, a banker, and a few other persons whom the applicant himself had probably named. Under such circumstances one can well imagine that the applicant would be painted in colors of a most attractive hue.

I think one of the most ingenious evasions of law is that involved in the manufacture of "wort." The manufacture of this commodity and its sale to "wildcat" or "alley" breweries originated and has flourished extensively in Chicago and in the eastern district of Wisconsin, especially around Milwaukee.

I appreciate the fact that the word "wort" will not sound particularly palatable or cheering to the average reader, either prohibition or antiprohibition. Let me explain, then, that "wort" is a brew. It is, in fact, unfermented beer or liquid malt that contains no alcohol and is used only in the process of manufacturing beer. "Wort" is just like beer, except that the manufacturing process ends before yeast is added.

Now for a secret that is probably no secret at all to my antiprohibition readers, if such there be, to make beer from "wort" it is necessary only to add yeast, ferment it, filter and you have beer of alcoholic content. Only one reason exists for the manufacture of "wort," and that is to make it easy for red-blooded American citizens who must have their beer fortified by preprohibition "authority," to secure it readily and quickly. The manufacture of "wort" itself, in view of the fact that it has no alcoholic content, is not illegal, but there are scores of "wildcat" or "alley" breweries that, supplied with "wort" by larger and old established breweries operating legally themselves, quickly turn out real beer without fear of detection by prohibition agents.

Truly, the ingenuity of those who crave a drink is only exceeded by that of those who are willing to supply the wherewithal to satisfy the craving.

DORAN TO MEET GRAPE GROWERS

Dry Chief Plans to Depart for Coast This Week

Wine Regulation Changes Slated for Discussion

McReynolds Survey Also Due for His Attention

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of prohibition, plans to leave Washington for California the latter part of this week to confer with various growers concerning a recodification of the bureau's regulations on sacramental and medicinal wines. Authentic indications are that one of the chief purposes of his trip is to discuss with Frank R. McReynolds, field supervisor of the bureau, a survey McReynolds is making among the growers.

Conferences Mr. Doran will have with McReynolds either in California or in some intermediate place yet to be decided upon, are expected to have a far-reaching effect on the bureau's future attitude toward the beverage manufacturers. Furthermore, these conferences are expected to develop whether there is evidence to substantiate reports that in some cases of manufacture there is conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

RECODIFICATION AIM

The bureau's recodification of regulations is for the purpose of incorporating old provisions for the payment of taxes on wines and comprises a new study of the relation of sacramental and medicinal wines to beverages, respecting storage privileges and withdrawals especially. The document comprises about sixty pages, the proofs of which only recently have been delivered to Dr. Doran.

The survey conducted by McReynolds at Commissioner Doran's request has less to do with the recodification than with the broad subject of the great increase in manufacture of beverages from grapes since prohibition. Unofficial Washington has had reports in the recent past that certain concerns were manufacturing so-called wines and cordials whose alcoholic content agreed with the requirement of law, but which improved noticeably with age.

Figures are not available to show the aggregate value of beverages manufactured from grapes, but the value of grapes converted into grape juice alone was $5,233,133 in 1927, as revealed by Department of Commerce records. Before 1927 the grape industry was not accounted for individually in the manufactures census, its products being grouped with fruit beverages.

HARRIS'S PLANS

McReynolds's investigation is in the nature of a "fact-finding survey." He has conferred with officials of the leading manufactories and has visited Lloyd S. Tenny, president of the California Vineyardists' Association at Fresno. Tenny, who is in Washington seeking financial relief for the growers from the Federal Farm Board, said today he has not been advised of any findings in the investigation.

Increased appropriations for prohibition enforcement will be sought at the regular session of Congress by Senator Harris of Georgia, one of the leading Southern drys. Senator Harris has just returned from his State and is here to get ready for the consideration of the tariff and other matters after the Senate reassembles.

Senator Harris, in the last session of Congress, stirred up much contention and interest by sponsoring an amendment to add $25,000,000 to the appropriation for prohibition enforcement. That additional sum was not deemed necessary by either the President or Secretary of the Treasury Mellon at the time. After much debate and controversy there was a compromise under which nearly $3,000,000 was added to the sums previously allowed for dry enforcement.

Senator Harris said today the additional sums allowed last winter unit.

NAVY SPEED ACE TO TRY LUCK TODAY

Bent Propeller of Racing Plane Repaired so Tests by Williams Can go on

ANNAPOLIS (Md.) Aug. 11. (AP) With the bent propeller of his little Mercury seaplane racer repaired, Lieut. Al Williams, navy flyer, hopes to determine tomorrow whether he has created the fastest craft ever built.

Test flights planned for Saturday on the Severn River near here by which Williams expected to decide whether he will take the ship abroad to compete for the Schneider international seaplane trophy September 6 and 7, were postponed after it was found that the propeller had been bent slightly in taxiing tests.

The blade was removed and sent to the Anacostia naval air station at Washington to be straightened.

Williams said the first flight probably will be only of two or three minutes' duration, after which he will give himself time to analyze the plane's performance before going up for speed trials. The speed tests will be over a measured course, and the little monoplane must exceed the world's record of 318 miles an hour if it is to be taken abroad.

FAKE INDIAN BLANKET LABELS TO BE BARRED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Indian blankets, the Federal Trade Commission believes, should be made by Indians if they are to be labeled as such. The commission announced today that a corporation, the name of which was not made public, has agreed to cease "use of the words 'Indian blanket' in its advertisements to represent the products sold by it, and from use of the word 'Indian' in any other way in connection with the sale of its blankets so as to imply that the product is in truth an Indian blanket."

Sacramento Given Thrill By Three Stern Wheelers Churning Up River

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Familiar faces along Sacramento's river front got a thrill yesterday when three large stern-wheel freight steamers, entirely unannounced, put on a three-mile race up the river for the benefit of four film companies.

RANKIN HOP FOR MEXICO DUE TODAY

Start Planned Yesterday but Mists at Vancouver Prevent Take-Off

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Aug. 11. (AP) Tex Rankin, American airman who had planned a nonstop flight from Vancouver to Agua Caliente, Mex., did not get away today as planned, but expects to hop off for Mexico tomorrow morning, he said. Heavy ground mist and smoke hovered over the Lulu Island airport early today, preventing Rankin from taking off.

RANKIN'S ASSOCIATES HERE LEARN OF POSTPONEMENT

Fog held J. G. (Tex) Rankin in Vancouver, B. C., yesterday morning and forced him to postpone his take-off for a nonstop flight to Agua Caliente until 3:45 a.m. today, it was stated at Rankin's local headquarters at Los Angeles Metropolitan Airport.

Southern California's second air-record attempt also was postponed when it was decided to change the exhaust arrangement on the motor of the Emsco B-3 cabin monoplane before taking off from the Long Beach Municipal Airport on a seventy-five-hour nonrefueling hop.

The Emsco will take to the air next Wednesday at 6 a.m. with Jack Reid, chief pilot of the Emsco Aircraft Corporation, and Emory B. Bronte, navigator on the Bronte-Smith flight to the Hawaiian Islands two years ago, at the controls. The two flyers plan to go after the world's nonrefueling record of sixty-five hours and twenty-five minutes, held by two Germans.

Rankin is expected to pass over Los Angeles Metropolitan Airport and Grand Central Air Terminal about 4 p.m. today on his way southward. He will be escorted to his border destination by several planes from local airdromes. He is flying a light biplane and will have 102 gallons of gasoline aboard at the take-off. It is a 1200-mile trip and Rankin expects to make it in thirteen hours.

Export Value of Second Quarter Close to Record

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Exports from the United States during the second quarter of 1929 were valued at $1,204,000,000, the highest figure reached for this period since 1920.

At the same time, the Commerce Department announced today, imports aggregated $1,164,000,000, the largest amount for any quarter since 1920, with the exception of the first three months of 1926.

The increase in exports, the Commerce Department said, resulted chiefly from larger sales of manufactured articles and was especially notable since exports of crude materials showed a considerable reduction.

Orphans of Sky Blaze Into Theater of Earth's Air

"Tears of St. Lawrence" Put on Show Every Year

You May Get Smacked but It's Not Very Likely

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Aug. 12. (Monday) (AP)—Between midnight and dawn today the earth whirled into the midst of a shower of "the tears of St. Lawrence," the brightest meteoric display of the year. Dr. Willard J. Fisher of the Harvard University Observatory explained all about it here yesterday.

This shower, consisting presumably of the debris of comets and radiating from the constellation Perseus, will be visible about two months. It has been an annual visitant since ancient times.

Millions of fragments fly into the earth's atmosphere at a greater speed than the earth travels, blaze a brief trail across the visible heavens and then disintegrate into dust and ashes. Very rarely do meteors reach the surface of the earth, Dr. Fisher said, although the larger lumps could do great damage.

The only authenticated case of a person being struck by a meteor, was that of a Franciscan monk killed in Milan on September 4, 1511, he said. There have been some narrow escapes and last fall a dispatch told of two men killed by a meteor at Knath, India.

The northeast sky from midnight to dawn is the theater of the Perseid shower.

SCIENCE BREAKS JUNGLE BARRIER

Amazonian Fastness Invaded by First White Man

Rare Plant Life Collected for Field Museum

Exporer Eats Monkey Meat; Periled by Denizens

CHICAGO, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Amazonian jungles said by Indian natives never before to have been penetrated by any white man now have been explored by Llewellyn Williams of the botanical staff of Field Museum of Natural History, who is leading a division of the Marshall Field, Jr., botanical expedition to the Amazon, according to a report received from him today. Accompanied only by several Inca Indians, Mr. Williams made a trip by canoe and afoot for some 325 miles into the interior of the Nanay region of the Amazon and its tributary, the Rio Nanay. Mr. Williams is collecting exotic arboreal and plant material for addition to the foreign woods and plants collections of the museum.

Going into the jungle with provision packs on their backs bush knives on one hip and snake poison antitoxin on the other hip, Mr. Williams and his party of Indians pushed their way up the Nanay River in canoes and on foot along the river banks steadily for six days and nights. Camps were made in abandoned Indian huts of palm leaves. The brush knives were used frequently to cut a path through the tick tangles of tropical vegetation, which often were impassable. Often it was necessary to wade for miles knee-deep in mud and water and frequently it was necessary to swim across streams.

ESTABLISH CAMP

Arriving finally at a good ground for botanical collecting, camp was pitched in a rude, hastily constructed hut, which became scientific headquarters for the next ten days. Provisions ran short and it was necessary to shoot monkeys, tapirs, squirrels and various birds for food.

"I was surprised to find monkey meat so appetizing, and the Indians regard it as a delicacy," writes Mr. Williams.

Outstanding among the trees from which specimens were obtained are the "palo de asucar" or "sugar tree," so-called because of the presence in the bark of a sweet edible resin with the consistency of real sugar and the "palo deaceite" or "palo de manteca," which means "yard tree." The latter previously known only to the Indians, execrates an oily substance which in appearance, taste, consistency and other properties is a close affinity to the lard rendered from animal fats, Mr. Williams writes.

ANT AND BAT ENEMIES

Mr. Williams and his party suffered minor injuries when their canoe collided with a log while shooting some rapids in the Nanay River. On another occasion while sawing the trunk of a rare tree, they were attacked by a swarm of vicious ants living in the tree, which stung them from head to foot and caused a severe fever for two days. At another camp the men were attacked while asleep by vampire bats, which without causing any pain to wake them sucked considerable blood from their veins, leaving them to find themselves in a weakened condition upon arising from their slumbers.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

POR EL PROFESOR RAMON GUERRERO

En la Sección III del Capítulo XII de sus Apuntaciones Críticas sobre el Lenguaje Bogotano, y bajo el epígrafe de "Voces Extranjeras", menciona el ilustre filólogo, don Rufino J. Cuervo, muchas de las que malamente se han introducido en la conversación y los escritos de la gente de habla española. Transcribo a continuación las observaciones del señor Cuervo, pues las juzgo de bastante utilidad para los que estudian el castellano:

Los objetos que en un país tienen su nombre propio, con frecuencia lo conservan al ser introducidos en otro, y muchas veces es imposible buscarles denominación nacional que con igual precisión represente la idea. Diariamente lo vemos en todos los ramos de la vida social, sin que para evitarlo valgan quejas o protestas. Sucede también que con la permanencia en países extranjeros o con la lectura de sus libros se acostumbran algunos a cierta manera de expresar las ideas, y se figuran que en la lengua nativa no hay modo de significar lo mismo; en lo cual se engañan las más veces. Es también caso común el de muchos que, por moda o por gana de mostrar que conocen los usos o cosas extranjeras, encajan voces exóticas, que a la gente sensata parecen ridículas. Finalmente, traductores hay que entienden poquísimo las lenguas extranjeras, y ponen a bulto lo que pueden. Inútil sería enumerar estos casos posibles, o individualmente reales, y más todavía inventarios, como a menudo lo hizo Baralt, traduciendo él mismo los ejemplos del diccionario francés de Beacherelle. En su lugar hemos censurado o discutido acepciones o locuciones afrancesadas; en seguida vamos a exponer algunas voces forasteras que con alguna frecuencia se oyen o se ven escritas entre nosotros, y cuya inutilidad es notoria.

"Acápite" por "párrafo", "aparte", es puro latín, pues como nos lo indicó nuestro amigo el señor Uricoechea, hubo de tomarse de las palabras "a capite", con las cuales se significaría que había de continuar la escritura "desde la cabeza" del renglón, y no seguir de la mitad: sería algo semejante al francés "alinéa". "A más del punto final suelen ponerse varios "apartes" en las cartas y en toda clase de escritos. Esta división, que consiste en no acabar el renglón final del último período, y en empezar el siguiente más adentro de la plana que todos los demás, se llama 'sangría', y sólo debe usarse cuando se va a diverso asunto, o bien a considerar el mismo bajo un aspecto diferente" (Academia, "Ortografía").

"Quorum", voz con que se designa el número de individuos cuya presencia se requiere para que sean válidos los actos de un cuerpo colegiado, es un latín que hemos tomado de los ingleses, y éstos de la fórmula con que se nombraban ciertos jueces cuya presencia era necesaria para constituir tribunal ("quorum vos, A, B, C, D, etc., unum esse volumus": de los cuales queremos que vos, A, B, C, D, etc., seáis uno. "The Stanford Dictionary").

Son voces francesas que facilísimamente podemos evitar: "avalancha" o "avalanche" (lurte o alud: "Rodó, causando estragos, hasta el fondo del precipicio, como el 'alud' que desciende de las cumbres". Núñez de Arce, "Gritos del combate", prefacio); "condolencia" (pésame); "crinolina" (miriñaque); "comité" (comisión, junta); "chicana" (sofistería, triquiñuela, argucia); "debutar" (estrenarse); "diplómata" (diplomático); "elucubración" (lucubración); "enrolar" (alistar, afiliar); "etiqueta" (rótulo, rotulata, marbete); "finanzas" (hacienda pública, caudal. La Academia ha admitido "financiero"); "harmonium" (armonio); "leontina" (cadena de reloj); "liana" (bejuco); "mistificar", "mistificación" (embaucar, embaucamiento, farsa); "mobiliario" (moblaje, mueblaje, menaje. La Academia lo admite como adjetivo en el sentido de mueble; por lo común con relación a los efectos públicos al portador o trasferibles por endoso); "paltó" (la Academia, "paletó"); "panfleto" (folleto, y a veces, libelo); "petipieza" (sainete); "portafolio" (cartera); "premunirse" (precaverse); "punzó" (rojo muy subido); "radiar" (borrar de la lista militar); "rango" (clase, categoría); "rolo" ("rouleau", rodo o rodillo de imprenta); "renta viajera" (renta vitalicia); "revancha" (desquite).

Debemos hacer notar que algunas de las anteriores voces, que cita como barbarismos el señor Cuervo, han recibido ya carta de naturalización en la última edición del diccionario académico. Tales son, "condolencia", en la acepción de "pésame"; "mobiliario", en la de "moblaje"; y "punzó", en la de rojo muy subido. No recuerdo si también ha sancionado "comité".

Con "marrón", sigue diciendo el señor Cuervo, nombre francés mal entendido, llamamos los papeles en que se envuelve el cabello para que tome rizo; con otro nombre francés, "papillote" o "papillota", los designan los españoles: "Supo que sus cartas paraban en 'papillotes' para los rizos" (Gil y Zárate, "El Entremetido", acto I, escena IV). "Objetivo", aun como voz de la estrategia, le parece pedantesco a Almirante; ¿qué diremos cuando se usa por lo que llanamente decimos objeto, meta, fin? "Reyedad", como traducción de "royauté" (realdad, realeza), es barbarismo que se ha usado entre nosotros. Cuando en un periódico vimos una "sección de reclamos" y la recorrimos, picada la curiosidad de saber qué se reclamaba, nos llevamos el chasco de encontrar que con aquel "reclamo" se quería decir anuncio laudatorio, que es lo que en francés significa "la réclame", "une réclame". Siempre hemos oído como voz de costura "surjete" (surjet): no sabemos el equivalente castellano.

Wounded Man Spots Bandit

LONGVIEW (Wash.) Aug. 11. (AP) Lying seriously wounded in a hospital here today, C. G. Alexander, shot Friday by a lone bandit in an attempted hold-up in his store, identified Gunnar Schefstrom, 25 years of age, as the man who shot him.

Doctors said last night that Alexander has an even chance for recovery. The bullet passed through his body and was found buried in the floor of the store.

FEEBLE-MINDED FIREBUG FOUND

Setting Sonoma State Home Blaze Admitted

Youth Caught After Hiding All Night in Hills

Four Other Boys Declared to be Implicated

ELDRIDGE, Aug. 11. (AP)—Hibbard Huston, 15 years of age, inmate of the Sonoma state home for the feeble-minded here, was arrested at El Verano and confessed that he set the fire which yesterday afternoon permitted the escape of several of the inmates including himself and did damage estimated at $100,000.

Under questioning by Dr. Fred O. Butler, medical superintendent of the home, Huston readily admitted having touched a match to a bunch of oil-soaked rags stuck into a partition in the attic above the third floor.

He implicated four other boys he said knew of the plan to burn the building.

The four he named are Warren Foote, 20, Lester Shades, 36, Peter Stefano, 26, and Earl Baker, 20.

Huston told the superintendent that in the confusion after the start of the fire he managed to get into the home of an attendant, where he stole clothes and a little money. Then he fled to the hills, where he remained until this morning. In the meantime all the other inmates who escaped were recaptured, and peace authorities had been warned to watch for him.

Getting hungry, the boy decided to go to a store and buy food with the money he had taken. He was seen by Deputy Sheriff Emmet Mullin as he left the store, placed under arrest, and brought back to the home here.

This was the third attempt to burn the institution in the past two months. Blazes had been found twice in the basement, but each time soon enough to prevent serious damage. Yesterday's fire was in the north wing of the administration building, which houses about 300 boys and young men.

WARRIOR SCOFFS AT POWER OF REDS

Marshal Chang

the war-lord business in Canton six years ago.

The Nationalists and the soviet army may agree on paper for the restoration of the fifty-fifty basis on the Chinese Eastern, but neither the young marshal nor the redoubtable Chang Tso-lin, his father, ever give up anything without a fight.

When the Changs speak it is through the "reeking tubes" of their artillery; and what they write is written in blood.

This may sound like idle boast on the other side of the Pacific, but in Manchuria it is a tragic reality.

PRIOR PREDICTION

In an article written some weeks ago from Peking after I had interviewed the young marshal twice, and talked with members of his staff in Mukden, I said that Chang had the best drilled and equipped army in Eastern Asia and that he was likely to test its mettle.

Moreover, his recent action has added immensely to his popularity, both north and south of the wall. While young China of the Kuomintang—the Nationalist party—has been holding parades, making speeches and issuing pamphlets as demonstrations against the foreigners, Chang has acted. He has seized a foreign concession that really is worth the taking.

I cannot give a synopsis of neutral opinion here; for there are no neutrals. All but the Reds and their sympathizers are with the young marshal. The Reds on the Chinese Eastern, whenever they were off duty, were busily engaged spreading the soviet propaganda.

Young Chang sat grimly for twelve months behind the electrically charged barbed wire defenses of his Mukden castle and waited.

SEIZURES ORDERED

Then came the order to seize the papers in the soviet Consulate at Harbin; to be followed swiftly with the seizure of the Chinese Eastern, and the imprisonment or deportation of all the Reds in sight.

The nonchalance with which he acted has left all China gasping. The day the final seizure was made Chang was in Peking, in conference with Chiang, military head of the Kuomintang, and Gov. Yen of Shansi. The affair was too trivial to necessitate his actual presence in Manchuria. He now is spending his summer vacation at a seaside resort, not deeming his actual presence in Manchuria necessary. A trivial affair like kicking out the Reds is only a detail for his subordinates.

But do not fancy he is facing the Reds empty-handed. Under his command are the veteran troops that his father brought back with him last year from Peking. It is estimated here that he has 400,000 men under arms in Manchuria. There are now 50,000 of his troops in Heilung and Kirin provinces, and 200,000 in Liaoning Province. He has more troops under his immediate command than Chiang, the Nanking war lord.

PREPARED FOR REDS

If the Reds cross the Manchurian border, Marshal Chang will meet them at the head of his armies. He is no stranger to the sight of blood on the battlefield, or the smell of powder. He commanded one of his father's armies and his reckless daring made him the idol of the Chinese youth. At one time he and twenty of his guard were ambushed while riding in a special car south of Peking. When the car stopped at a way station it was rushed by several hundred enemy troops.

At first there was hand-to-hand fighting in the car, in which Chang engaged with two automatic revolvers, and his marksmanship is more certain with an automatic than with a tennis racket.

When the smoke cleared away fourteen of the enemy lay dead in the corridors and on the steps of the car.

Chang lost seven of his guard. Although he was the object of the attack, he escaped unwounded—Manchu luck, his followers proudly assert.

SAVES DAY FOR FATHER

When some of his father's generals sought to overthrow him by a secret cabal in 1926, young Chang went in disguise through the hostile forces to Tien-tsin, where he met one of the wavering war lords, brought him back into line and saved the day for the "Old Tiger." Although away on his vacation his mobilization orders are being carried swiftly into effect.

Gov. Chang Tsohsiang is in command of the Manchurian defenses, with Gov. Wan-fulin second in command. Gen. Hsi-hsia is vice-chief of the general staff.

Lieutenant-General Wan-fulin already has dispatched two infantry brigades each into Manchouli and Hailar, while there is a cavalry division at Tsitsihar, another at Shanhaikwan, and the famous Twenty-sixth Cavalry is on its way to Holumber.

These are not raw recruits. All the commanders and most of the men saw service under Chang and his father south of the wall.

FORCES WELL EQUIPPED

I have seen several brigades of the Manchu troops. They are well equipped and maneuver like veterans. The Manchu cavalrymen are superb horsemen, and their wiry little mounts are the best in the world for the terrain over which they maneuver.

Military experts here tell me that, on their own soil those Manchu troops will give an excellent account of themselves. They doubt whether 500,000 soviet troops can force their way through Northern Manchuria to Harbin.

Meanwhile, another menace threatens the badly involved soviets. I wrote a month ago of the recruiting of a White Russian force here for the purpose of challenging soviet supremacy in Manchuria.

The report was current here this morning that Attman Seminoff already has departed for the Siberian border with a force estimated at 10,000 White Russians. They lack in arms and provisions, but they are rushing away to meet the Reds as to a holiday. For ten years they have been waiting for this chance and Eastern Siberia is honeycombed with centers of Whites, only waiting for a signal to rise.

RED INFLUENCE SLIGHT

Red Russian influence here is at the zero point. There are some who go so far as to assert that this marks the beginning of the end of soviet regime in Russia. I am of the opinion that they are thinking wishes. However, it will be no holiday excursion for the Reds to march into Manchuria and take back by force of arms the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Meanwhile, what of Japan? Contrary to reports wired here from some European centers there are no Japanese troops north of Changchun in Central Manchuria, the northern terminus of the South Manchurian Railway. That city is about 100 miles north of Mukden, Chang's capital.

From all outward appearances the Japanese will not interfere with the movement of troops in Northern Manchuria, but will not permit the contending armies to pass south of the Changchurin-Kirin line into Central and Southern Manchuria. That is within Japan's sphere of influence.

And here the soviets, in a field campaign, again will be at a disadvantage. If Chang's forces should meet with reverses in Northern Manchuria they could fall back on Mukden, their base, and the Reds could not follow without coming into conflict with Japanese divisions.

OBSTACLES FOR SOVIET

From an amateur's point of view the set-up is decidedly unfavorable for the Reds. It looks as though Chang can hold his own without drawing on support from south of the wall. He has his own arms and munitions plant, the best in China. Manchuria is wonderfully rich agriculturally, and has a population approximating 30,000,000. There are more than 1,000,000 men capable of bearing arms who have seen actual service south of the wall.

Then there is the financial angle, which to me is a huge joke. Under the Mukden agreements, made with the old marshal and ratified by Nanking, Manchuria can take over the Chinese Eastern by paying to Russia certain stipulated sums.

Chang's bankers have arranged for that. When I was here a month ago the Chang banks were buying up paper rubles of the tsarist regime—advertising for them. Now we know why. They expect to repay the soviets with money that the soviets themselves rendered worthless. These rubles paid for the building of the road; why should they not be legal tender at their face value for repayment?

TURNING THE SPOTLIGHT ON MEN —AND WHAT THEY WEAR

WE have an idea that the average man gets a bit bewildered at times on the subject of color in his attire, and that there is a real need for some sort of simplified guide that will prevent him going astray.

Confusion usually arises from lack of a starting point, and we know of no better place to begin than to consider the complexion as the all-important factor.

Nature endowed each one of us with a coloring of hair, eyes, and skin (usually grouped together as the complexion), that sets the individual apart from his fellows. What could be more natural or logical than to keep the complexion in mind when choosing a suit, and then to select furnishings that blend or contrast correctly with the color of the suit?

Instead of the usual blonde and brunette classification, it will perhaps simplify the problem if we decide upon four types, and distinguish them by the color of the hair. We can then proceed to suggest the most suitable colors for each group!

Suits for the BLACK-HAIRED MAN

Navy, dark gray, light gray, the darker shades of brown, blue-gray mixtures, black and white, black.

Suits for the BROWN-HAIRED MAN

Brown, silver blue, navy, light gray, dark gray, sand, cinnamon, oatmeal, black. The man with brown hair has the widest choice of colors, for practically all are becoming to him.

Suits for the AUBURN-HAIRED MAN

Blue in all shades, gray with a touch of blue, light gray, dark gray, black. The man with auburn hair has not much latitude in the choice of color and needs to use much discretion, preferably dressing in quiet shades. He should avoid red browns and anything with a red or purple tone.

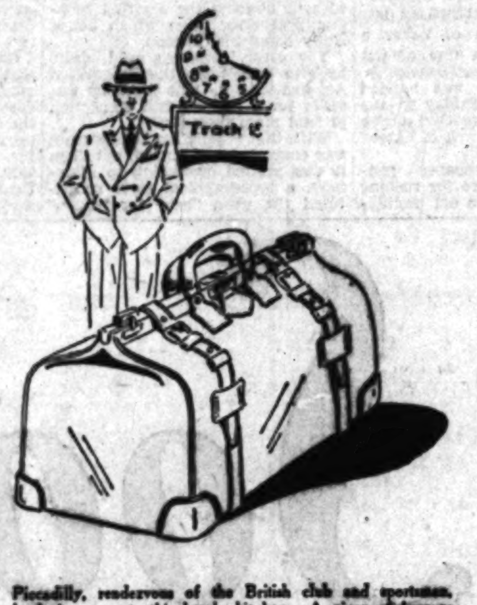
Suits for the FAIR-HAIRED MAN

Blue, silver blue, powder blue, all shades of brown, navy, plain gray or gray that has a touch of color, black. The man with fair hair should avoid harsh blues, and anything with red or purple in it.

With the keynote of the ensemble established by the selection of a suit that conforms to the requirements of your type, furnishings to blend or contrast may be chosen with ease and confidence.

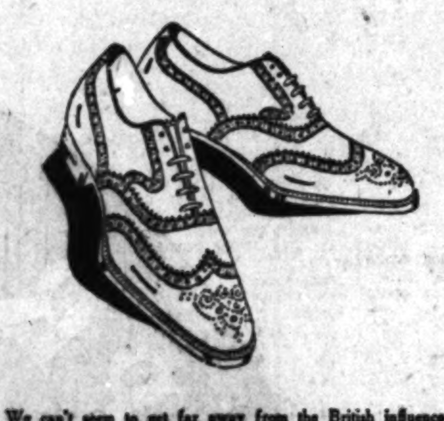
During the coming weeks we shall furnish ensemble lists suggesting the shirts, neckwear, hats, hosiery, shoes, and gloves, that may be appropriately worn with the suit colors given in the above lists.

The Chevalier



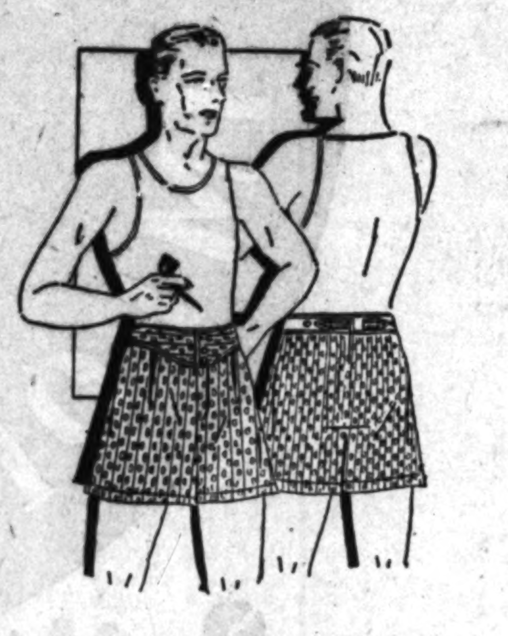
Piccadilly, rendezvous of the British club and sportsman, lends its name to this handy kit bag. A piece of luggage in the best John Boyle manner, it is hand made of the finest analine leather. The 22-inch size is perhaps the most adaptable to the average man's needs, and not in the least cumbersome even when fully packed. In russet only.

At B. H. Dyas



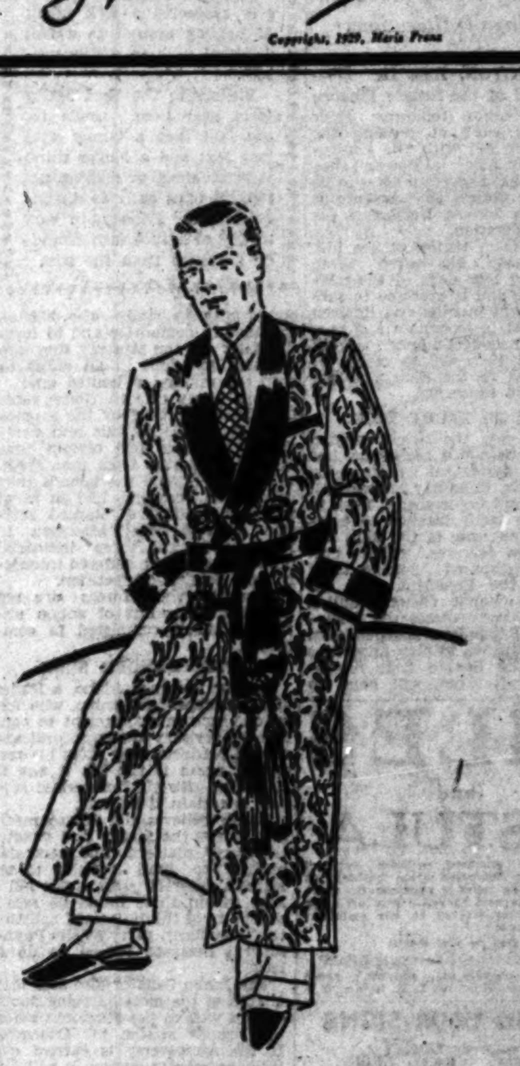
We can't seem to get far away from the British influence when it comes to shoe styles. Here is the "Mayfair," a newly imported brogue type oxford that will be a perfect foot note for the suits of tobacco brown that are to lead in the Fall procession. Built on an English last, in brown russia of the correct shade for the coming season.

At Welherby-Kayser



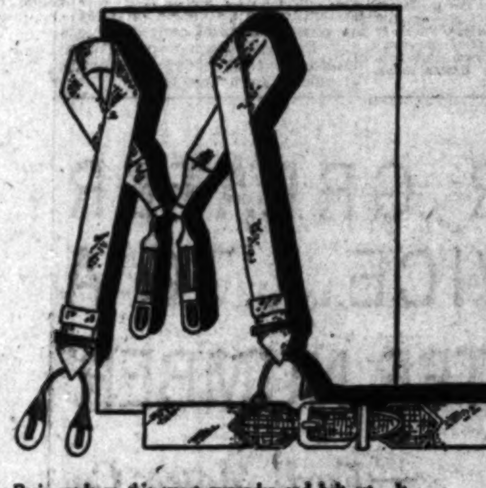
Here are some specially designed shorts, custom tailored on lines suggested by a number of Hollywood's leading stars. They have a wide, dip-front band that acts as a support, and a neat sliding take-up in the back. Single pleats in the legs, front and back allow for roomy comfort, but avoid the bulkiness that excess material gives. In madras or broadcloth, colored or self-figured.

At Machin's
Custom Shirtmaker



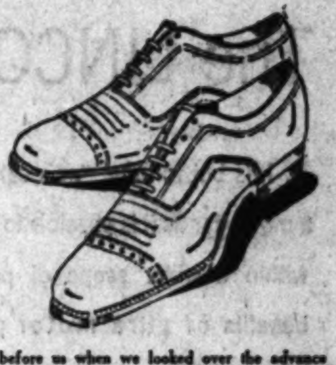
Sophistication radiates from this lounging robe of brocaded velvet, with its black silk shawl collar, cuffs and piping on pockets to contrast with the richness of its rose mulberry shade. Black silk lining, extra large frogs, and black satin belt with tassels give it the final touch of luxury.

At Roos Bros.
Hollywood



Paris sends us this smart suspender and belt set. It has that touch of novelty which we always expect to find in French creations. The belt, of finely woven material, is cleverly finished in leather of several shades. The suspenders have elastic in the back only; the button loops are of leather.

At Silverwoods



We had a difficult problem put before us when we looked over the advance Fall models of Smith Smart Shoes. Thirty different styles were set out, and we were invited to select just one. We sketched a model that is representative of the styling of this maker. It may be had in either black or tan calf, and is a pattern that will most certainly be popular this season.

THOUSANDS ATTEND SUNRISE DEVOTIONAL

SEATTLE, Aug. 11. (AP)—Thousands of Christians of all faiths gathered in one of the city's parks early today and held a sunrise devotion service under the direction of the Disciples of Christ delegates, who are holding their annual convention here.

A ninety-minute communion service attended by nearly 7000 Disciples was held this afternoon. All doors to the auditorium were locked to prevent interruption. The day's program was closed with devotions and an address by Dr. A. W. Fortune of Lexington, Ky., this evening. Dr. Fortune spoke on "The Master's Ideal of Unity."

FINAL CHANGE DUE IN TARIFF

Vast Republican Revision Will Begin Today

Sugar and Hides Rates Only Important Decisions

Borah May Again Move for Limiting of Alterations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Republicans of the Senate Finance Committee begin tomorrow their last week's work of revising the House tariff bill with the controversial sugar, hides, leather and shoe items the only important rates to be determined before the measure is turned over to the Democrats for their consideration.

A week from tomorrow the bill, which already has taken seven months and four days of Congressional labor and is expected to surpass the eight months and thirteen days utilized to formulate and pass the Fordney-McCumber tariff measure in 1922, will be ready for presentation to the Senate as far as rates are concerned.

TIME TO STUDY BILL

On that day the special session of the Senate will reconvene, but under an agreement reached by party leaders, three-day recesses will be taken until September 4, next, to permit the tariff framers to complete the rewriting of the bill's administrative features, which embrace the disputed flexible tariff providing the President with authority to change customs duties.

During these recesses the Democrats and Republican Independents, who are expected to play important roles in the Senate floor discussions and decisions, will have an opportunity to study the bill as amended in committee and to form the basis for the strategy they are expected to adopt in an effort to keep the revision a limited one.

While many cuts in House rates have been approved by the finance majority, the Democrats and western Republicans feel certain that the bill to emerge from that group will go far beyond the bounds they believe the President had in mind in recommending a "limited revision" with particular attention to farm duties and those industrial products that have suffered intensely from foreign competition.

However, these forces are not disclosing their line of action until the bill is completed in committee.

SPLIT DANGER SEEN

Senator Borah of Idaho, a leader of the Independent group, who lost by one vote in an attempt to confine the revision to agricultural and related products, may press his resolution again if the bill is not to his liking. Strong Democratic support is certain if he does.

Borah believes the House measure betrays the farmer and violates the party platform and campaign pledges to limit revision to the farmers' interest. Unless the bill is kept within these limits he sees a possibility of the 1929 tariff splitting the Republican party as the Payne-Aldrich measure helped to do in 1909.

The Idaho Senator also sees little chance of the measure being adopted and sent to the President before the regular session in December. If the controversy is carried over into the regular session, it will take far more time to enact what will be known as the Hawley-Smoot bill and what was promised as only a limited revision measure than it took to place the present law on the statute books seven years ago.

Milk Highballs Direct from Under Taken to Vary Diet of Lettuce

MILLTOWN (Wis.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Milk highballs straight from the udder have long been on the diet of snakes and cats but nobody ever suspected a jack rabbit of helping himself to a free drink of milk in a cow pasture.

Visitors to the Fred Melby farm near here vouch for the fact that a bunny with long legs and a longer thirst is accustomed to making periodical trips daily to an uncomplaining Holstein to vary its diet of lettuce with extended draughts from the cow.

LAW MAKERS OF OREGON FLAYED

Invalidation of Prohibition Law Raises Storm

Error First Noted in 1915 Found in New Code

Papers Score Legislators as Careless Servants

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 11. (AP)—Circuit Judge Duffy's decision that Oregon's new prohibition law is unconstitutional, "because the Legislature, through error, has legislated the penalty out of prohibition and fixed no maximum penalty for first offenders," brought forth editorials of condemnation of the Legislature in Oregon newspapers today.

The law was designed to put more teeth in the State prohibition law and made possession of liquor a misdemeanor with a fine of not more than $500 for first conviction. The judge's decision was handed down at Bend, Or., Friday in the case of a woman convicted under the law who sought a writ of habeas corpus.

One Oregon newspaper condemned the Legislature for rushing the amendment to the old prohibition statute through both houses without noticing the asserted typographical error upon which Judge Duffy based his decision.

The error, attorneys said, dates back to 1915, when the Prohibition Act was framed. The provision was made for a fine on first conviction of "not more than $500."

With that stipulation the measure was engrossed and signed, but when it was printed, according to attorneys, a typographical error substituted the word "less" for "more," which was of no effect because the engrossed copy in the Secretary of State's office is the authoritative text of a law.

Correction slips were printed and sent to all who ordered session laws, attorneys asserted, but when the Olson Code was compiled in 1920 the incorrect text of the section was printed. The Olson Code was used for making other amendments in 1929, so that the word "less" is actually engrossed in the 1929 law, attorneys said.

CHICAGO NEGROES PROTEST

Mass Meetings Conducted to Demand Protection at Beaches Because of Assaults There

CHICAGO, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—A group of negroes held mass meetings today to discuss discrimination and assaults against persons of their race at the Jackson Park Beach. A committee was appointed to call on Commissioner of Police Russell and the members of the South Park Board for a public and official assurance that all colored people will be granted equal rights to Chicago's beaches and that they will be amply protected by police if they go to the beaches.

F. L. Barnett, an attorney who occupied the chair, told those gathered they were meeting to discuss the recent assaults on colored bathers and to attempt to devise ways and means for preventing racial friction. He said that both whites and blacks must put themselves forward to prevent an outbreak.

"The situation is a menace to the welfare and peace of the community," Barnett said. "I know that all good colored people want to be law-abiding and I believe the whites do also. But I don't believe it is just that the colored bathers should be made the butt of assaults because they go bathing in places provided for citizens to go bathing."

Nathan Laylor, a United States Attorney's aide, said he thinks a committee to disseminate the proper course of action for the colored bathers should be appointed. He declared he believes the race problem in Chicago a grave one and that the best minds of the whites and blacks must cope with it.

REID'S ARREST UNCOVERS PAST

Young Mate of Rich Woman Ousted by Italy

BRIDGEPORT (Ct.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—His arrest on a burglary charge yesterday led to the disclosure that William Harney Reid, young husband of the wealthy elderly Mrs. Esther Peck Reid, was banished from Italy in 1921 by the Italian government for "annoying" a Countess Marchesi. This was before he married the widow of the millionaire Senator Lester Peck. She is fifteen years Reid's senior.

Reid, who squandered more than $100,000, his dowery gift from his wife, was released from jail on $5000 bail, furnished after he had almost exhausted his list of friends in his quest of a bondsman, by a Danbury news dealer.

Reid was jailed late Friday night after the arrest of William Lynch, who told the police that Reid had hired him to steal letters from the home of Vincent Flannery, former caretaker of Mrs. Reid's estate. This correspondence between Flannery and a sister of Mrs. Reid, the wife of a Chicago merchant, Reid believes, will show that his wife's action to have him removed as conservator of her estate, was due to the influence of her family.

AMERICAN FLAG LEADS GERMANS

Old Glory Heads Berliners In Patriotic Parade

BERLIN, Aug. 11. (AP)—President Von Hindenburg, who seldom appears in public now because of his advanced years, with nearly all members of the Diplomatic Corps and many high government officials today attended impressive ceremonies at noon in the plenary hall of the Reichstag in observation of the tenth anniversary of Constitution Day of the German republic.

Spectators were surprised to see the Stars and Stripes floating at the head of the huge procession of 150,000 members of the Republican Guards—the Reichsbanner—from all parts of Germany. The American flag was carried by a German-American Reichsbanner delegation of forty from New York City, who were given the place of honor behind the band and leaders of the Reichsbanner.

Former County Grocer Pays 26 Per Cent Interest to Investors in Mysterious Business

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Elmer S. Huckins, 60 years of age, former Wood county grocer, who now maintains a Milwaukee apartment, a residence in Chicago and a $100,000 summer home and private race track at Hancock, Wis., and his son, George E. Huckins, 38, who four years ago was a clerk in a Cedar Rapids (Iowa) pool hall, but who now owns a $100,000 home, a fleet of cars and the Cedar Rapids Ball Club, are attracting loans from hundreds of investors at an interest rate of 26 per cent a year, according to a copyrighted story in the Milwaukee Journal today.

The money obtained on the loans is used in some mysterious business enterprise, the nature of which could not be learned, according to the story. Investors are men and women from Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Nebraska, California, Washington and other States.

Those who place their money with the Huckinses are told little or nothing of the operation of the business, the Journal said. Some have been informed it is the "cigar business," but an investigation has revealed no contracts with the larger cigar manufacturers.

Estimates are that the two men have received as much as $3,000,000 from Wisconin people alone. Lenders, it is said, have begged the Huckinses to borrow their money as they were anxious for the large rate of interest. Notes issued by the pair may not be legal because of the usurious interest rate, according to attorneys.

Dividends have been paid regularly.

In All The World No Trip Like This

COME—as my guest—on this wonderful day's outing. A day full of interesting sights, facts and figures.

Hundreds of people, from all over the world, have taken this tour of mine—have learned to know California by this means. Perhaps you know some of them—have heard them say, "I wouldn't have missed that trip for anything!"

Travel in luxury and comfort, in our big parlor car busses. An entertaining conductor will point out the various sights, will tell you many interesting things about the Southland.

Take in the bustling business section of Los Angeles, Westlake Park, the famous residential districts, Wilshire and Sunset Boulevards, Hollywood—city of romance. See the movie studios and homes of film notables you've seen so often on the screen. Cahuenga Pass, with its quaint hillside homes.

Beautiful San Fernando Valley—an enchanting panorama of vivid colors, vast distances and charming scenes that have attracted many well-known writers and artists.

Let me show you the city of Girard and Walnut Acre Farms. But come along whether you intend to invest or not. Be my guest—there's no charge and no obligation.

We will pause for a while at the charming little city of Girard while an appetizing luncheon is served you. Also without charge.

I know that those who appreciate seeing history in the making will marvel at Girard. Although founded only a few years ago, over $2,000,000 have already been spent in improvements.

And across the boulevard is Walnut Acre Farms. Originally the largest walnut grove in the world, it is now divided into tracts of varying size and planted to six-year-old budded Placentia walnut trees.

The trip is absolutely free. Phone MUtual 5311 and tell us how many there will be in your party. We will reserve seats. Busses leave 518 South Hill Street every morning.

ABOUT twelve years ago a big red-headed pitcher stole third base in the world series between the Giants and the White Sox. Nothing so very unusual about that, to be sure, although big red-headed pitchers don't usually steal bases, especially in world series games. But wait! You haven't heard it all. Third base happened to be occupied by a teammate at the time! "Where are you going?" yelled his surprised matey, as they both slid into the bag about the same time. "I'm going to pitch," replied the red-headed one, realizing that his mistake had made the third out, and pitch he did, as the records will show.

For "Red" Faber—for that was the bold sack-pilferer—won three games from the hated Giants in that hectic 1917 series, and lost one. In the 1919 world series, in which many of the White Sox turned Black,

ROGERS HORNSBY

He smashed the ball into the right-field pavilion with two out and nobody on his first time up in the first inning. In the sixth, again with two out, he singled to right, scoring English from second with the winning run. His double in the eighth sent Taylor home with another run for good measure.

The Braves reached Charley Root for eight safe blows, while the Cubs garnered only six off Bob Smith.

McMillan was spiked by Lester Bell at third base in the second inning and will be out for several days. Score:

DODGERS RALLY

BROOKLYN, Aug. 11. (AP)—A sudden and effective barrage of extra-base hits off Ray Kremer after two were out in the eighth, enabled the Brooklyn Robins to come from behind to defeat the Pirates by 5 to 3, in the third game of the series today. The Buccaneers lost another full game in the pennant race as the Cubs won at Boston, stretching their margin to eight contests.

Kremer's fast ball was effective through all the early innings, but with two gone and none on base in the eighth, Frederick hit a home run. Herman then doubled and Hendrick and Bissonette hit successive homers over the right-field wall.

Ray Moss was the winning pitcher, he fanned seven Pirates, five in succession. He was found for two runs in the seventh when the Pirates took a lead of 3 to 1, and was removed for a substitute batter

Sweet Defeats Wykoff and Bracey

SAN RAFAEL, Aug. 11. (AP) Finishing a foot and a half in the lead, Russell Sweet, Olympic Club flash, defeated both Frank Wykoff, Glendale sprint star, and Claude Bracey, of Rice Institute, Texas, in a special seventy-five-yard dash, which featured the annual south of Market boys picnic program here today. Sweet's time was 7 5-10s. The victor got a fast start and led all the way with Wykoff coming strong at the finish. Bracey trailed after a poor start. Erick Krenz, captain-elect of the Stanford University track team, established what is believed to be an unofficial world's record in the eighteen-pound shot put. The husky Cardinal heaved the ball 46ft. 3in. As the meet was not sanctioned by the National A.A.U., the mark will not stand as a new world's record.

UPLIFTERS' POLO FOUR DROP GAME

Santa Barbara Mallet Squad Wins Nod from Local Horsemen, 9-7

Santa Barbara poloists, led by Long Jim Colt and Hale Marsh, galloped to a 9-to-7 victory over the Uplifters' Ranch four yesterday in the opening game of the intercity summer mallet championship series. The tilt, which was one of the fastest of the current season, was featured by the evenly balanced play exhibited by both teams. Santa Barbara really clinched the game in the seventh chukker when they rang up three goals on the Uplifters. The Uplifters held the lead in the first half of the contest, but the Channel City horsemen caught up with them in the fifth period and forged into the lead in the sixth session.

SNOWY BAKER

The seventh chukker found Long Jim Colt and Hale Marsh on the rampage. Marsh was exceptionally good riding off the field with the starring honors. He scored 4 goals and Colt tallied 3.

The Uplifters staged a terrific rally in the last chukker in an effort to overhaul the Santa Barbara poloists and although they collected 2 goals were, however, unable to tie the score.

Colt's long driving was one of the features of the polo skirmish. Long Jim opened the game up on

GREAT RECORD MADE BY BABE

Baseball History Created By Yankee Star

Ruth's Thirtieth of Season Collected Yesterday

Bambino Increases His Lead in American Loop

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11. (AP)—Babe Ruth today became the first player in the history of baseball to hit 500 home runs when he slapped one of Willis Hudlin's offerings over the right-field screen in the second inning of the Yankee-Indian game here. The bases were empty when Ruth hit his history-making homer. Although Lou Gehrig added a circuit blow later in the game, the Indians nosed out the champions, 6 to 5.

BABE RUTH

Ruth's drive was his thirtieth of the season, and it increased his margin in the American leadership in addition to sending him into a tie with Melvin Ott of the Giants and Hack Wilson of the Cubs for second place in the inter-league race.

Charlie Klein of the Phillies leads both leagues with 33. Gehrig's blow was his twenty-sev-

Twin Victory Puts Vittmen Half-Game from Lead

Shelly's Two Homers Enable Sheiks to Win, 7 to 3

Lefty Johns Trims Seraphs In Nightcap Duel, 2-1

BY BOB RAY

Frank Shellenback and Lefty Johns, two of Hollywood's pitching aces, turned back the Angels twice out at Wrigley Field yesterday to put a respectable ending on what had started out to be a disastrous week for the forces of Oscar Vitt. The Sheiks won the opener, 7 to 3, and then came back with a 2-to-1 victory in the nightcap.

FRANK SHELLENBACK

Although the Stars lost four out of the seven games to the Angels, their twin victory yesterday moved them up to third place, just a half-game behind the Seals and Missions, who are tied for the lead. The Seraphs dropped back to fourth place, two games behind the leaders, but they are still right in the thick of the second half race.

The two games were witnessed by a crowd of 14,000 fans, who added a bit of rowdyism to the bargain bill in the seventh inning of the nightcap, when they heaved cushions and one lone pop bottle at Umpires Green and Chadbourne, whose decisions were nothing to write home about all day. Chadbourne came near being hit by the pop bottle and that's bad business. It seems that if some

SCHMELING HIT BY EDICT

New York State Commission Announces German Heavy is Barred for Life There

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (AP)—Only a few short weeks ago the path of young Max Schmeling led smooth and straight toward all the glory and wealth of the world's heavyweight championship. Today the colorful Teuton is threatened with fistic oblivion, apparently barred for life along with his American managers from the rings of New York State.

Out of a clear sky the New York State Athletic Commission, through Chairman James A. Farley, today issued its final sentence in the involved and heated controversy that has raged about Schmeling's head almost since his arrival here a little over a year ago.

MAX SCHMELING

"The State Athletic Commission and boxing fans of the State of New York," the formal statement said in closing, "can get along without Schmeling and those who are handling his interests, not only now but for all time."

Schmeling, now in a barnstorming tour through far western States with Joe Jacobs, American manager, who replaced Bulow in the fighter's affections but not in the record of the commission, has refused to reply to the solons' edict that he must fulfill a contract

TILDEN DEFEATS RIVALS

Davis Cup Star Conquers Foes in Eastern Grass-Court Tournament; Harrison Eliminated

RYE (N. Y.) Aug. 11. (AP)—Big Bill Tilden eliminated his first two opponents in the eastern grass court tennis championships at the Westchester Country Club today but needed three sets to down his second-round rival, Sidney Adelstein of New York.

After clowning his way through a 6-2, 6-4 victory over Armand Brunneau of New York, Tilden romped through the first set of his match with Adelstein, 6-3. In the second set, however, Adelstein was getting everything that came his way and quickly ran into a 4-0 lead. He brought the score to 5-1 and then won the set with the loss of only one more game. Tilden abandoned horse-play for some real tennis in the third set, and won it and the match at 6-2.

BILL TILDEN

Two seeded players, Arthur Ham of Toronto, and Tamio Abe of Japan, were eliminated during the day. Ham was beaten in the first round by C. C. Hubbell, Jr., of Forest Hills, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3. Abe was eliminated in the second round by Eddie Jacobs of Baltimore, 6-4, 7-5.

Another upset was the defeat of Bradshaw Harrison, Pacific-Northwest champion, who bowed to Edward W. Feibleman of New York, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J.; Bryant Grant, Atlanta; Tamio Abe, Japan, and Wilbur Coen, Kansas City, all were forced to extra sets to win their first-round matches. Hall downed William Einstein, New York, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1; Grant put out David Jones, Columbia freshman, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4; Abe eliminated Richard Lewis, Stapleton, N. Y., 8-6, 6-8, 6-3, and Coen defeated C. BY THE GOLFER

W. L. (Bill) Jelliffe of the Girard Golf and Country Club reigns a decided favorite to annex the second annual Santa Monica Bay District championship.

Wild Bill eliminated his stiffest competition in the third round of match play last week, when he defeated the defending champion, Lester Coleman of the California Country Club, 2 and 1. Bill, who hits 'em far, wide and handsome, clicked off a 66 against Coleman.

Francis Boyd of the La Cumbre Country Club yesterday won the annual Montecito Country Club invitation tournament by defeating Bud Eichelberger, Jr., of the Los Angeles Country Club, 3 and 1.

Eichelberger, former Southern California junior champion and a Stanford student, played excellent golf. He scored a 76 against a 74 for his Santa Barbara opponent.

Both Boyd and Eichelberger have been accepted for the national amateur championship at Pebble Beach next month. Boyd eliminated four well-known golfers to annex the title. In the first round he defeated David Vhay of Princeton University, and followed with a win over Johnny Williams of Williams College in the second round, Jack Mackey of Los Angeles in the third round, and Eichelberger in the finals. Mackey was the winner a year ago.

Another Edmonds jumped into the limelight during the Montecito tournament. This one's name is George, and he is a brother of Ward and Wraner, the two Stanford track and golf stars.

Young George, who is not quite ready for Stanford, defeated Milton Wilson, 7 and 6, in the finals of the first flight.

Ward Edmonds, San Diego county champion, besides winning the consolation round on Friday with a 70, won the mixed foursomes yesterday with Miss Jane Stevens. They shot a remarkable best ball of 75.

FOREST PARK, ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11. (AP)—Carl Kauffmann, Pittsburgh's unassuming golfing marvel, who captured his third straight national public links crown yesterday, again proved his championship mettle today by coming back with a sensational rally to defeat Milton Soncrant of Toledo and Patsy Tiso of New York, in the eighteen-hole play-off for tournament medalist honors.

Seven strokes behind Tiso because of a mediocre 44 on the first nine holes, the champion burned up the course in the final nine-hole stretch with a 33, two under par, and was victorious by a single stroke. His total was 77, five over perfect figures, while Tiso required 78 and Soncrant, completely fatigued by his hard battle against Kauffmann in the finals, ended with his poorest score of the tournament—an 84.

From the champion's careless play on the outward journey, it was apparent he wanted to toss the medalist title away. He drove recklessly, experimented with his favorite irons and putted without even studying the line of roll. Tiso, a determined youth of 19, who was eliminated in the second round of match play by John Hornsby of Topeka, played even par going out. After taking two strokes over par on the first hole, a par 4, he breezed along triumphantly, bagging six holes in even par and the fourth and eighth with birdies, ending the trip with a par 37. Soncrant was wild all the way and played without his usual spirit and ended the stretch with a 42.

At this juncture, Kauffmann decided to play golf. He split the fairways with long drives, he approached uncannily to the pin and putted accurately so that he picked up six strokes on his slipping rival in the next five holes with three par holes and two birdies. They halved the fifteenth and sixteenth with par 4's and the champion went one stroke ahead by winning the seventeenth with a perfect 3, while Tiso took a 5. The last hole was halved in par.

Dick Smith, golf champion of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, will defend his championship over the Riviera Country Club, October 5 and 6. In addition, members of the Hollywood Athletic Club, Pacific Coast Club and Santa Monica Athletic Club will be eligible to compete in the event for the first time. An entry in excess of 200 is expected.

COLIMA WINS OVER HILARIO MARTINEZ

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 11. (AP)—Bert Colima, Mexican middleweight champion, decisively outpointed Hilario Martinez of Spain in a ten-round bout here tonight. A hard right over the heart floored Martinez in the seventh round but the gong sounded at the count of four. The judges credited Colima with winning eight rounds and Martinez two—the first and last. Colima weighed 151 pounds; Martinez, 149.

BARBOUR WILL MEET CARDOZA IN VENTURA

Red Barbour and Joe Cardoza have been matched to box the main event at Ventura next Friday night. The men are middleweights. The winner is to box Jose Peregrina who took a decision from Everett Strong a short time ago.

STONE GOLFING TO HEALTH

Unlimbers Rusty Golf Sticks Over Rogers Polo Fields; Kauffman Hailed as Bobby Jones of Public Links After Third Consecutive Title Victory

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

They are telling an interesting yarn about Fred Stone, "Wizard of Oz" of the American stage.

FRED STONE

Almost fatally injured in an airplane crash over Long Island a year ago, the noted comedian and dancer is rapidly regaining his health on the Will Rogers estate as the house guest of his life-time friend.

A broken leg kept Stone abed for almost a year, but already he is feeling spry and chipper again.

It happens that Stone is something of a golf-bug and, feeling the urge, decided to unlimber his niblick and mashie once more over the spacious acres of the Rogers ranch.

While Stone was hitting a few, a neighbor happened by, stopped to chat a few minutes, and during the course of the conversation asked if the golfing-comedian would like to have a few balls. When answered in the affirmative, the friendly neighbor went home, only to return shortly after with a gunnysack over his shoulder, which proved to be full of golf balls.

Rogers's neighbor explained the gift by the fact that he formerly owned a home bordering a golf course, and the balls had been sliced into his front yard over a period of some months. Furthermore, having no use for the balls, he was more than glad to get rid of them.

It was the first time either Rogers or Stone has seen a half-bushel of golf balls—neither being addicted to the public driving ranges now occupying every other vacant lot in Los Angeles—and they were somewhat flabber-gasted.

Stone can be seen every morning nowadays on the Rogers estate getting in his practice for the time when he will be playing the "Royal and Ancient Game" once more.

"Guess I'll have to golf myself to health," says Stone.

A Bobby Jones of the public links has arisen in Carl Kauffman, the Pittsburgh stenographer.

The national public links championship is only eight years old. Kauffman has entered seven times, won his third consecutive title at St. Louis on Saturday, and yesterday set a new record by being the first golfer to win both the medal and championship the same year. In addition he has been a semifinalist twice, and a defeated finalist.

R. C. Palmer and R. H. Harms tied for first place yesterday in the blind bogey sweepstakes tournament at the Palos Verdes Golf Club with scores of 74. Second place also resulted in a tie, S. H. Evans, C. E. Grail, R. L. Harrington, I. B. Nakes and S. Heisman turning in cards of 75.

In the semimonthly cup tournament, also played yesterday, J. W. Post, L. B. Kelsey, S. W. Marlowe, Danny Sangster and C. Rucker tied for first place with seventeen points. A play-off will be staged at a later date.

Golf is an exceptionally democratic game, and takes its champions where it finds 'em. Among the entrants for the national amateur championship at Pebble Beach next month are three Californians whose names have graced the sport pages for a number of years, but not because of their unusual golfing ability. They are Robert Lyman "Dink" Templeton, Stanford University track coach, who plays most of his golf in the north; Maurice McLaughlin of Bel-Air, former national tennis champion, and Art "Tillie" Shafer, former outfielder for the New York Giants.

Dink, who generally cleans up the coaches when they hold their annual championships, has always been an all-around athlete, and since taking up golf has been a consistent contender in tournament competition.

McLaughlin reached the height of his tennis career in 1912 and 1913, when he annexed the national singles championship. "Maurie" believes that tennis is an aid to golf, and stands out as a shining example of that contention. He has been drawing closer and closer to the championship class each year, and now plays to a three handicap.

Like most baseball players who take up golf, Shafer found the game to his liking and rapidly rose from the dub class. He has qualified six times for the California amateur championship, and won the Los Angeles Country Club championship in 1926.

Mrs. Bess Edwards, president of the women's auxiliary of the California Country Club, is playing championship golf these days. She annexed the first annual Santa Monica Bay District women's golf championship last week, and established a new course record of 34-41—75 in the semifinals, when she defeated another noted California player, Mrs. F. M. Slade. The former record was held by Miss Marjorie Kirkham of San Gabriel at 76. In the finals, Mrs. Edwards medaled with a 77 to defeat Mrs. Karl Jenter.

Golf is the main topic of conversation at the Los Angeles Biltmore these warm summer days. Three tournaments were scheduled during the summer months, one having been played and two coming up.

The Thomas P. Keating trophy, a wrist watch, donated by James Woods, vice-president of the Biltmore, was recently won by Mathieu Gotwalt, chef of the hotel.

Woods, who is the State boxing commissioner, is an enthusiastic golfer, and plays his shots from the port side. He has been an enthusiastic sponsor of all Biltmore tournaments.

The next Biltmore tournament, open to hotel employees only, will be played over the Western-avenue public course the last week of this month. Favorites to annex the event are Earl Burtnett, director of the Biltmore orchestra; Ken Mooney, night manager; Al Ward, assistant manager, and Warren Lloyd, manager of the barber shop.

Chester S. Lyday, chairman of the committee on scoring for the national amateur championship, needs the assistance of forty golfers desiring free gallery ducats for the championship event next month. Those seeking to crash the gate may do so by acting as official scorers during the qualifying round. All scorers will have an equal chance at scoring for Bobbie Jones, as names will be drawn from a hat. Those who would like to officiate can get further details by telephoning Lyday at MUtual 5519.

J. Ben Fahy who sponsored the $1000 caddy open championship, which was played last week, will sponsor the tournament each year, according to a letter just received which reads in part as follows:

"It is my intention to sponsor this tournament (referring to the caddy open) each year unless the Junior Chamber of Commerce or the Southern California Golf Association want to take it over.

"I want to say a few words of praise in behalf of the caddies that played in this event. They acted as true gentlemen and excellent sportsmen. I don't know of anything I have ever done that I enjoyed as much as mingling with these boys.

"We hope to have a bigger and better tournament next year.

"Yours very sincerely,
"BEN J. FAHY"

Southern California caddies have a real friend in Fahy, who has done much to better conditions for the bag-toter.

Interest in the Bobby Jones-George Von Elm-Chick Evans-Jack Neville exhibition, which will be played over the north course of the Los Angeles Country Club Saturday, the 24th inst., is growing with each passing day. So far nothing has been announced as to where tickets may be obtained, but when the data are given out there will be a mad rush for pasteboards.

Apparently the gallery will be strictly limited, as the north course cannot possibly accommodate more than 5000. Even at five dollars a crack, several times that number of applicants for ducats is almost assured. It appears that a large number of golf addicts will either have to go without a glimpse of the "One and Only" in action, or go to Del Monte next month for the amateur.

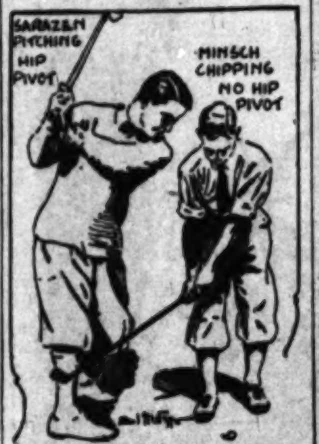
Jackie Fields to be Honored Here Tonight

Los Angeles and its sports colony will honor Jackie Fields, the new welterweight champion, at the Biltmore Hotel tonight, when a big reception and banquet will be enacted in behalf of the boy who recently attained fistic heights by defeating Joe Dundee in Detroit. Fields gets in on the California Limited this morning and will find a big turnout of friends and followers at the depot awaiting his arrival. Tonight's festivities at the Biltmore, which are sponsored by Jim Woods, the State Athletic Commissioner, should eclipse by far any similar reception ever accorded a homecoming hero here.

Chip Shots



SARAZEN PITCHING HIP PIVOT
MINSCH CHIPPING NO HIP PIVOT

BY SOL METZGER

Some iron shots, such as the chip, are mere wrist shots. There is no pivot and the body remains stationary or tries to, though many claim it follows with every shot, even to the putt. Minch is pictured playing such a shot.

When you move up to the pitch shots, those played with the spade-mashie, mashie-niblick and mashie, the full pitches, and the long irons, there is little pivot. But because these shots are a full swing with the left arm, there has to be a slight turn of the body. But don't strive for it. It will take care of itself as you take the club back.

The thing is not to get too loose-muscled and jointed in playing this shot. That would make you sway and wobble. You want to be firm on an iron, especially with the grip. Tomorrow—the idea at contact with an iron.

Your game is as good as your drive. Write Sol Metzger, care of The Times, requesting his free leaflet on "Driving." Inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

GREAT RECORD MADE BY BABE

enth and gave him possession of second place in his own circuit.

Ruth began his home-run career in 1915, his first full season in the American League, when he touched Jack Warhop of the Yankees for a pair of homers and "Slim" Caldwell of the Yanks and James of St. Louis for one each. Four home runs in a season by a pitcher constituted something of a feat in that day of light hitting, but the Babe attracted his first real attention as a home-run slugger in 1918 when, doubling regularly in the outfield, he hit eleven homers in the abbreviated war season to tie Tilly Walker of the Athletics for major league honors.

The Babe lifted his mark to twenty-nine in 1919, and was sold to New York by the Red Sox in the off season for $137,500. In his first year as a Yankee he hit fifty-four and lifted the mark to fifty-nine a year later. This remained the record until 1927, when with a burst of September speed which netted seventeen homers in Ruth's greatest month, he reached the unbelievable total of sixty.

Ruth's mark of 500 major-league home runs is exclusive of thirteen he has hit in five of the nine world series in which he has played.

YANKEES LOSE BATTLE TO CLEVELAND, 6-5

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians defeated the Yankees here today, 6 to 5, and stepped into third place in the league, over the forms of the St. Louis Browns.

Despite Babe Ruth's 500th major-league home run and Lou Gehrig's twenty-seventh of the season, both of which took place in the game, the Yankees were unable to take advantage of the Athletics' defeat by the Tigers.

Thirteen hits by the Indians coupled with four errors by the Yankees were the deciding factors in the contest. Score:

CAMPOLO MAY PERFORM HERE

South American Giant Offered Match With Winner of Main Olympic Bout; Godfrey, Hawkins on Edge for Negro Heavyweight Title Contest

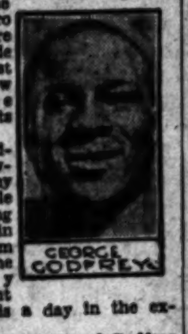
Matchmaker Wad Wadhams yesterday sent out a feeler to bring Vittorio Campolo, South American giant, to Los Angeles to box the winner of the George Godfrey-Tom Hawkins battle Tuesday night in the Olympic. Jim Dougherty, manager of the Black Shadow, says that he understands the Argentine colossus wants to shift out of New York. He made his first fight under the promotion of Humbert Fugazy, winning on a foul.

Campolo weighs 250 pounds and stands a half-head taller than either Godfrey or Hawkins. The height of Godfrey is six feet four inches and Hawkins is a half-inch higher off the ground.

Fugazy had planned on using Godfrey with Campolo in Brooklyn, but Dougherty is just as willing to make the match here.

GODFREY FAVORITE

While Godfrey is the favorite over Hawkins the comparative equal size of the two men and the strong record of the San Diego negro gives him more than an outside chance against the Shadow all white heavyweights are ducking.



GEORGE GODFREY

Neither Godfrey nor Hawkins lost any noticeable weight during the last week in the gymnasium in spite of the fact they worked eight and ten rounds a day in the excessive heat.

The combined weights of Godfrey and Hawkins will probably be close to 475 pounds. Jack Dempsey, who is taking an unusual interest in Godfrey, has advised him to take off twenty or twenty-five pounds to be in real condition.

Godfrey has gone on a one-meal-a-day diet, but eats so much at the one sitting his flesh refuses to vanish to any perceptible extent.

Physically Hawkins presents the better appearance. He is a trim fellow with most of his weight around his shoulders instead of his legs. His stomach is flat, while Godfrey presents the appearance of roundness.

Hawkins is bringing a mighty band of rooters up from San Diego. Tommy Landis, who is handling things on the border, says that the border town will send up around 500 fans. This would be the biggest turnout Los Angeles ever got from there.

SEEKS KAYO WIN

Hawkins will not try to box the Shadow, it is claimed, but will go out and start swinging haymakers. If he follows these tactics it may be a short fight with a chance of either man getting knocked out.

The $1000 bonus which Frank Churchill has agreed to pay Hawkins for every time he knocks Godfrey down is spurring on the challenger. The match is advertised as being for the negro heavyweight championship of the world.

This holds up since Big Gawge and Long Tom are undoubtedly the outstanding black heavies of the present time. Hawkins has proven his rating by defeating such men as Jack Renault, Chuck Wiggins and Bearcat Wright. The latter also holds a decision over Hawkins—also Godfrey, it is claimed.

NATION'S EYES ON GODFREY FIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (AP)—Heavyweights and lightweights contrive to enliven what otherwise might be an extremely dull week in the cauliflower market.

Among the heavyweights, such figures as George Godfrey, Victorio Campolo, Tom Heeney and Joe Sekyra are to swing into action. Among the 135-pounders, Tommy Grogan, Billy Wallace, Ray Miller and Al Singer will be the principal attractions.

Campolo meets Heeney in the feature bout at Ebbets Field Wednesday night. Against De Kuh, Campolo had no opportunity to show what he can do. Heeney has been a doubtful quantity ever since he took such a terrible lacing from Gene Tunney last year. Ted Sandwina, the Iowa heavyweight, meets Phil Mercurio of New York, and Angus Snyder, Kansas City battler, engages Jack Roper in ten-round bouts on the same card.

Godfrey makes his appearance in Los Angeles against Long Tom Hawkins, San Diego negro, for ten rounds or less, Tuesday night.

Sekyra, Dayton Bohemian, is down on the books for a ten-round engagement with George La Rocco of New York at Dexter Park, Brooklyn, tomorrow night, while De Kuh is battling George Cook of Australia at Starlight Park, the same night.

Cleveland offers the best lightweight show of the week on Tuesday, with Wallace and Grogan battling it out in the ten-round final and Lope Tenorio of the Philippines, meeting Mike Payan, California Indian, in the eight-round semifinal.

At Philadelphia tomorrow night Miller is to engage Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle negro, in the feature ten-rounder. Singer makes his last appearance before his match with Kid Chocolate, on the 19th inst., at the Queensboro Stadium Tuesday night, meeting Gaston Charles. Harry Ebbets, free-swinging Freeport blond, meets Nick Palmer and Ben Jeby engages Alf Ros in ten-rounders on the same card.

Other bouts on the national schedule include:

Monday—At Philadelphia, Lew Massey, Philadelphia, vs. Maurice Holtzer, France, featherweights, ten rounds; at Tulsa, Okla.: Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., vs. Murray Gitlitz, New York, heavyweights, ten rounds.

Tuesday—At Cincinnati, Midget Mike O'Dowd, Columbus, vs. Johnny Datto, Cleveland, featherweights, ten rounds. At Portland, Or., Willie Feldman, Bremerton, Wash., vs. Joe Anderson, Covington, Ky., middleweights, ten rounds.

Wednesday—At San Francisco, Dick Devlin, San Francisco, vs. Frank Warneke, Germany, middleweights, ten rounds. At Oakland, Ray Pelky, Oakland, vs. Jim O'Dowd, Salt Lake, light-heavyweights, ten rounds.

Friday—At New York, Coney Island Stadium, Ruby Goldstein, New York, vs. Joey Kaufman, New York, welterweights, ten rounds; Rockaway Beach Arena, Maxie Rosenbloom, New York, vs. Leo Williams, negro, New York, light-heavyweights, ten rounds. At Hollywood, Speedy Dado, Philippines, vs. Tom Hughes, Cleveland, flyweights, ten rounds. At San Diego, Santiago Zorilla, Los Angeles, vs. Francis Garcia, San Diego, featherweights.

WOMEN'S SWIM ENDS

titles, keeping the mile championship and adding the quarter-mile and half-mile honors. The W. S. A. N. Y. girls took four titles, including the half-mile relay. Eleanor Holm won two of them, the 220-yard back stroke and the 300-meter medley. Eleanor Garatti of San Rafael, Cal., kept her 100-meter championship and set a new record for the event.

Georgia Coleman of the Los Angeles Athletic Club cleaned up on the diving honors. She already was indoor high-board champion. She won the outdoor ten-foot title and the plain and fancy diving competitions. All diving titles were contested here in the daytime, the lighting of the Memorial natatorium, mammoth outdoor pool, casting shadows which make night diving difficult and a little dangerous.

New world's records set at the meet were:

100 meters—1m. 9 4-5s. Old record, 1m. 10 3-5s.

440-yard swim—5m. 47 2-5s. Old record, 5m. 51 2-5s.

300-meter medley—4m. 49 4-5s. Old record, 4m. 53s flat.

880-yard swim—12m. 3 4-5s. Old record, 12m. 17 4-5s.

Diving, all classes—Georgia Coleman, Los Angeles Athletic Club.

100-meter free style—Eleanor Garatti, San Rafael, Cal. (x-s.)

Mile swim—Josephine McKim, Balboa, Panama Canal Zone (x.)

220-yard backstroke — Eleanor Holm, Women's Swimming Assn., N. Y.

440-yard free style—Josephine McKim, Balboa, C. Z. (s.)

880-yard club relay—Women's Swimming Association, New York.

880-yard free style—Josephine McKim, Balboa, C. Z. (s.)

220-yard breast stroke—Agnes Geraghty, W.S.A.N.Y. (x.)

(x)—Retained title.
(s)—Set new world's record.

In addition to the new world's records, Miss Geraghty set an American record of 3m. 17s. in the 220-yard breast stroke.

The Japanese girl swimmers—the first of their race ever to compete in a swimming meet outside of their own country—made excellent showings considering their lack of experience in fast competition. Hideko Maehata, best of the Japanese quartet, won second place in the 220-yard breast stroke, a stroke in which the short-statured Japanese are especially adept.

Twenty-one girls from the American mainland, the four from Japan, and half a dozen girl members of Honolulu clubs participated in the four-day meet.

The Women's Swimming Association of New York captured 39 points to renew its hold on the national club championship. Miss McKim's individual honors were based on her 15 points from three first places.

Miss Coleman and Miss Holm tied for second honors with 10 points each.

Other club standing at the close of the meet were: Los Angeles Athletic Club, 11; Western Women's Club, San Francisco, 10; Outrigger Canoe Club, Honolulu, 6; San Rafael, 3; Illinois Women's Club, 3; Whitinsville, Mass., 3; Worcester (Mass.) Boys' Club auxiliary, 3; Japan, 3; Scranton, Pa., 1; unattached, 13.

Other individual standings included: Ethel McGary, W.S.A.N.Y., 6; Miss Garatti, 5; Marion Gilman, W.W.C.S.F., 4; Jane Fauntz, Illinois W.A.C., Monie Morgan, W.W.C.S.F., Lisa Lindstrom, W.S.A.N.Y., Albina Osipowich, Worcester Y.W.C.A., Joan McSheehy, Whittinsville, Kathryn Brown, W.S.A.N.Y., Hideko Maehata, Japan, 3 points each; Margaret Hoffman, Scranton, Pa., Esther Foley, W.S.A.N.Y., Olive Hatch, Los Angeles A.C., Adelaide Lambert, W.S.A.N.Y., and Lillian Fergus, W.W.C.S.F., 1 point each.

Points tabulated today for the platform-diving title won yesterday by Miss Coleman, gave her 477.4 points; Miss Brown, [illegible] points, and Miss Foley, 432.4 points. The last two girls are from the W.S.A.

The 220-yard national breast-stroke championship, won by Miss Geraghty, was decided in one of the closest races of the meet. Miss Maehata was less than a foot behind at the finish. A slow start and a poor turn by the Japanese star were responsible for her defeat, as she appeared faster in swimming, but lost at the turn. Her defeat was a great disappointment to members of the Japanese team and Japanese residents here, who had hoped she would be the first of her race to win an American national title.

FEG MURRAY'S SPORTS SKETCH

"Red" Faber did not pitch, but it is safe to say that if he had he would have put everything he had on every pitch. Men like Faber, Schalk and Collins weren't even approached by the gamblers behind the Black Sox scandal.

"Red" Faber, please notice, is still pitching and winning about half of his games, even with as weak support as the 1929 Alabaster Hose sometimes give their hurlers. This is the big boy's sixteenth major league season, and his twenty-first in professional baseball. Yes, sir, "Red" started back in 1909 with Dubuque of the Three-Eye League, and was sold to Chicago by Des Moines in August, 1913, for $3500. Since then, not counting this season, he has won 216 games for the Pale Hose, which is about $16 a victory, not counting in Mr. Faber's salary. Red's best years were 1920, 1921 and 1922, when he won a total of sixty-nine games and lost forty-five. Coupled with Ray Schalk, Faber made up one of the most famous of modern batteries. He is one of the few remaining spitball hurlers left in the game.

The fifth annual Alhambra open tennis championships have been set for the 29th inst. and a four-day run by officials of the Alhambra Athletic Club where the meet will be staged. The leading stars of the Southland such as Arthur Kussman, defending champion, Jack deLara, Charles Weesner, and others have signified their intentions of performing. Kussman, the Occidental College star, who won the title over Ed Woodall last year, has just returned from the East with the national intercollegiate doubles crown in his hands.

Oaks Divide With Indians

OAKLAND, Aug. 11. (AP)—After losing a 1-to-0 game to Seattle this morning, Oakland came back this afternoon and romped over the Indians, 15 to 5, in a free-hitting game marked by seven home runs. Johnny Vergez, Oak third baseman, hit two of them, giving him six four-baggers for the series and the league leadership with thirty-three for the season. Score:

LUTZE SIGNS FOR BOUT

Conqueror of Malcewicz Agrees to Terms for Tilt in Olympic; Stecher Holding Out

Nick Lutze, the young grappler who defeated Joe Malcewicz, Utica mat panther, here last week, has been signed by Promoter Lou Daro to appear in the feature event of the all-star wrestling card he is planning for the Olympic, August 21.

Although Joe Stecher, former world's wrestling champion, had agreed to meet the winner of the Malcewicz-Lutze bout, the scissor expert has shown no inclination to leave his home in Dodge, Neb., since Lutze's victory.

Stecher and Lutze have not wrestled each other in more than a year and a half. All of their previous battles were held when Stecher was champion. Now both are after a match with Champion Gus Sonnenberg, who is slated to wrestle in defense of his title here next month.

Lutze has improved more than 50 per cent in his wrestling work since his last match with Stecher, mat experts declare. This was evidenced by his victory over the Utican, who is nationally recognized as the greatest 200-pounder the game has known in the last five years. Malcewicz holds two victories over Stecher.

The bout the 21st inst. will mark the second round of Daro's elimination tournament to obtain an opponent for Sonnenberg, and unless Stecher lives up to his agreement, the local promoter will be forced to go after some other topnotcher to send against the popular jack-knife scissor exponent.

This is the first time that Stecher has had a chance to compete for a title match since he lost the championship to Ed (Strangler) Lewis in St. Louis, February 20, 1928. Should he accept the match with Lutze, and is defeated, he will be definitely eliminated as a possible opponent for the present title-holder.

Although nothing official has been received from Dodge, as yet, Stecher is believed to be holding out for a bigger percentage of the gate for this match. Unless the Stechers wire the promoter their intentions, Daro may be forced to send the former title-holder a new guarantee to get the bout.

Lewis is another star Daro expects to land for this tournament. The former champion is said to have posted a $5000 guarantee with the State Athletic Commission here to insure his ring appearance against any grappler in the country.

Beavers and Sacs in Deadlock

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 11. (AP)—The Portland-Sacramento series ended in a 3-to-3 tie here today after the two clubs battled to a deadlock, 7 to 7, in the morning game at Stockton, and the Ducks took the final one, 6 to 4. In the first battle, called in eight frames because of time, the Sacs overcame a four-run lead. Burke's hitting featured. In the nightcap, Keating and Chesterfield were chased in midway and Cano and Fullerton took up the battle which went for ten innings before Bates hit a home run inside the park to chase in two runners ahead of him. Koehler homed in the Solon half of the tenth, but that's all the Sacs could do with Fullerton.

BRITISH STAR BEATEN

HAMBURG (Germany) Aug. 11. (AP)—Frau Von Reznicek of Germany won the German women's tennis singles championship today defeating Miss M. V. Chamberlain of England in the final round, 6-2, 5-7, 6-0.

SCHMELING HIT BY RING BOARD

signed by Buelow with Promoter Humbert J. Fugazy for a match with Phil Scott here. Buelow, still recognized by the commission as Schmeling's manager, claims Jacobs "stole" his fighter.

The commission allowed Max to box Paulino on the charity card on the promise that the Scott engagement would be filled immediately afterward. Failure to do so resulted first in suspensions, then revocation of licenses of Schmeling, Jacobs and the latter's entire string of boxers, including Andre Routis, featherweight champion.

An equally stringent ban has been placed upon Schmeling and Jacobs by Carey, successor to Tex Rickard at the head of the Garden.

"I was ready to risk suspension, the shutting down of Madison Square Garden, and the loss of $500,000 by staging a Sharkey-Schmeling bout outside of New York State in defiance of the commission but in accordance with my promise to the fighters," Carey said. "Now Schmeling has 'run out' because he thinks Jack Dempsey will give him more money for the bout. Both Schmeling and Jacobs are through forever as far as the Garden is concerned."

Carey has substituted Tommy Loughran, retiring light-heavyweight champion, for Schmeling in the Sharkey match, to be staged at the Yankee Stadium, September 19, next.

"The State Athletic Commission and boxing fans of the State of New York," the formal statement said in closing, "can get along without Schmeling and those who are handling his interests, not only now but for all time." The commission said William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, finally had abandoned his plan to stage a heavyweight title match between Schmeling and Jack Sharkey outside of New York State in defiance of the commission's orders and deplored the actions of the German and his advisers.

"I believe there is no fighter who ever came under the jurisdiction of the State Athletic Commission who received more consideration and any better treatment than Schmeling," Farley's statement said.

"He came to this country with his manager, Arthur Buelow, and we did everything we could to protect him and his manager and insisted that the contracts which his manager signed be lived up to by the promoters. We permitted him to fight Paulino Uzcudun in the milk-fund show and out of the contest he realized a substantial sum of money, probably greater than any amount he ever anticipated receiving.

"The boxing situation in the State of New York is in a healthy condition and it would be a pity if the actions of one boxer and those who are apparently controlling his interests would be responsible for creating a situation which might have an effect on boxing which would not be so beneficial in so far as its future is concerned."

STARS TRIP ANGELS TWICE

of the Wrigley Field cops would throw a few overzealous and yellow fans into jail for tossing cushions and pop bottles they'd curb a practice that's liable to result in a fatality at Wrigley Field. The cops must be almost as bad as the fans, inasmuch as they can't or don't wan't to stop this cushion-and-bottle throwing that threatens to become a regular Sunday occurrence at the local park.

Granted that Chadbourne and Green umpired terribly yesterday, and all week, for that matter, but tossing cushions and bottles is not going to improve their work, and it's liable to result in serious injury to somebody unless the practice is stopped.

SHELLENBACK HERO

Shellenback proved the whole show in the opener. The big Sheik spitball pitcher held the slugging Seraphs to six hits and helped win his own game by batting out two home runs and a single in three times at bat. Shelly's second homer definitely cinched the opener for the Stars, the blow coming in the eighth with Burkett on base to give the Sheiks a four-run margin.

Johns pitched brilliantly in the nightcap to outhurl Red Roberts. The Hollywood southpaw let the Angels down with five hits and the only run scored off him resulted from Schulmerich's home run in the fourth.

Roberts got off to a bad start and the Stars sewed up the nightcap in the first inning. Eli Funk's home run after two were out, followed by doubles from the bats of Bill Albert and Mickey Heath, produced the two Hollywood tallies.

Both games were thrillers and the fans can't complain about not getting their money's worth. The Angel fans might not have enjoyed the final results, but they must have received their share of thrills before the struggles were terminated.

The first game was tied, 3 to 3, until the seventh inning when the Stars landed on Lefty Peters and Ed Baecht for two runs that put them in front. Shellenback's homer added the final two Hollywood tallies in the eighth.

STARS SCORE IN FIRST

The Stars did all of their scoring off Roberts in the first inning of the second game, which started with Lee drawing a walk. Maloney hit into a double-play, but Funk hit a slow ball over the right-field screen for the circuit. Albert doubled to center and scored when Heath punched a two-base blow down the first-base line. Carlyle fanned and from then on the Stars were held in check by Roberts.

Schulmerich hit one into the center-field bleachers in the fourth for the lone Angel run off Johns.

Outside of Wes's blow the Angels didn't get a man past first until the seventh when Ray Jacobs doubled to left. The play on Jake was very close at second and Green's decision provoked a cushion shower from the fans. Holling, batting for Jones, fanned, and then Lee tossed out Sandberg on a spectacular play to end the game. Lee took Sandberg's hot grounder back on the grass and cut loose a quick but none too accurate throw. Heath stretched high in the air to snag the ball and managed to keep his feet on the bag while making the catch, which was made at about the same time Sandberg lumbered over the bag.

HANEY STARS

Fred Haney, the Angels' base-running fool, accounted for two of the runs off Shellenback by walking and stealing second both times. Tolson drove him home with singles each time. Haney's two stolen bases brought his total to thirty-eight for the season.

The Angels started off with a run in the first inning of the opener, which Haney began by working Shellenback for a walk. Haney then proceeded to steal second on Severeid's ancient arm and remained on the middle sack, while Statz popped to Lee and Webb fanned. Shellenback walked Berger and Slug Tolson followed with a smash to center that sent Haney scampering over the rubber. Berger took third on the hit and Tolson continued to second on Funk's throw to the far corner, but Jacobs went out, Shellenback to Heath, to leave the two runners stranded.

Hollywood tied it up in its half when Lee doubled over Berger's head and romped in on Maloney's solid right to left. Funk sacrificed Mike to second, but Rumler lined to Jacobs, who stepped on second to double Maloney and end the inning.

Peters got into a peck of trouble in the Hollywood second, but another double play helped him through the round with only one run scoring. Severeid led off with a single to left and Heath walked. Green hit into the double killing, Haney to Jacobs to Tolson, Severeid taking third. Burkett drove a hit to center that brought Severeid home. Shellenback then walked, but Berger made a sensational running one-hand catch of Lee's low liner to retire the side.

The Angels tied it up again in the third when Haney once more walked, stole second after Statz had gone out, waited while Webb fanned and Berger walked, and then scored when Tolson delivered another timely single.

Shellenback got the first of his homers in the fifth, the big Sheik slabster clouting a line drive out on the announcing horns in center field to put the Stars in front, 3 to 2.

Los Angeles came right back with a run in sixth to knot the count for the third time. Jones's single over second opened the round and Hannah bunted Bobby to second. Peters skied to Funk, but Haney smashed a single to center that brought Jones home. Haney tried for his thirty-ninth stolen base but was called out by Umpire Chadbourne when the latter switched his decision after first ruling him safe.

Hollywood threatened in the sixth on successive singles by Funk and Rumler, who were bunted along by Severeid. Peters, however, tossed out Heath and disposed of Burkett on a force play after purposely walking Green to fill the bases.

The Stars broke the tie in the seventh with a two-run splurge that chased Peters to the showers. Shellenback began the excitement with a single to left and Lee promptly bunted him to second. Maloney drove a double off the right-field bleachers, but Shellenback evidently figured Webb was going to make the catch, for he got only as far as third. Funk walked, filling the bases, and Lelivelt sent in Baecht to pitch. Rumler smashed an infield hit off Baecht to score Shellenback. Carlyle, batting for Severeid, also singled infield and Maloney came home. Baecht ended the round by fanning Heath and retiring Bassler, who batted for Green, on a fly to Berger.

Skipper Vitt was chased to the Hollywood dugout for the rest of the game in the eighth when he protested one of Umpire Green's decisions on balls and strikes. Tolson, who was batting, finally got a walk, but Shellenback retired Jacobs, Jones and Pinch-hitter Schulmerich to leave Slug stranded on first.

Burkett beat out a bunt to open the Stars' half of the eighth and Shellenback followed with a drive over the left-center field wall to completely cinch his victory, as well as give him a perfect day at the plate.

NAVY STARS TO ENTER CLASSIC

Battle Fleet Performers Display Interest

Coast Guard Almost Sure to Furnish Aid

Southern States Champion Sends in Entry

Certainty that a number of navy swimmers would compete in The Times Pre-Olympic classic at Venice and Ocean Park September 1, was contained in a telegram which was received here yesterday by the executive committee.

The wire was signed by the athletic officer of the battle fleet, aboard the U.S.C. California, and stated that information regarding The Times swim had been posted on all boats in the fleet. Inasmuch as the fleet is not scheduled to arrive here until August 31, the executive committee decided to accept any wire or written entries from fleet members, although they were not on official entry blanks.

Another telegram from the commander of the California division of the United States Coast Guard at San Francisco—"Coast Guard participation in Venice-Ocean Park swim under consideration," was taken to indicate that the officers and men at Base 17, San Pedro, would be able to assist as signalmen in the pre-Olympic classic. They volunteered their services a few days ago, subject to the approval of the commander at San Francisco.

Meanwhile entries are pouring in from Southern California swimmers. Among the recent entrants is George Staigg, former Southern States long-distance champion. Staigg is in daily training, and promises to be an important factor in the classic.

All prospective entrants who are not members of the A.A.U. are urged to register with Arnold Eddy at the University of Southern California before filling out their official entry blank. Entries received without the A.A.U. registration number will be returned. The executive committee cannot register the swimmers. Several entrants have tried to register through Charley Keppen, director of the race. These, and any others with similar ideas, must register with Eddy, if they are not already members of the A.A.U.

Other recent entrants include Burnell Yorick of Glendale; C. Klem, Frank Simmonds, Jack Riley Cheaney, Herb Morey, Charles Bradley, Thomas Nicodeno, Hartwell Shippel, Lawrence Hall and Juanita Berecochea all of Los Angeles, and Jack Spragins of Colton.

Smith Shoots Highest Score

Shooting the high score of 98 out of a possible 100, Gus Smith was high amateur at the Los Angeles Gun Club traps yesterday. E. L. Valleen headed the professional sportsmen with a 97 out of 100. Warman, Miss Roberts, H. H. Ford, Jr., and H. E. Reidenbaugh.

In the handicap trap shoot yesterday at the Los Angeles Gun Club H. E. Reidenbaugh led the field with a score of 45 out of a possible 50 at nineteen yards. Gus Smith also won in the doubles.

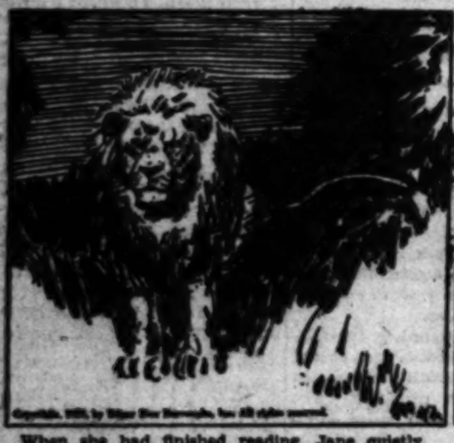
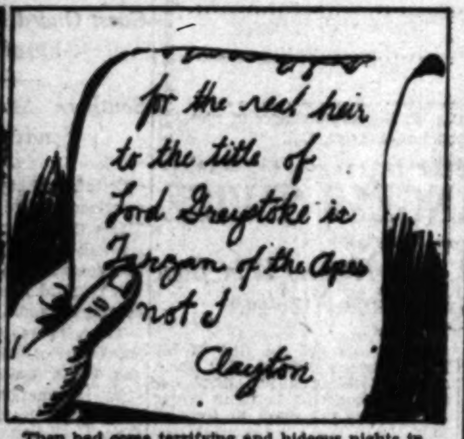
THE RETURN OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs



Copyright, 1929, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. All rights reserved.

When she had finished reading, Jane quietly handed the faded message to Tarzan. Much of its contents he already knew. In it Clayton told how, upon returning to the shelter and finding Jane gone, he had become frantic with grief. How he helplessly searched the jungle for her. But the only result of this had been to attract Numa, the lion.



for the real heir
Lord Greystoke is Tarzan of the Apes
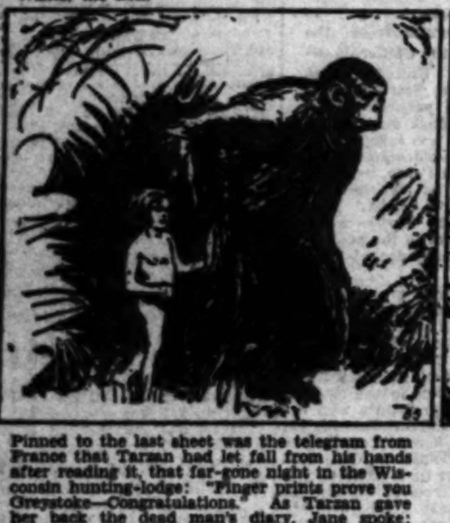
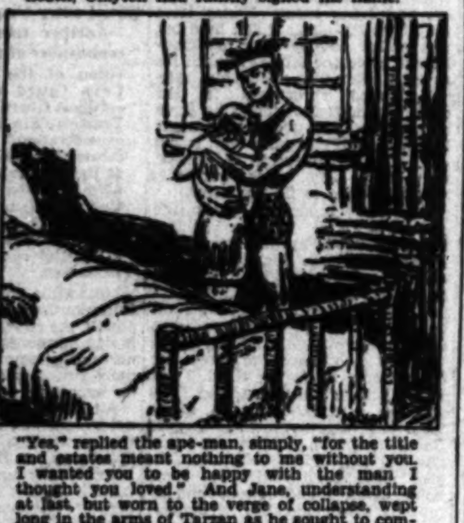
not I
Clayton

Then had come terrifying and hideous nights in the tree, where, stricken with fever, he had been left to perish by the inhuman "Thuran." And it ended by telling of his devotion and begging her forgiveness if ever his last words were brought to her. "For the real heir to the title of Lord Greystoke is Tarzan of the Apes—not I." Beneath, Clayton had faintly signed his name.



Pinned to the last sheet was the telegram from France that Tarzan had let fall from his hands after reading it, that far-gone night in the Wisconsin hunting-lodge: "Finger prints prove you Greystoke—Congratulations." As Tarzan gave her back the dead man's diary, Jane spoke: "And you knew the truth even when you told us your mother was a she-ape?"



"Yes," replied the ape-man, simply, "for the title and estates meant nothing to me without you. I wanted you to be happy with the man I thought you loved." And Jane, understanding at last, but worn to the verge of collapse, wept long in the arms of Tarzan as he sought to comfort her. The next morning they set out upon the short journey to his cabin.

Milham's Kennedy No. 1, about and one-half miles northwest the Elliott No. 1, is drilling ahead 7150 feet and field reports that it is caving in a formation ing oil and considerable gas. project has been on the verge blowing in several times within past two months, and only by ful handling has it been kept control, it is asserted.

DISCOVERY WELL

The Elliott No. 1, discovery well, producing from a depth of about feet, it is believed, although originally drilled to 7236 feet then plugged back. Since the No. 1 is nearing the depth discovery well, its progress is watched with considerable interest and every precaution is being to prevent a blow-out like which occurred in the General Corporation's Ochsner No. 1.

The Elliott No. 1 still is out of and completions near it been recommended to enable of gas pressure so that be shut down to conform agreement to curtail operations on the north dome.

Milham's Elliott No. 2 is drilling below 6785 feet and about mile away is Beal No. 1, sidetracking below 5513 feet because of hole.

The Standard Oil Company's No. on Sec. 11 is steadily increasing Yesterday's yield was mately 900 barrels of 59.8 gravity oil from a depth of feet, along with about 20,000,- cubic feet of gas, which is being made into casing head gasoline.

PLANT TO AID SMALL MINES

Barstow Custom Mill Opening September 1 Will be Boon to Ore Developers in Wide Area

BY HOWARD KEGLEY

The possibility of developing many small mining properties within a radius of 125 to 150 miles from Barstow is expressed in the announcement by the Pacific Minerals Company, Ltd., that on September 1 it will place in operation at Barstow a gravity concentration plant with a capacity of fifty tons a day, and will be prepared to treat on a customs basis such ores as are offered by producers in the district tributary to Barstow.

The plant has an ultimate capacity of 200 tons a day, and the company, according to an official announcement, is prepared to increase its concentrating capacity and to add flotation equipment in proportion to the quantity in which milling ores are offered. It will open with equipment to handle metallic ores such as lead, silver and copper.

PREPARTIONS MADE

In announcing this service the company explains that eighteen months ago when it built an ore-dressing plant on the main line of the Santa Fe Railway at Barstow primarily for the purpose of manufacturing granules which are used by the roofing trade in the manufacture of mineralized-surface asphalt shingles, it elaborated the plant to a considerable extent, having in mind the idea of putting in a concentrating department as soon as it succeeded in putting its granule manufacturing business on a profitable basis.

The plan apparently was justified by the fact that the town of Barstow, situated on the main lines of the Union Pacific and Santa Fe railways, is in the center of a richly mineralized area extending for at least 150 miles in two or three directions.

OPPORTUNITIES CITED

"Such a custom mill as our company will open September 1 offers to the small mine owner an opportunity to derive an income from his mine during a development period when he has not enough ore blocked out to justify the erection of his own mill," said Kenneth A. Williams, an official of Pacific Minerals Company, Ltd. "It also offers the owner of small properties, not large enough to ever justify a mill, the opportunity of cashing in on milling-grade ores which are not of high enough quality to justify direct shipment to a smelter."

The company maintains an office at 1901 East Slauson avenue, Los Angeles. L. R. Moretti is the resident engineer at Barstow.

STOCKTON WILL HAVE OIL TEST

Elmer People Plan Deep Boring in Round Timbers District of San Joaquin

The Elmer Oil Company is completing arrangements for a deep test for oil in the upper reaches of the San Joaquin Valley, eighteen miles east and a little north of Stockton, in what is known as the Round Timbers districts.

Aside from the activities of Edward F. Harris, former Stockton banker, who acquired approximately 30,000 acres of prospective oil land for the Elmer company, Stockton groups have been active in obtaining leases on contiguous acreage in the field. Among those more prominent in Los Angeles who are said to have recently acquired holdings, conditioned on the Elmer test are R. W. E. Cole, C. S. Hogan, Dr. A. H. Jones and Attorneys Vernon and La Rue.

The drilling program in the northern territory is encouraged by a survey made several years ago by the late Dr. F. D. Bickley, noted eastern geologist and petroleum engineer, who recommended drilling in a comprehensive report covering the district south of the Mokelumne River in San Joaquin county.

Kern County's Wildcats Cause Much Interest

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Three wildcat wells being drilled in widely separated areas in Kern county are attracting considerable attention, although no showings of consequence have been had. The wells are being drilled by the Elmer Oil Company which has no producers in this district The company has drilled 2845 feet in its No. 1 well near Bena, twenty miles east of Bakersfield. Standard tools were used, but in order to keep a perfect record of the hole at lower depth the company now is rigging up rotary.

At Rosedale, fifteen miles west of Bakersfield, the company's Houghton well is down more than 3900 feet in sandy shale, on Sec. 33, 29-26.

Elmer's deep-test well, which is going down in the Gould Hills, has reached 5550 feet, with casing set at 1485 feet.

CREW USES BAILER

Hot Sulphur Water Found in Well of Cypress Company at Fellows

FELLOWS, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Hot sulphur water was bailed from the Cypress Petroleum Company's Fairbank No. 15 well on Sec. 22, 32-23, near Fellows when the crew cleaned out the hole at 4990 feet. The hole was bailed down to 1300 feet before the water broke in. Bottom of the hole is 5191 feet with casing cemented at 4900 feet.

The Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company's No. 8 well on Sec. 7, 32-23, in the North Midway field is being reamed to set casing. The hole is down 2335 feet.

DEAD WELL PUT BACK ON ACTIVE LIST

Mohawk Oil Property in Fruitvale District Yields at 4134-Foot Depth

FRUITVALE, Aug. 11. (Exclusive) An attempt to restore production in a dead oil well proved successful a few days ago when officials of the Mohawk Oil Company, operating on Sec. 27, 29-27, in the Fruitvale district, put the Marston No. 1 well back on the active list with a yield of 500 barrels daily of 20 deg. gravity oil.

The well was deepened from 3600 feet, the old producing depth, to 4134 feet, where 500 feet of sand was uncovered, yielding good, clean oil.

The first attempt to restore production was made with cable tools, but they failed, and a rotary outfit was installed. After striking iron in the hole, the bit sidetracked and hole was made rapidly.

There has been much discussion among operators as to the probable medium of production in the Fruitvale field. A decided lack of gas in the upcoming oil has created the impression that the oil is not brought to the surface by gas pressure. One theory advanced is that it is forced up by a natural water reservoir located some distance away and at a higher altitude than the oil wells flowing under the Fruitvale district and lifting the oil to the surface. While this theory is regarded as rather improbable yet it seems to have foundation in the fact that most of the holes in the field are noting a decided increase in water content of the fluid, some of it running as high as 30 per cent of the total. The gas pressure cannot be construed to be of sufficient strength to raise production in the real producers of the field.

FORTY TONS OUTPUT OF MINE MILL

Wright Creek Company Handling Low-Grade Ore Only for Present

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Forty tons of ore are being treated daily at the mill of the Wright Creek Mining Company and being reduced to a 30-1 concentrate. Only low-grade ore will be milled until all the recently overhauled machinery can be thoroughly limbered up and the proper reagents determined.

Jasper Brewer and Fred Miller are down ninety feet with a shaft on their Horn Silver claim in the north end of the Wallapai Mountains. All the way the shaft is in ore and much material of shipping grade was taken out. Between walls the vein is eighteen feet wide, all mineralized. The values are in lead, gold and silver, with a little copper. Brewer and Miller are now planning to do considerable drifting from the bottom of the shaft.

The Mossback Extension Mining Company has been organized by Dr. L. E. Daly and local associates to develop the Mossback extension group of five gold claims. They will install a hoist immediately on the deepest shaft, which is down fifty feet. The property has a number of promising showings.

MINE TO BE DEEPENED

Ray Extension Expected to Be Producing in Six Months

RAY (Ariz.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive) Six months more should see the Ray Extension added to Arizona's list of copper producers.

Encouraged by recent developments, the directors of the company have given orders that the three-compartment shaft shall be deepened to the 300-foot level. Ore pockets will be installed there and a crosscut run to intersect the copper vein through which the shaft passes above the 200. Later the shaft will be sunk to 500 feet.

Right now the Ray Extension could ship a considerable quantity of ore, but no serious attempt at extraction will be made until the vein is opened on the 300.

WATER WELL YIELDS GASOLINE

Farmer Skims Power Fuel From Ditch

Petroleum Seepage Puzzles Geologists

Alfred Glass and one of his sons show how they drain gasoline from surface of water in irrigation ditch, run it into skimming barrel and draw it off a day or two later into a milk can, where it is transferred to storage tank.

TEN MILES from the City Hall there is a geological "soda fountain" owned and operated by Alfred Glass, who came here from Chicago in search of the land of milk and honey. He found gasoline and water. With one stroke of the pump he gets a quart of water with which to irrigate his forty-acre farm, and with the next stroke up comes a quart of gasoline for his automobile or tractor.

Geologists who have been responsible for the discovery of some large oil fields in the Los Angeles basin have investigated this natural curiosity. They have stuck their noses over the well, sniffed the fluid, seen it dumped into tractor tanks, and then have turned away in doubt, like the old farmer who saw the camel in the circus, and remarked blandly: "There ain't no such animal!"

HOW IT HAPPENED

Yet this is how it happened: Mr. Glass, needing water for irrigation, drilled 560 feet in four days and struck water, which was scummy with oil. Disappointed because he had not discovered a "kerosene mine" (because the Glass family still burns coal-oil lamps,) Mr. Glass capped the well and started a new hole which, at 360 feet, struck crystal-clear water.

Eventually he undertook to use the water from the deep well for irrigation. It always carried oil, so he lowered his irrigation ditch at several points, put a flood gate at a low spot in the ditch and skimmed the oil from the top, running it into a barrel. In this the water settles and the gasoline flows off through a pipe into a ten-gallon milk can.

GOODLY OIL SUPPLY

In this manner Mr. Glass and his two sons remove most of the oil from the water. The supply runs three autos and a tractor and they lay by considerable of it in a large storage tank. Sometimes the gasoline recovery is as much as 200 to 400 gallons a week. The little oil remaining in the ditch evaporates before it reaches the farm crops, it is asserted. Mr. Glass uses the fuel raw in his automotive equipment and finds that it has plenty of power and gives no carbon trouble.

Nobody seems to advance any good reason for the gasoline seepage. Several eminent geologists have declined to venture a professional opinion. Some have not seen the well and do not believe the story. Others have seen it, but are noncommittal. Mr. Glass says he has been recovering the gasoline regularly for twelve years. He has declined to consider several offers to lease his little farm for petroleum exploration. He resides at One Hundred and Twentieth street, about 200 yards from Central avenue.

GROUP BUYS CLAIMS

Development to Be Continued at Turkey Creek Area Mine

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Representing themselves and eastern capitalists, George R. Fulton and H. R. Montgomery have purchased from the War Eagle Company a group of eight claims in the Turkey Creek district. The price was $50,000. Development work is to be started at once and a mill erected.

ANGELENOS BUY NOTED OLD MINES

Purchasers to Build New Mill and Recover Values in Gold, Silver and Zinc

RENO (Nev.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive) The noted old Edgemont mine in the White Rock district, eighty miles north of Elko, has been purchased by A. D. Carpenter and associates of Los Angeles and Pasadena. The property has been worked intermittently for many years. The new owners are said to have paid $25,000 for the entire group.

The large ore bodies carry gold, silver, lead and zinc, with much of the material said to be refractory. Mr. Carpenter and associates made a thorough study of all the problems before completing the deal, and are said to have developed a satisfactory method for the recovery of values. Camp construction has begun, and early erection of a mill is planned.

Rehabilitation of the old Arizona silver-gold mine at Unionville, recently purchased by Mrs. Bell McCord Roberts of Long Beach, Cal., and associates, is scheduled to start shortly. The old property is reported to have produced $1,000,000 in the early days of Nevada, and now will be worked at greater depth. The 100-ton mill is to be remodeled and improved, and operated on low-grade ore blocked out in old workings.

Manager L. A. Friedman of the Nevada Quicksilver Company, operating in the Antelope Springs district, east of Lovelock, reports the development of a six-foot vein of excellent cinnabar in the Montgomery area. The ore samples 2 to 3 per cent mercury and lies on an almost horizontal sandstone wall. The claims adjoin the holdings of the Pershing Quicksilver Company and the new deposit apparently covers several acres. Production from the main property continues to be satisfactory.

WATER NOW BEING TAKEN FROM MINE

Draining of Underground Workings of Redemption Property Gets Under Way

CHLORIDE (Ariz.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—At last the underground workings of the Chloride Redemption, under development by the North Star Company, are being drained. The tunnel recently started under the main shaft is still 100 feet from its objective, yet it is draining the shaft. In the course of driving the tunnel, it cut several promising stringers th the company plans to follow.

Thirty years ago, good ore was being shipped from the Chloride Redemption shaft. Then a heavy flow of water was encountered and as machinery to handle it was not available, operations were suspended.

OIL EXPORTS AGAIN HIGH

Second Week of August Passes 3,000,000-Barrel Mark, Almost as Much as Week Before

The first two weeks of this month have been notable, from the standpoint of bulk petroleum exports from Los Angeles Harbor, in that they both have exceeded the 3,000,000-barrel mark which has been touched only three or four times in the last six years.

Last week's movement totaled 3,133,092 barrels, being only 31,032 barrels less than the combined shipments of the previous week. The significance of these movements may be judged from the fact that, taking the year as a whole, the petroleum movement from here averages less than 2,500,000 barrels a week.

GASOLINE POPULAR

Last week the call for gasoline was 284,805 barrels greater than it was the week before. Total shipment was 1,342,736 barrels, while crude oil shipments amounted to 814,093 barrels, fuel oil being next with 707,107 barrels. Kerosene shipments totaled 274,740 barrels, Diesel, 11,701 barrels, and there was a small shipment of stove distillate.

Pacific domestic orders totaled 1,346,718 barrels, embracing 673,525 barrels of crude oil, 203,667 barrels of gasoline and 468,811 barrels of fuel oil.

The Pacific foreign trade called for 641,733 barrels, which included 238,296 barrels of fuel oil, 188,823 barrels of kerosene, 140,568 barrels of crude oil, 70,441 barrels of gasoline and 3605 barrels of Diesel.

The Atlantic domestic trade took 750,028 barrels, embracing 663,382 barrels of gasoline, 78,550 barrels of kerosene and 8096 barrels of Diesel.

Shipments of gasoline to the Atlantic foreign trade totaled 387,346 barrels, and there was one cargo to 7367 barrels of kerosene to that market.

Poso Creek Area Companies Boom Developments

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—With new pipeline facilities almost completed and lease requirements pressing, major oil companies holding leases in the Poso Creek area are becoming more active and development work is being speeded up.

The Signal Oil and Gas Company spudded in its Gilmore No. 7 well a week ago on Sec. 27, 27-28 and the hole already is down 1500 feet. The ten-inch casing is being cemented.

The Pacific Western Oil Company has foundations in for its King No. 4 well and for its Rench Nos. 4 and 5, all of which are on Sec. 22, 27-28.

The Union Oil Company is rigging up for its Tribe No. 4 well on Sec. 28, 27-28, as well as for its S-M No. 6 on Sec. 4, 27-28.

The Petroleum Securities Company has the foundation about finished for its Glide-Vedder well on Sec. 25, 27-28. The Shell Oil Company is pumping about thirty-two barrels of oil daily from its Buchner No. 1 well on Sec. 20, 26-28.

NEW PLANT FOR ARIZONA MINE NEAR

Engineer Working Out Process for Recovery of Boulder Values

CHLORIDE (Ariz.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—A more modern plant is to replace the combined stamp and Chilean mill which the Boulder Mines Company has been operating with fair success for some time. Engineer Ross Householder is conducting exhaustive tests with ore from the various groups operated by the Boulder company and will devise a plant calculated to save a maximum of the values.

The Boulder has a considerable quantity of gold-copper ore at the Monster claim, while the Great West and Lucile veins yield an ore that carries little metal aside from gold. Like all Chloride ores, they are somewhat complex.

Underground development at the Lucile recently resulted in the discovery of a gold vein on the 115-foot level. Now the same vein is to be cut on the 210.

RISING SUN MINE WILL GO DEEPER

Twenty Stamps Busy on Ore from Two Levels

Production Starting at Nash Gravel Property

Point Mining Company to Install Pipe Line

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—The California Premier Mines Company, working the Big Oak and Rising Sun gold properties near Colfax, announces that twenty stamps are dropping steadily on ore from the 500 and 700-foot levels, and that the shaft is to be deepened immediately 500 feet. Drifts will be extended from the new levels to develop extensions of veins opened in the older workings.

Drifting is proceeding from the tunnel to reach a large vein, and later connect with the Big Oak workings. The management reports that recent developments have been satisfactory, and that production will soon be raised to 130 tons daily.

Production is starting at the Nash gravel mine, near Carrville, in Trinity county, operated by the MacNamara Crescent and the MacNamara Mining companies. Gravel is moved to the sluices by a four-yard scoop, operated by dragline. The management reports that ample water is available for sluicing.

The Royal Development Company, a $500,000 Nevada corporation, has acquired all the principal quartz-gold properties on Old Man Mountain, in the Meadow Lake field.

Metal Mining and Petroleum

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimen. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Quartz

LOS ANGELES, July 21.—Question: Inclosed please find sample of rock found in large quantities, San Bernardino county, Cal. Please classify it. Has it any commercial value? Mc.

Answer: It is milk-white massive quartz—not Pollucite—and carries a very thin coating of yellowish lime carbonate somewhat resembling gold. By using two minims of hydrochloric acid dilute this coating was quickly decomposed and leaving on the surface of sample microscopic crystals of hornblende. The sample is not pure enough for refineries; it would be of low value for smelter uses, and values at best are very low.

Mono County Ores

ANAHEIM, July 21.—Q.: Under separate cover I am sending you four samples from Mono county, Cal. No. 1 from face of tunnel being driven to strike ledge. Nos. 2 and 3 from main ledge, taken at widely separated points. These were taken from surface of mountainside. No. 4 another ledge and said to contain silver and gold. Nos. 2 and 3 are supposed to contain gold. I have been a subscriber to The Times for the last fifteen years and enjoy reading your In the Earth column every Monday. T.

A.: Always glad to hear from old subscribers. Sample No. 1 is quartzitic rock. It is a concentrating sulphide ore—chiefly pyrite. Chalcopyrite present with peacock iron traces. Zinc and lead found in low percentages. Similar rock should concentrate—approximately one ton of sulphides from forty-five tons of ore. No. 2 is mostly an ore of manganese iron, giving a slight reaction for cobalt. No. 3 is spongiform limonitic ore, and panned two small colors of gold. No. 4 is a mixture of iron, silica, manganese, greenish epidote and hornblende. Sulphides found, where as stated by you, is a good sign.

Crystals

REDLANDS, July 22.—Q.: I am sending seven samples for classification. What kind of garnet is No. 1 and what varieties of garnet are Nos. 2 and 3? No. 4 seems to be something like chlorite or epidote; does it contain any lead or zinc? What kind of mica is No. 5? No. 6 is probably massive clear quartz. Does No. 7 contain cinnabar? The above listed samples were taken from the mountains in Riverside county. Thanks. F.

A.: The container carrying samples was busted up in transit, and No. 1 was either pinched or missing. No. 2 is crystallized garnet known as brown garnet, essonite and cinnamon stone. No. 3 is on the order of No. 2, but of lower grade. No. 4 is tourmaline, (schorl)—zinc and lead absent. No. 5 is garnet rock carrying muscovite, (potash mica.) No. 5 is far from clear and transparent quartz; it is ferruginous quartz giving a slight reaction for opaline silica. No. 7 does not carry cinnabar. The commercial values of your samples are of problematical value as gems.

Three Samples

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—Q.: Am sending you three samples marked Tunnel 1, 2 and 3. Kindly classify this ore for me and advise what, if any values, they have. S.

A.: No. 1 is hydrous aluminum and magnesium shale mixed with some graphite and manganese. No. 2 is altered rock, chiefly limonite; manganese present lime carbonate coating, and the red is hematite. No. 3 is quartzitic and slaty rock carrying limonite and showing empty vuggs after pyrite; similar rock should give assay returns for gold. Zinc is more or less present in each specimen.

Free Gold Absent

CASTAIC, July 23.—Q.: I am sending a piece of rock from near here. Does it show any free gold. R.

Native Gold Absent

ONTARIO, July 23.—Q.: I am sending some rock samples found in San Bernardino county. Please analyze them. L.

A.: Among the specimens we find—The white ones are two of baryte and one of dolomite. The blackish rock is hornblende, and the remaining samples are granitic rock—excepting the one showing microscopic pyrite with greenish copper silicate in low percentages, each.

Altered Rock

WELDON, July 24.—Q.: Am sending you some specimens found in the Sequoia National Park, forty-five miles north of Weldon, Cal. What should the rocks be assayed for and judging by the samples do you think it would be a paying proposition to work the claims—considering the distance such rock would have to be packed? I thank you for past favors. U.

A.: The samples are in part spongiform and cellular quartz containing magnetite, hematite, limonite, and a little pseudomorphic matter after pyrite. Free gold absent. Rather doubtful ores as money makers.

Milk-white Calcite

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—Q.: Please classify the sample. Locality, Los Angeles county. D.

Detritus

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—Q.: Will you please tell me what the small yellow flakes in this soil are? Taken from a very small stream in Denver county, Colorado. MISS J.

A.: A microscopical examination of the specimen shows quartz, feldspar, various micas (including yellow mica known as cat gold.) The very small mica present consists of biotite, and the silvery mica is sericite (microscopic potash mica.) known as cat silver. Free gold not present.

Tin Absent

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.) July 26. Q.: I am sending you under separate cover four samples of tin ore. and one sample of gold and silver ore. No. 4 sample is tin nuggets just as I picked them out of the dirt. My placer claims are located in the Monticello mining district, and two lode claims—all in the same group—in Sierra county, N. M. L.

A.: Sample No. 1 is altered rock, chiefly chalcedony of botryoidal form. No. 2 is on the order of No. 3. No. 3 is altered siliceous rock; tin and available potash absent. Lime carbonate present. No. 4 consists of a piece of plumber's solder, and two samples of altered garnet. No. 5 is a mixture of lime carbonate, silica, iron oxides and more or less pyrite; zinc more or less present.

Magnetite Traces

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—Q.: Please give full analysis if possible. If quantitative only assay for platinum and gold. You will find a light gray substance below gold—if panned carefully. D.

A.: The concentrates carry black titaniferous iron, quartz, hornblende, microscopic mica and hematite. Free gold and flake platinum both absent.

Tungsten Absent

LOS ANGELES, July 28—Q.: The three samples I am sending you are from the Mojave Desert, near Red Rock Canyon. The white rock No. 1, does it carry tungsten or aluminum? No. 2 is a dark-colored one from the same ledge. No. 3 is from another ledge and should carry gold and silver; what is the white metal in it—any platinum? C.

A.: Sample No. 1 is wollastonite and it is decomposed by hydrochloric acid dilute. Chemically, it is a pyroxene with a lime base. No. 2 is a mixture, chiefly calcite; iron in low percentage, and some wollastonite. No. 3 carries no white metal. It is a mixture of limonite and lime carbonate. Flake platinum not present in any sample. For gold and silver, please consult assayers.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—Q.: Found in Los Angeles county. MRS. W.

SEABOARD AIR LINE RAILWAY COMPANY PLAN

Five Per Cent. Adjustment Mortgage Gold Bonds, due 1949

Dated May 27, 1929

To Bankers and Brokers:

As there has been no recent interest payment on Seaboard Air Line Railway 5% Adjustment Mortgage Gold Bonds, there is no complete list of the present owners of these bonds. A very large part of the known holders whom it has been possible to advise of the Plan have deposited their bonds thereunder, but there still remain approximately $7,000,000 of the bonds undeposited held in large part by owners unknown to the Company with whom the Company and the Committee have therefore been unable to communicate. It is believed many of these unknown bondholders are customers of bankers and brokers.

Both the officers of the Company and the Committee fear that many of these bondholders are not advised of the Plan. In the belief that the prompt deposit of any undeposited Adjustment Bonds is greatly to the advantage of the owners thereof, they urge all bankers and brokers to bring the Plan to the attention of all customers believed to own these bonds and to recommend the immediate deposit of all undeposited bonds.

Requests for copies of the Plan and information relating thereto should be addressed to the Secretary of the Committee, Edmund Burke, Jr., 63 Wall Street, New York City.

The Certificates of Deposit are listed on the New York Stock Exchange and therefore may be used as collateral.

The extended period for the deposit of bonds will expire next Friday, August, 16, 1929.

All owners of undeposited bonds wishing to obtain the benefits of the Plan should deposit their bonds promptly with the Depositary, The National Park Bank of New York, 214 Broadway, New York City.

August 12, 1929.

of the old bins have broken out at the bottom and sides under the weight of ore piled into them since the strike was made. The stock pile that was started because of short bin capacity is now of sizable proportions. In a few days, however, the tramway will be hauling this ore away to the mill. The milling machinery is being repaired with all possible speed.

STRIKE ORE BODY

A strike of encouraging proportions is reported from the 500-foot level of the Oatman Gold. A crosscut being driven toward the Kokomo vein intersected a vein that is fully fifty feet between walls. The filling is a mass of stringers, some of which run $9.65 a ton and some as low as $2 or $3. It is believed that a solid body of good ore can be opened by driving eastward on this showing.

OIL TANKERS SENT CLEAN BEACH PLEA

Playground Official Asks That Ballast be Pumped as Far Out as Possible

Co-operation of all oil companies using Los Angeles Harbor, to keep oil off the beaches, is requested in communications being sent to them by Supt. Hjelte of the Playground and Recreation Department.

Hjelte, in the communications, pointed out that the nine miles of public beaches adjacent to the city are its greatest recreational adjunct and that the oil is detrimental to their use.

He suggests as a remedy that tankers, in pumping ballast, do so further out to sea than the three miles to which they are limited at present. He urges that the companies request shipmasters to discharge ballast as far out as possible so that it will not drift in immediately on the beaches.

Hjelte's action follows that of the County Supervisors who have taken up the subject of pollution of beaches by oil, and action by Representative Crail, who is pushing a bill in Congress to end the nuisance.

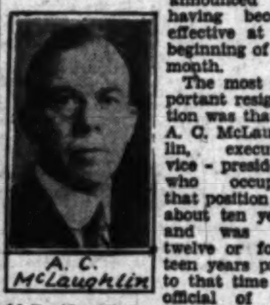
STAFF CHANGED BY OIL COMPANY

A. C. McLaughlin Resigns from Associated

L. J. King, Another Official, Also Leaves Concern

Former to Become Southern Pacific Consultant

The long-expected series of changes in the offices of the Associated Oil Company has just been announced as having become effective at the beginning of the month.



A. C. McLaughlin

The most important resignation was that of A. C. McLaughlin, executive vice-president, who occupied that position for about ten years and was for twelve or fourteen years prior to that time an official of the old Pacific Oil Company.

Another important resignation was that of L. J. King, fifth vice-president in charge of production, and with the Associated Oil Company for twenty-seven years. J. H. Jenkins, who formerly was with the Tidewater organization in Texas, becomes general manager of production, and J. A. Jones will be manager of production under Mr. Jenkins.

DECIUS GEOLOGIST

In the geological end of the organization, L. C. Decius becomes chief geologist, J. A. Taff of the San Joaquin Valley district becomes consulting geologist, and Joseph Jensen, formerly on the geological staff, becomes chief petroleum engineer. He has been discharging these duties since February.

L. J. King, who is now vacationing at Catalina, has issued no statement as to his future plans, but it is believed that he will continue to reside here and will make a connection with one of the major companies here.

A. C. McLaughlin, who started in the oil business thirty-five or forty years ago as a geologist with the United States Geological Survey, is leaving active corporation work after nearly thirty years. For a time he was in charge of a refinery in Texas, then he joined the Southern Pacific Railway forces and came to California with the old Pacific Oil Company which the Espee sold a few days ago Standard Oil Company of California.

McLAUGHLIN CONSULTANT

From the Pacific, Mr. McLaughlin went to the Associated, which also was controlled by the Southern Pacific, and served in the capacity of executive vice-president for about ten years. Altogether, Mr. McLaughlin was for twenty-two years with the Southern Pacific or corporations controlled by it.

It has been learned that Mr. McLaughlin who, for two consecutive terms was president of the Chamber of Mines and Oil in Los Angeles, will make a new connection with the Southern Pacific in the capacity of a consultant, and will devote considerable of his time to general consultation along the lines of geology and petroleum production. He expects also to devote some time to the general interest of the oil industry in California.

"I am intensely interested in conservation," says he, "and would like, if possible, to be of service to the industry and the public along that line."

New Oil Wells Authorized in Kern County

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—During the past week seven new wells were authorized in Kern county.

The Ohio Oil Company is continuing its drilling program on the Bear State property in the West Belridge field by drilling No. 29 on Sec. 30, 28-21.

The Union Oil Company of California plans to drill its No. 4 and No. 5 on Sec. 4, 27-27.

The Agey Petroleum Corporation is to drill its No. 1 on Sec. 28, 27-27.

The Signal Oil and Gas Company is to drill its No. 7 on Sec. 27, 27-28, in the Poso Creek field. The location is 2174 feet south and 160 feet east from the northwest section corner.

The Pacific Western Oil Company is to drill its King No. 3, on Sec. 22, 27-28, in the Poso Creek field.

As a part of its exploration program, Shell Oil Company will start the drilling of core-hole "G" on Sec. 1, 29-26. The location is two miles north from the Muroc Development Company well which was drilled to 1500 feet and abandoned years ago. As a result of these core holes, Shell geologists are able to make deductions from which the feasibility of drilling a test well is determined.

STANDARD MAKES TEST

Deep-Test Well Near Taft Now Down 6215 Feet in Hard Shale

TAFT, Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—The Standard Oil Company is making a real deep-test well of its Mascot No. 1 on Sec. 26, 32-23, west of Taft. The hole already is down 6215 feet and the drill is progressing in hard brown shale. The casing was set at 996 feet.

The Republic Petroleum Company's No. 35 well on Sec. 8, 32-23 is drilling in shale at 2230 feet with casing set at 1272 feet.

PROSPECT DIM FOR MARICOPA

Decline of Promising Wells Shakes Confidence

Best Producers Taper Off or Turn Wet

Observers' Hopes Pinned on Deeper Drilling

MARICOPA, Aug. 11. (Exclusive) Although operators in the Maricopa Flats oil field feel certain that time will vindicate their belief that the Flats possesses an oil field of inexhaustible measure, yet recent endeavors to prove this belief have been rather disappointing, judged by the recent completions which have quickly dwindled to insignificant production and some of which have turned out to be principally wet jobs.

The last three months have netted Sec. 8, 11-23, a number of real wells, which came in as heavy producers but many of which now are proving to be costly and unproductive to a degree that practically prohibits future drilling activities at anything above the 3400-foot level.

LIGHTS THAT FAILED

Some of the more important wells that have failed to live up to the expectations of the operators are the Birch-Royer on Sec. 7, the North America's Sunset and Bronco No. 1 and two of the Signal Oil and Gas Company's Sheenan holes on the same section.

The Birch-Royer well, with an original production of more than 1800 barrels of 25-deg. gravity oil, is being plugged back in an effort to shut off water which has replaced the oil almost 100 per cent. So far the attempt is unsuccessful and the hole is now producing 800 barrels of water daily with a few barrels of scum oil.

The Signal Oil and Gas Company's Sheenan No. 1, an initial 500-barrel producer, soon dwindled to the 100-barrel class and is being redrilled in an attempt to re-establish production.

PRODUCERS DIE

The North American has suffered the most in that territory. Two wells producing more than 6000 barrels daily, are now in the doubtful class, according to reports. Its Sunset No. 1, brought in as a gusher of 4000 barrels per day, turned into a water well and sanded up. The Bronco No. 1, a 1000-barrel well, is a wet job.

The Havenstrite No. 1, the Standard's Graham No. 1, the Jack Doyle No. 1, have all taken a bad turn and are being plugged back to regain the original production. The Doyle hole was a real commercial well, doing more than 1000 barrels daily.

Every well drilled on the Flats and especially on Sec. 8, has turned out to be short lived. The reason advanced for this quickly dwindling production is usually laid to the fact that all the wells are flowing from the top sands of the brown shale area, which lie between 2600 and 3500 feet.

Mexico Ships More Ore for Texas Smelter

EL PASO (Tex.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—With the improvement of mining conditions in Mexico, the construction of an addition and improvements to the smelter here of the American Smelting and Refining Company has been resumed. One of the main items on the expansion program is the installation of an electrolytic precipitator plant, which is expected to make a recovery of at least 90 per cent of the twenty tons of fine ore dust that daily escape from the smokestack.

The smelting furnace is being rebuilt, and the ore-sampling mill remodeled with modern equipment. Shipments of approximately 5000 tons of ore a month are now being received by the smelter from Mexico and the force of employees has been restored to normal.

Arizona Mine Company Will Deepen Shaft

CHLORIDE (Ariz.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—A new corporation, the Chloride Consolidated Mines, has been organized to operate the Big Tennessee, one of the old mines of the Chloride district.

The company is capitalized at $1,500,000. W. Donald Nickelson is president. All the officers and directors are Portland (Or.) capitalists except W. B. Twitchell, a director. Twitchell is a Phoenix man who made a fortune in the early development of the copper mines at Ray. Horace Armishaw is superintendent.

One of the first steps of the new owners will be to sink the main shaft to 500 feet and crosscut out under the territory from which so much ore was extracted a few years ago. The main values are lead and silver.

OLD MINE CAMP BOOMS AGAIN

Population of Pioche, Nev., Doubles in Six Months After Sixty Years

BULLFROG (Nev.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—The old mining camp of Pioche, famous sixty years ago for its rich mines, ruthless gunmen and lurid life, is having a sensational "comeback." In the last six months its population has doubled, scores of new buildings and homes now are under construction, and more than 500 men are employed in the various mines.

The remarkable rejuvenation of the old camp is largely due to important ore developments in mines controlled by the Combined Metals, Pioche Mines, Bristol Consolidated, Pan-American and other corporations.

The Combined Metals Company is credited with enough ore blocked out to assure steady production for ten years.

AGITATORS IN ISOLATED MINE AREA

French Copper Company Appeals to Government of Mexico in Trouble

CHIHUAHUA (Mex.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Until recently the Boleo Copper Company (the French company,) which for more than forty years has operated large copper mines and smelter at Santa Rosalia, Lower California, has not been disturbed by labor troubles of any moment.

Radical agitators a short time ago made their way to the isolated area in which the company's extensive holdings are located and created dissension among the laborers, which resulted in an appeal to the Mexican government on the part of the company to restore and maintain order at the mines.

The Boleo Copper Company's operations have been carried on so quietly that but little knowledge of the mines and their production has gone to the outside world. The property is on the east side of the peninsula, where the company created its own town, port and shipping facilities. The only transportation outlet is down through the Gulf of California to the Pacific.

The copper matte is shipped to France in the company's own ships. Santa Rosalia is so far removed from ordinary lanes of travel that it is seldom visited by persons other than officials and employees of the company. All during the protracted revolutionary period of Mexico the mines and smelter were operated without interruption.

MINES SHOW MORE LIFE IN ARIZONA

Projects in Casa Grande Region Have Prospects of Increased Activity

CASA GRANDE (Ariz.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive) — Many a year has passed since Casa Grande saw as much activity in mine development as is now in progress at prospects lying near here.

Among the most promising of these prospects is the Black Diamond. The president of the company is Charles A. Mitke, an engineer long connected with the Copper Queen and other Arizona copper corporations. He is now supervising some mining development in Australia, but as soon as he returns the directors will decide what to do with the showing of free-milling gold ore exposed at the Black Diamond.

Thirty carloads, each of fifty tons, have been recently shipped from the Reward mine to the Magma smelter at Superior. Kim Pomeroy of Mesa is the owner.

Another new shipper is the Lake Shore, forty miles south of Casa Grande. Frank M. Leonard is in charge of the development campaign that has been in progress there for the last year.

DUTY ON MANGANESE CONCENTRATES FIXED

Word has been received by the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce that the United States Senate Finance Committee has approved of a duty of 1 cent a pound on 10 per cent manganese concentrates or better.

TONOPAH MINES QUIT

TONOPAH (Nev.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—The past week has chronicled a number of important events in the territory tributary to Tonopah. The Tonopah-Belmont Company, one of the oldest and most successful Tonopah operators, announced that all corporation activities have been discontinued, and that the ground in future will be worked by leasers.

The Nevada Coalition Company has surrendered the bond and option held for several months on the Schubert-Coop gold property at Manhattan, after spending $20,000. A few months ago the property was hailed as one of the great gold mines of Nevada.

The Gold Zone Divide Company has retired from the Divide field after vain efforts to develop a dependable producer, has leased its ground to Tonopah miners, and announced that its activities will be confined to claims north of Round Mountain. This property lies near the mines of the Gold Hill Development Company.

The New Alto Divide Company reports that it will again attempt to make a mine at Divide, after vain endeavors to develop profitable properties in other fields.

Manager W. H. Blackburn of the Treadwell-Yukon properties at Tybo, says that its plant is now treating 200 tons of ore daily, and that production will soon be raised to 350 tons. Ore developments continue to be satisfactory, with the immense reserves largely augmented by the opening of new ground in the last six months.

DROUGHT SLOWS ARIZONA MINES

Hydroelectric Power Cut by Dry Weather

Heavy Summer Rains Fail to Correct Situation

Companies Near Superior Hit by Lack of Current

SUPERIOR (Ariz.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—Arizona's long drought and consequent shortage of hydroelectric power from the plants along Salt River is hampering mine operation and development in the Superior district.

The Salt River Valley Water Users' Association is unable to deliver its full contract load to the Magma Copper Company, which has begun the erection of a stand-by steam plant that is to be ready by October 1, next. In the meantime a number of Magma employees are taking enforced vacations.

The Belmont practically is shut down because of lack of power.

Summer rains have been far heavier than usual, but they have not added greatly to the supply of stored water which is used to generate current at Roosevelt and the dams below. Only a very wet winter can permanently relieve Arizona's power situation.

Aside from the fact that there is not enough electricity, the outlook at Superior is rosy. The Magma Company announces that next January it again will be extracting ore from the bottom levels, which have been closed since the disastrous fire of two years ago. The main shaft will be sunk to the 3100-foot level and concreted all the way down, this to be accomplished by December. This is expected to augment the Magma's present ore output of 700 tons daily and its smelter production of 3,000,000 pounds a month

At Magma Apex, diamond drills have penetrated a blind ledge that assays $17 in gold, with some copper. The ore for which the drills were pointed is still 200 feet away.

MILL CHANGE PLANNED

Arizona Company Installing All-Cyanide Plant to Save Values

HACKBERRY (Ariz.) Aug. 11. (Exclusive)—The Walker Mines Company is changing its fifty-ton mill over to an all-cyanide plant with a view to saving a greater percentage of the gold. Average assays are $26 a ton.

The mill is now running only to part of its capacity, but development is being pushed on the 220-foot level in the hope of providing enough ore to keep the reduction works grinding twenty-four hours a day. T. F. Wilder is superintendent.

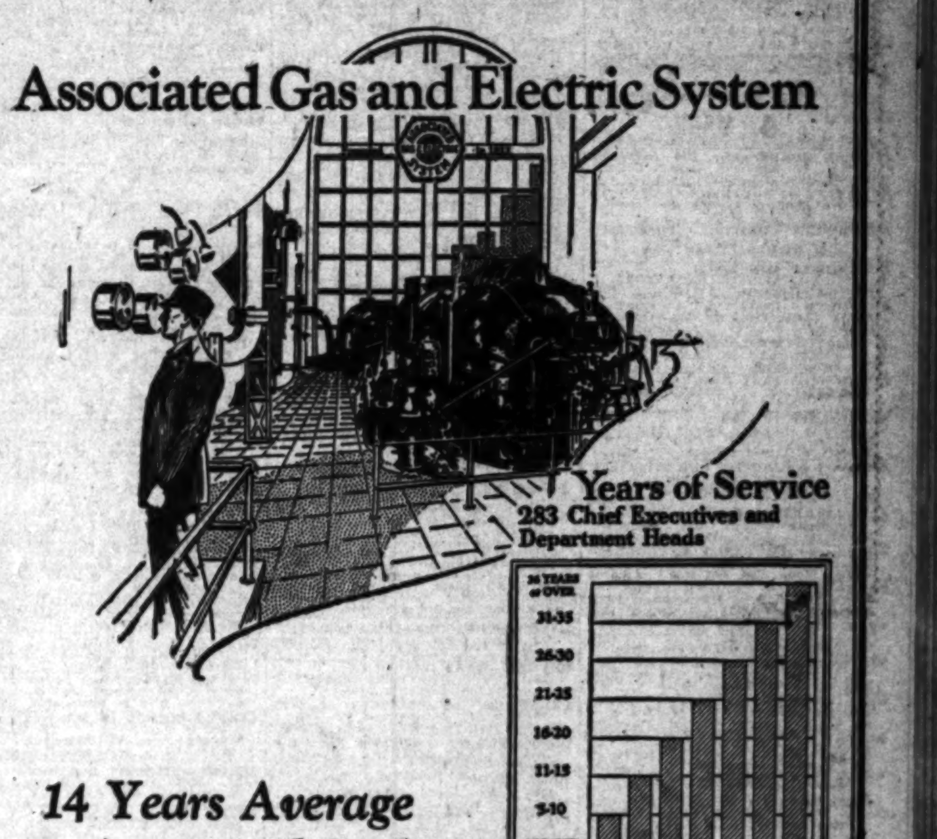
Associated Gas and Electric System



14 Years Average
Associated Service

122 security dealers in New York, Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia were asked to rate the factors their clients considered most important when investing in public utility securities. Management rated second only to the most important factor—"Earnings of the Utility."

Directing the operations of the Associated System are 34 major executives. They average over 22 years of public utility experience.

The 283 chief executives and department heads average 14 years of Associated service. Eight have served the Associated System over 35 years and 14 more over 30 years. 83 have served over 20 years.

The long service of so large a proportion of capable executives within the Associated System has made possible its impressive record of growth. This is reflected in the high standing of Associated securities as an investment.

GIRL'S FLAPPER STYLES WIN

Lettie Lee Tells of Her Achievement

East Now Copies Her Designs

Miss Lee in two poses showing dresses in styles she designed.

IT IS like a story in a "success" magazine—this story of a diminutive, wide-eyed miss from a Texas farm, who came here six years ago with nothing more than a large supply of enthusiasm and determination to win fame and fortune.

She is Miss Lettie Lee, and today, after hurdling the prejudices and disappointments that blocked her way, she has carved out an enviable niche as a creator of styles indigenous to California, which have played an important part in Los Angeles' fast-growing reputation as a fashion center.

At her offices at 834 South Broadway Miss Lee yesterday told what has put this city on the map in the world of fashion.

"Two things," she said, "have made New York and Paris sit up and take notice, high ties, as we say in the vernacular, or normal waistlines and form-fitting silhouettes. You see, designers elsewhere have overlooked the small, slim girl, and, recognizing that fact, we have created here a type of clothes especially for youth.

"At first Paris and New York smiled condescendingly and said there would be no demand for such extreme styles, and here we met with no favor from local merchants because they were so sure that anything made here would smack of the loving-hands-at-home variety of garment. But finally the younger girls themselves began to demand our type of thing and now Paris is sponsoring the very things at which it once scoffed, and in the East Hollywood styles are advertised everywhere. Some day I believe we will compete with New York as a manufacturing center and it will be because we dare to do things that are different."

Miss Lee came here first when she was 16 years of age. She had lived on a farm, gone to a finishing school in one of the Texas cities and taken a course in a business school. But in the South, she said, the idea of a career for a woman did not meet with approval, so she came to Los Angeles with the idea of breaking into motion pictures.

That did not work, so she thought she might possibly be a newspaper writer, and she declares that never as long as she lives will she forget her utter despair as she sat on a bench in Central Park, now Pershing Square, with a rejected story in her hand and the knowledge that she was not cut out for that role.

Then, like the stories go, she read an article in a magazine of a Los Angeles woman who had made a success as a designer of women's apparel and she determined that some day she would make as great a success as this woman.

There followed a period of apprenticeship which covered all an-

RICH WOMAN SUPPORTED BY COUNTY

Inmate of Home Found to be Owner of Property Worth $30,000

Although Mrs. Edith G. Barnes, who was divorced four months ago, has $30,000 in her own rights, she apparently knows nothing of it, and has been living on county charity, it appeared from court records yesterday.

After she had been placed in the Clara Barton Home as incompetent, Mrs. Barnes left the institution on several occasions and went to the house where she and her husband, Frank Barnes, formerly lived. The house had been awarded to the husband in divorce proceedings.

According to Ivan Miller, the woman's attorney, Mrs. Barnes finally was arrested for illegal entry: on her persistent attempts to break into her former home. All she would say to arresting officers was:

"I am waiting for my husband. We expect to spend our honeymoon here."

Arraigned for trial in Municipal Judge Bogue's court, Mrs. Barnes was found to be incompetent, and released to the custody of a probation officer. Meanwhile Attorney Miller, who was appointed by Judge Bogue to represent Mrs. Barnes, discovered that she had $30,000 in real estate, not included in her divorce property settlement.

Mrs. Barnes, it appeared, had forgotten all about this property and was accepting aid from the county charities. If the woman's title to the property is found clear, it will be the duty of the county counsel to sue her to recover the amount of money the county charities has expended on her support.

DRIVE PLANS LISTED FOR MT. SINAI HOME

In a statement of general plans for the $50,000 maintenance fund drive of the Mt. Sinai Home for Chronic Invalids, which will begin September 8, next, Ben Platt, general campaign chairman, announced the appointment of Philip Senegram, business man, as a member of the campaign executive committee. Groups will be formed of representatives of every local industry, who, in turn, will appoint groups of workers to help in the actual work of the campaign. A series of dinners and luncheons is planned for the week of the 19th inst.

NEW SHIPS FOR LATIN RUN

Chamber of Commerce Reveals Panama Mail's Plans Based on Getting Postal Contract

Increased shipping facilities through the addition of several new fast freight and passenger liners is in sight for the trade between Los Angeles Harbor and the ports of the West Coast of Mexico and Central America, according to an announcement yesterday by manager Arnoll of the Chamber of Commerce.

First news that the Panama Mail Steamship Company has in contemplation the construction of larger and faster ships for its service between this port and New York, via the Panama Canal and Latin-American ports, was disclosed by Mr. Arnoll in connection with the statement detailing the stand taken by the chamber in supporting the steamship company's application for a mail contract between California and Central America. The chamber's board of directors has indorsed the Panama Mail application for the contract and also has petitioned Postmaster-General Brown to give the matter favorable consideration.

Clarence Matson, manager of the chamber's foreign commerce department who has handled most of the organization's work in contact with the steamship company, said yesterday:

"We understand that the Panama Mail Steamship Company has in contemplation the construction of larger and faster ships for its service, providing it is granted the mail contract which it now is seeking. The granting of this contract therefore would serve a double purpose of giving the public far better mail facilities between California and ports of Latin America, in which we are vitally concerned. It also would afford us very much better passenger and freight service for the upbuilding of American trade in the regions designated."

TRAFFIC TAKES LIVES OF THREE

Several Others Near Death from Injuries

Loaded Auto Rolls Down High Embankment

Score Hurt Seriously In Sunday Crashes

Two men were killed in traffic accidents in and near Los Angeles last night; a third died from injuries received several days ago, and two men are believed dying, with almost a score of others seriously injured in the grist of week-end accidents.

One of those believed dying, R. Fujimore, 34 years of age, of 303 South Hewitt street, was the victim of a hit-and-run autoist who left the Japanese lying with a broken back at the corner of First and Alameda streets.

Another was an unidentified man who crashed his car into a parked automobile in front of 636 Clover street. Seven youths, ranging from 17 to 20 years of age, were in a car which turned over on the highway near Rosewood, twelve miles from Lancaster; crashed through a guard rail and rolled down a fifty-foot embankment, resulting in the death of Howard M. Neicdecke, 20 years of age, 804 South Temple street, Alhambra.

Two other youths, occupants of the car, Clifford Buckley, 3357 Casedas avenue, Los Angeles, and Russell Morse, 612 Chandler avenue, Monterey, received skull fractures and other injuries which, physicians at the Lancaster Hospital say may result in their deaths.

DRIVER LOSES CONTROL

According to the report of Patrolman George Kinton of Lancaster, the car was driven by Joe Hickman of Alhambra and crashed into the rail when the driver lost control.

Lyle S. Berryman, 29, an employee of the Brunswig Drug Company was killed yesterday evening when the small car he was driving ran wild at the corner of Lincoln avenue and Howard street in Pasadena and crashed into a telephone pole. Two passengers riding with Berryman, Richard W. Horn, 42, 1212 Stanford street, South Pasadena, received a skull fracture, and Jack Robinson, 36, 1475 Avenue Sixty-four, Los Angeles, received undetermined injuries. The police report of the accident indicated that the men had been drinking and had lost control of their car.

John J. Camley, 52 years of age, of 1555 West First street, succumbed in the General Hospital following injuries received the 9th inst., when he was struck down by a machine on Ventura Boulevard near Diaz avenue. The car, according to police, was driven by Mrs. Elizabeth Horn of 118 East Fourth street, San Pedro. A Coroner's inquest into the fatality will be conducted this morning.

AUTO RACER JAILED

Jim Hayes, automobile-racing driver, 44, of 445 East Seventeenth street, is the arrested man. He was booked on suspicion of driving while drunk, following a collision between the car he was driving and a truck in the 2900 block of San Fernando Road. In the crash his wife, Mrs. Minnie Hayes, received injuries which may prove fatal. At the Osteopathic Hospital she was reported suffering concussion of the brain, broken ribs and possible internal injuries. Two passengers in the Hayes car, Mrs. James L. Foster, 22, of 1729½ Wall street, and her year-old son, escaped with minor cuts and bruises. After treatment at Physicians' and Surgeons' Hospital, Glendale, they were able to go home.

The driver of the truck, Jack C. Owens, 44, of 134 Pine street, Norwalk, and his passenger, Robert C. Kuna, 20, of 408 East Forty-third street, were held as material witnesses, but later were released.

TAXI AND AUTO COLLIDE

Narcisco Barajan, 23, of 914 Bartlett street, was reported to have suffered a fractured skull in a collision between an automobile in which he was riding as passenger, and a taxicab driven, according to a police report, by L. E. Rocherig. The crash occurred at Solano street and Broadway. John Gonzales, driver of the car, 26, of 1256 Riccardo street, was booked on suspicion of drunk-driving. Mrs. Elobia Bina, 26, of 1431 North Naud street, another passenger in Gonzales's machine, escaped with minor hurts.

Lee Huigrago, 150 North Daly street, reported to the Lincoln Heights Police Station that an unidentified driver, apparently a Mexican, crashed into his parked automobile as it was standing in front of 636 Clover street, knocked his car a distance of 200 feet and finally rolled over.

The car was registered to Boresario Baron of Averhill, Cal., and a driver's license made to Pedro Rodriguez was found in the wrecked car. Attendants at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital said the driver had little chance to live.

LONG BEACH HAS EYEFUL OF PAJAMAS

Throngs See 150 Girls in First Annual Parade With Vari-Colored Creations

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Aug. 11.—Pajamas held sway as the reigning attraction here today, when 150 of the city's prettiest girls took part in the first annual pajama parade through the gaily bedecked streets of the amusement zone. While thousands crowded about the line of march, uttering appreciative exclamations of delight the fair models displayed an unbelievably varied assortment of bedtime creations, including every known and hitherto unknown design and shaming the rainbow with their riotous colors and combinations of colors.

When they had passed in review before the board of judges, which, believe it or not, consisted of four males, the parading maidens heard Evelyn Slater of 825 Ohio avenue acclaimed the winner. She was awarded the $50 cash prize for giving Long Beach an eyeful of an elaborate white-embroidered ensemble.

The next four choices were Lois Stevens of 44 Alamitos avenue; Cecile Pensley of 125 West Twelfth street; Selma Blaten of 443 Crystal Court, and Gertrude Webber of 927 West Third street.

City Prosecutor John K. Hull, Councilman J. J. Barton, Harry Slaugh and W. E. Kruckman constituted the board of judges. The affair was planned and presented by Squire De Ree.

Truck Stalls at Wrong Time

Because Anthony Salamani's truck stalled at the wrong time, he must face jury trial in Municipal Court for liquor possession.

Police Sergeant McHale reported he observed a small truck stalled on Lookout Drive near Lilac Terrace at 7 a.m. When he investigated, he found it loaded with thirty-four five-gallon bottles and three twenty-five gallon kegs as well as ten five-gallon bottles of moonshine, he told Municipal Judge Ambrose. Salamani, who gave his age as 23 years and address as 832 North Broadway, will be tried on September 4, next, Judge Ambrose ordered.

EX-CONVICT'S WEALTH MAY BE TURNED OVER TO STATE

Most prisoners are maintained in San Quentin prison at the expense of the State, but for every one of the six years that James Boone, a convicted hold-up man, spent in San Quentin, the State of California has a good chance to collect $1000.

The story of Boone, which is a story of strange coincidences, was revealed when Attorney James Hosick, former police detective, turned over Boone's $6000 estate to the public administrator, because no relatives appeared to claim his property.

Hosick, when a detective, arrested Boone for robbery. Because he could not give his wife luxuries on his small salary, Boone said, he turned to a life of crime. A few months later his wife sued for divorce but before the decree could be granted she was killed in an automobile accident.

Six years later, Boone was released. Hosick meanwhile had become an attorney, and got Boone a job at his old-time trade of plastering. By industry and saving habits, he accumulated $6000. He never married again, and apparently never communicated with his relatives, who had forgotten him while he was in the penitentiary.

Under the law, the public administrator must take charge of the estate of a man leaving no relatives, and if in six years there are no claimants, the money is forfeited to the State.

PACKERS GONE ONE BETTER

Even Squeal of Porkers Used In "Talkie" Sequence of Film Production

The common or barnyard variety of hog now "gets a break."

The other morning, when the call sheets for the various companies in production at the Paramount studios were posted, one read:

"Ready at 10 a.m. Exterior of royal pig pen, stage No. 5 for sound sequences, Ernst Lubitsch, director.

"Actors—Three pigs.

"Crew—Two cameras, sound crew, electricians, carpenters, grips, property crew, painter, still cameraman, set dresser."

The sheet caused no little comment but it was all a very serious matter.

In the story the queen loves pigs—hence the "royal pig pen" and the three pigs.

RICHARDSON AUTO CRASH INQUEST DUE

Death of Couple Struck by Keyes's Aide's Cars to be Investigated Today

An inquest will be conducted by Coroner Nance at 3:30 p.m. today into the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Corry, each 60 years of age, of 282 South Rampart Boulevard, who were killed Saturday night when they were struck down by an automobile as they were crossing Rampart Boulevard about a block from their home. The automobile is asserted to have been driven by Howell W. Richardson of 417 North Oakhurst Drive, who was a deputy District Attorney during the Keyes regime, and he is being held in the City Jail on a charge of suspicion of manslaughter.

No effort was made yesterday to obtain the release of Richardson on bail and fixing of the date for his arraignment has been held up pending the result of the inquest. He was visited in the jail yesterday by his mother, who was considerably upset over his situation.

The chief witness at the inquest will be Arthur Chapman, a streetcar conductor, to whom Richardson gave his name, address and the license number of his car before, according to his story, he left the scene to call an ambulance. Richardson told the police that when he returned an ambulance already had arrived and had taken the couple to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

Richardson added that after ascertaining that the couple had died he surrendered himself to the police. He was taken by Detective Lieutenants Hickey and Steed to the receiving hospital and examined by Dr. Arnold Saverein, who reported that he found no indications that Richardson had been drinking.

EIGHT FACE LEGAL TANNING

Arm of Law Again Laid on Bare Backs at Beach In Campaign Against Nudity

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 11.—After peeking through the windows from within the deserted Gables Club at the foot of Norton street here today, two detectives, two police sergeants and five officers swooped down on a startled crowd of bathers on the open beach in front of the club and placed eight persons, one a woman, under arrest for assertedly lowering their bathing suit shoulder straps.

Those booked at the local police station on a technical charge of disturbing the peace in an attempt to get sun-tanned backs, are:

Mr. and Mrs. M. Diamond, 608 South Cloverdale street, Los Angeles; John Stephenson, 18, a clerk, 6219 Kinson avenue, Los Angeles; Mark M. Cohen, 30, attorney, 1737 South Whitley street, Los Angeles; Joe Randall, 31, salesman; 1737 South Whitley street, Los Angeles, Richard Morley, 20, clerk, 735½ South Dunsmuir avenue, Los Angeles; Aaron Rosenberg, 17, student, 6112 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood; Jack Hilliard, 21, student, 730 Sutter street, San Francisco.

Police released the eight bathers on their own recognizance, ordering them to appear for trial here next Friday.

The "raid" was conducted by the detectives and officers with as much preparation as setting a net for smugglers. The two detectives "staked out" in the clubhouse and peeked through the windows until they saw a few bathers getting sun-tanned from the waist up.

They called up their seven reserves and scampered through the sand attempting to catch as many young men and women as possible before the bathers dived in the surf, ran under the clubhouse or

SCHOOLS LOSE GROUND IN RACE

Pupils Increasing Faster Than Facilities

Failure of Bond Election Causes Dilemma

Part-Time Instruction for Thousands Looms

While civic bodies in outlying portions of the school district are constantly petitioning the Board of Education to do away with part-time classes, inquiry at the board has revealed that there is not only no chance of betterment in this situation during the coming school year but that an ever greater number of children will have to be content with part-time instruction than was the case last year.

The usual increase in school enrollment is expected, but there will be only a slight increase in the total seating capacity of the school district because of the voters' failure to approve the $29,400,000 bond issue put forward by the board in June, 1928, and the board's consequent inability to carry out the building program which it deemed commensurate with the district's needs.

LOSING GROUND

While, according to J. L. Van Norman, president of the board, it strained its resources during the past year to keep pace with the expanding needs of the district, the new facilities to be available when the school year begins September 10 will be insufficient to take care of even the expected normal increase in enrollment, much less to make any reduction in the number of students on part time.

Estimates prepared by C. H. Tritt, chief clerk of the Board of Education, indicate that the total enrollment in all schools in the local district on the opening day of the next term will be approximately 218,000. The enrollment on the corresponding day last year was 209,300, making the estimated increase about 9000. The enrollment figure grows steadily during the school year but the ratio is expected to be about the same as last year and therefore, it was said, the figure of 9000 may be regarded as a safe minimum estimate for the increase as of any date in the year.

NO ROOM FOR PUPILS

The increased seating capacity to be made available during the coming year from new buildings and additions to old ones will not be greater than 5000, and the only course open to the board with respect to the 4000 of the expected increased enrollment who will not be accomodated by the increased facilities, is to put that additional number of students on part time. The number of students receiving part-time instruction at the end of the last school year was 4787, which means that the number of part-time students during the coming year will be almost double that.

The situation is further complicated for the board by the fact that the increased enrollment will not be spread equally over the whole district. The central portion of the city, which is best supplied with school facilities, is expected to contribute very little to the increase and the demand for more seats will be greatest in the outer sections of the school district, which are even now inadequately supplied with facilities. This, of course, is due to the fact that the outer sections of the city are growing faster than the central sections.

BUILDINGS IMPERATIVE

It is mainly this factor, according to President Van Norman, which makes the need of more school buildings imperative. Even if the population of the city and the enrollment in the schools remained static he pointed out, the situation in the outer sections of the school district will continue to become worse because of the shifting of the population from the center of the city outward.

The main increment to the school system's seating capacity for the coming year will come from the opening of three new junior high schools with a combined capacity of about 2500. They are the Audubon Junior High at 4201 Creed avenue, Bancroft Junior High, 929 North Las Palmas avenue, and Harte Junior High, 9301 South Hoover street.

Two new elementary schools will be opened but they will represent virtually no increase in facilities as one merely replaces an old school which will be discontinued and the other is an annexation to the school district with, of course, all the pupils now attending it. The

by Harry Carr

IT'S no use. Try as I may with all my might, I just can't get interested in the love tragedies of a man named Snook.

MARY MACLANE

Mary MacLane died the other day—on the edge of the Chicago black belt—forsaken, friendless and broke. But true to her "line," she got dressed up in her one remaining party dress when she felt death coming.

SHOCKING

Twenty years ago, Mary gave us the shock of our lives. I wonder if her candor about her love yearnings—her admiration for the devil and her remarks about dressmakers with indigestion would thrill much now. I don't believe so. Mary helped to make us hard boiled and perished as a result.

WHY SHE WAS RUINED

At that, her literary ruin came when she tried to go into the movies. As a mysterious and scornful lady in Butte, Mont., she had an allure and fascination. On the screen, she was a tame (and plain) amateur actress who floundered around on the job. After that, nobody cared much about hes frankly expressed desire to be a ruined lady.

HOOVER'S BIRTHDAY

It is astonishing to be reminded by his birthday that Herbert Hoover is only 55. In the brief period of some thirty years of active business life, he has made a fortune by his own brains; fought his way to the top of his profession; become the foremost international figure in a great war, and has accomplished more in the first six months of his time in the White House than some Presidents did in four (or eight) years.

What is he to do from now on? Even if he should serve two terms in the White House, he still will be only 63—one year below the age of retirement in the Army and about ten years before the time he can be expected to slip in mental power.

IT CAME OUT WRONG

I am greatly depressed at the outcome of the epic struggle between Mr. A. Smith and a cash customer. I have always lived in the hope that, one day, somebody would take a poke at one of these men who sit in cafes and insult the waiter over the food. Mr. A. Smith has achieved this longed-for chapter of accomplishment. But he has spoiled the whole drama by getting licked. I don't know what to do about it.

STOP DIETING

I wish to supplement the remarks of Dr. Woods Hutchinson made at the City Club. He advised ladies to stop dieting; to get fat and to stop worrying.

That's all right. I agree with him. But I would like to add the prayer that, if they do as he says, they will not romp around on the sand in one-piece bathing suits at the beach clubs. It is just too awful.

Council Denies More Snoopers

The Efficiency and Personnel Committee has reached the conclusion that there are enough investigators about the City Hall as it is now and therefore disapproved the request of the City Prosecutor for the creation of another pair of these jobs at $200 a month.

The report was adopted by the Council and the matter was thus closed.

Mysterious Poison Death Here of Honolulu Woman Brings Inquiry

POLICE REPORT DELAYED HOURS

Detective on Case Called to Explain Silence

Victim Declared Suicide in Statement Filed

Last Notes Addressed to Fire Captain

An investigation is under way, conducted by Capt. Cato, head of the police homicide squad, as to the reason report cards covering the circumstances of the death of Mrs. Grace Dennison of Honolulu were withheld from the public files and why the Coroner was not furnished with sufficient information to enable him to give a verdict in the case without ordering an autopsy. Mrs. Dennison is believed to have committed suicide.

Mrs. Dennison was taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital Saturday morning from a room at 922 South Lake street, dying from a dose of allanol, believed to have been taken with suicidal intent. She died at 10 a.m. yesterday.

Last night Detective Lieutenant Stillwell, whose work it is to investigate cases brought to the hospital, was summoned to appear before Capt. Cato and make explanations. The report cards were produced but Stillwell denied that he had withheld them from the public files.

FURTHER INQUIRY

Capt. Cato indicated that the case will be pushed further today when a complete investigation will be made.

Capt. Cato disclosed that Mrs. Dennison had been taken to the hospital from the South Lake-street residence Saturday morning by Capt. Alexander Robertson of the Los Angeles Fire Department, who is said to be a friend of the Dennison family. He summoned Dr. H. B. Osborn of Fillmore, to attend the woman.

TURNS IN REPORTS

The missing reports were turned in by Lieut. Stillwell last night, after he had been summoned to appear immediately and make explanations to Captain of Detectives Cato.

The gist of the suicide report follows:

"The above victim was brought to the Georgia-street Hospital by Officer McBride and Dr. McClunkin of the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital ambulance. Officers Guant and Haynes of the Georgia-street station call car made an investigation and attached a suicide report. At the time the victim was brought into the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital at 7:45 a.m. Saturday, she was suffering from an overdose of allanol taken with suicidal intent.

"In the victim's room were two letters addressed to Mr. Alexander Robertson, 1303 South Westlake street, Los Angeles, and they read as follows:

" 'Friday night—Dear Al, I am adressing this to you hoping you will not be too unhappy to attend to such affairs as may be necessary. The portable Victrola belongs to Beatrice Hewitt, 818 South Lake street, Pasadena. Also in my purse is a $20 bill which she gave me with more than words can convey. I shall have very happy thoughts. Everyone has been so wonderful to me. Aloha.

[Signed] " 'GRACE.'

"If it is possible I would like mother not to know. Do what you can.

SECOND LETTER

"The second letter—my dear. The aforegoing you can let others read. This is for you. Please I beg of you not to think me unhappy. I have come to a place where there is no going forward or backward. I should so like you to know that I do not consider myself normal and I do know you should keep well and strong and have a balanced life. I haven't helped you. If there has been anything in me strong enough or good or pleasing, balance it against this. And do not think this is easy. Thank you for all in every thing. Keep faith in beautiful things, in good people and good ways.

"Always I love you.

"GRACE."

The report further states that Dr. H. B. Osborn of Fillmore, Cal., was the attending physician and that he was called in by Mr. Robertson and he is a lifelong friend of the victim.

That Dr. Osborn has cabled Harry L. Dennison, of Kohala Road, Honolulu, husband of the victim, was stated by the detective. The physician is staying at the Mayflower Hotel, 1533 South Grand, the report says. The mother of the victim also resides in San Francisco but the address is unknown, the detective states.

DIED YESTERDAY

Mrs. Dennison was taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital from a room at 922 South Lake street Saturday morning and she died at 10 a.m. Sunday. Detective Lieutenant Stillwell is assigned to the hospital to check on cases of this kind. The landlady at the Lake-street address said that the woman had occupied the room but a day and that Capt. Robertson came to the room the following (Saturday morning) and being unable to gain admission asked that she open the door. They found Mrs. Dennison unconscious on the davenport. Dr. Osborn was summoned, he being a friend of the family and he advised that the police be notified immediately.

Capt. Cato disclosed that the reports had been held out supposedly by Stillwell. The report card also was withheld from the public file. At the record bureau in the Georgia-street station it was stated that Stillwell had given orders that the circumstances of the woman's death were "not to be given out."

The suicide letter addressed to the woman's husband has not been found, according to Capt. Cato.

At the Coroner's office it was reported that a notification of the woman's death had been received and that the body had been ordered removed to the morgue. It also was stated that the police information was so insufficient that an autopsy had been ordered for today to determine the cause of her death. Regularly in cases of suicide as reported by the police, no such action is deemed necessary.

COST MAP APPROVED

Council has approved the assessment district map for the installation of lighting appliances in Gower street from Franklin to Melrose avenues.

NEW GAUCHO SHOW FOR HOLLYWOOD

In Fairbanks Style

After a sea voyage of forty-seven days, from winter time in the Argentine to summer in Los Angeles, five gauchos, cowboys of the southern republic, and their fourteen pinto horses have found a "sympathetic and friendly people." The men and the horses were brought to Los Angeles yesterday from the steamer West Ivis by Tomas J. C. Ramos Otero, owner of the Hortensaia ranch in the province of Buenos Aires.

"We were at sea for forty-seven days," Angel Vigliienchino, a soft-spoken member of the group, said. "First a trip on the railroad of 100 leagues from our station to Buenos Aires and then on the ship to San Pedro. A very long time." The other four seagoing cowboys chorused: "What a long time!"

Angel explained the men are here to do the bidding of their patron and so far they are having a wonderful time. Senor Otero hopes to interest polo players and lovers of good horseflesh in his animals, which he describes as of the Crillos breed, the pride of the pampas.

The spokesman for the party, together with Juan Ervite, Fausto Guridi, Felipe Pereira and Juan Angel Rua, yesterday demonstrated some of the feats of Argentine horsemanship. They swung their bolladeros, the doubled weighted lasso of the pampas; chased a small, kicking mule with their fast animals, turned, cantered and galloped in an excellent exhibition.

NOT CALICO CAYUSES

The horses Senor Otero landed here are pintos, but not the calico ponies of the Southwest plains. They are large, standing from fourteen to fifteen hands high and weigh approximately 1100 pounds. The larger of the horses strongly resemble the Arabian-Morgan horse of this country, with long cannon-bones and high shoulders. Their heads and noses are well shaped and they apparently possess good dispositions.

Angel said he was sorry to disappoint the crowd assembled at the Griffith Park Riding Academy, where the horses are stabled, but none of the horses were of the bucking variety. "We have many wild ones at our station, but our patron wanted to show the good ones here and we did not bring any with a bad nature," Angel said.

EQUIPMENT STRANGE

Senor Otero's men use a soft bit and for persuasion they have a flat, long-handled quirt, not unlike a comedian's slapstick. Their saddles are of the soft, double-padded variety, very similar to the French Samur saddle. The riders sit back on the quarters as against the wither riders of this country.

The vaqueros explained that their horses were directed more by weight shifting and the touch of the reins on the neck than by a direct pull.

Angel and his companions speak no English, but yesterday told a Times reporter they will be very glad to show their horses to anyone, and if visitors can make themselves understood they will ride for them.

gles of the business and today, at 26, she is running a factory which is the largest one in the city for high-priced merchandise of the flapper variety. Last year she made approximately $20,000, she said.

Miss Lee does all of her own designing and she has made a close study of types so that she has a diversified line of clothes to meet the demands of the schoolgirl, the business girl and the society girl. There are thirty machines in her factory and about sixty girls working for her, in addition to which she has outside work done in three other factories. A special point is made, she said, of excellence of workmanship.

Miss Lee has gone to Chicago to attend the showing of California-made merchandise there this week.

ship Company's service, Mr. Matson said that its service is the only one of consequence under the American flag reaching the principal ports of the Pacific Coast of Central America and Mexico. The company has been in business for more than seventy years and has been an important factor in developing trade and commercial relations between the United States and the countries of Latin America.

During the recent visit to Los Angeles of Commissioner Jefferson Myers of the United States Shipping Board, Mr. Matson said that he asked the former whether the board would regard favorably a program of the Panama Mail Steamship Company to build new ships.

"Yes," Matson quoted Mr. Myers as saying; "if the Panama Mail Steamship Company comes to us for aid in carrying out a new building program to improve its service, we undoubtedly will extend financial help."

Further details of the company's plans have not been learned, but it is understood that the plans already have progressed far in contemplation of the granting of the mail contract now pending. Clay Hutchison is in charge of the company's offices here.

former is the Ninety-sixth-street school at 1477 East Ninety-sixth street, which replaces the old Compton-avenue school, and the other is the Fern-avenue school at Fern avenue and Sonoma street in Torrance.

Another new school to be opened this fall is the Los Angeles Junior College on the old campus of the University of California at Los Angeles. Its opening enrollment is expected to number about 800, as of course, it will have only a first-year class when it opens, but its total student capacity will be 2500. The opening of this institution has no direct bearing on the matter of school facilities for the elementary and junior high school students, but President Van Norman points out that it has an important indirect bearing on the situation as it represents a large outlay from the financial resources of the school district which could otherwise be applied to ameliorating the situation in the lower grades.

The situation as regards teachers for the coming term will not be similar to that obtaining in the matter of equipment. The board expects to add enough new teachers to the system to take care of the increased enrollment. At the end of the previous school year there were 10,073 teachers on the pay roll and it is expected that about 300 new teachers will be added during the coming year.

Mrs. Diamond denied that her shoulder straps were loosened, declaring that her sun-back suit may have given the officers that impression and that she had been reclining on the sand in company with her husband and a party of friends when the officers ordered her to the police station.

Most of the bathers took the raid as a joke and poked fun at the police as they attempted to run down several fleet-footed young women along the beach.

The police, however, took the situation seriously and pointed out to the asserted offenders that Santa Monica's antisun-tan law must be enforced.

Detective Lieutenants Young and Wyatt led the raiding party, and were reinforced by Police Sergeants Webb and Bray and five uniformed officers.

Today's interruption of Santa Monica's bathers is the second of the season. A month ago the police took several young bathers into custody and fined them average amounts of $25 for assertedly dropping the shoulder straps on their swimming suits.

MEADOWS CASE REOPENS TODAY

Trial on Parole Swindle Charge Nears End

Ex-Football Star Expected to be Final Witness

Jury May Begin Deliberating Late This Week

Trial of George Rush Meadows, former football star who is accused of a $25,000 swindle in connection with his asserted fraudulent representations that he could obtain a parole for John R. Osborne, Los Angeles promoter now serving a ten-year Federal sentence, is scheduled to be resumed this morning in Superior Judge Fricke's court with Meadows again occupying the witness stand in his own defense.

The trial is approaching its fourth week, but with the conclusion of Meadows's testimony it is expected the case will be in a position soon to be submitted to the jury.

Meadows is asserted to have obtained the money in varying amounts from relatives of Osborne by telling them it was to be used to employ prominent attorneys and pay expenses incidental to obtaining a parole for the convicted promoter. Osborne was sentenced in connection with the promotion of the Valhalla Memorial Park.

The defense is based principally on the contention that Meadows and John E. Osborne, father of the convicted promoter, were partners in a project to colonize a large tract of land in Mexico and that most of the money declared to have been advanced to Meadows in the Osborne parole matter was used to further the colonization scheme.

Meadows, who will probably be the concluding defense witness, is expected to be on the witness stand all of today and part of tomorrow. With two days reserved for arguments it is planned to submit the case to the jury the latter part of the week.

Dep. Dist.-Attys. Menzies and Penney are prosecuting.

OBSERVERS SEE SHOWER OF METEORS

Perseids Bombard Earth With Stardust Barrage; Mt. Wilson Keeps Tally

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Aug. 11. (Exclusive) Meteors falling from the Perseid orbit, which the earth is passing through from the 9th to 13th inst., in the early hours of this evening averaged twenty an hour, as counted from the top of Mt. Wilson Observatory by Secretary Alfred H. Joy.

The earth is passing through a swarm of small meteors whose orbit is at right angles to that of this globe. Mr. Joy stated that if any volunteer observer stayed up all night he would be glad to have him telephone his observations. As high as 120 an hour have been counted at times, he said.

"Most of the meteors come from the northeast quarter of the sky. When one considers that twenty an hour from one point can be counted, think how many hundreds of thousands must be falling on the surface of the earth."

There is no danger Mr. Joy declared, as the particles are small and are illuminated to incandescence only when they strike the earth's atmosphere.

Insects have been on the earth for 50,000,000 years while humans have been here only 500,000 years.

GIRL ACCUSES FIVE OF ATTACK

Kidnaping and Mistreatment Account Sobbed

Policeman Hears Cries and Seizes One Suspect

Four Others Later Rounded Up at Their Homes

Kidnaped after she alighted from a taxicab in front of her home, driven to a vacant lot in the outskirts of the Wilshire district, and there brutally attacked by a gang of five youths, was the experience Miss Ruth Manske, 17 years of age of 425 South Fremont street, recited to police yesterday. Five young men, all identified by Miss Manske as her assailants, according to police, are under arrest on charges of kidnaping, criminal attack and robbery.

Her clothes ripped and torn, and her body displaying numerous bruises, according to the police report, Miss Manske was taken to Juvenile Hall by Policewoman Shriner in an acute hysterical condition.

ATTACK DESCRIBED

The asserted attack took place early yesterday morning, police reported. The girl told Wilshire division detectives that she was escorted to her home from a party by a boy friend about 2 a.m. After she stepped to the sidewalk the taxi drove off. As she was about to enter her home the gang of youths grabbed her, she said, muffled her attempts to cry for help, and forcibly placed her in an automobile they were driving.

Held down in the rear seat she was driven to the junction of La Cienega and Venice Boulevards, she said. There the youths drove their car off the street and dragged her a short distance into a vacant lot. There members of the gang attacked her.

OFFICER HEARS SCREAMS

Her screams were heard by Officer Melton, patrolling his beat in the vicinity. As the officer rushed to the scene the members of the gang hastily released the girl and ran. Three of them succeeded in getting back in their car and driving off. A fourth ran in another direction on foot and was fired at by Melton. The fifth, Anselno Alvarado, 25, of 632 Baily street, was captured by Melton, according to the police report.

Melton took the girl and Alvarado to the Wilshire Police Station. Miss Manske, according to Sergt. Hansen, was in an utterly exhausted and hysterical condition. Policewoman Shriner was called and assisted the girl in relating her story. Her mother, Mrs. Flora J. Manske, was notified of her daughter's condition and soon afterward joined her at the police station.

COAT PROVES CLEW

One of the four who escaped, according to Hansen, left his coat at the scene of the asserted attack, and through the finding of this garment, Louis E. Burton, 17, was found at his home at 1112 East Seventh street and taken into custody.

After further questioning of the two suspects in custody officers arrested the following youths at their homes: Carl I. Bright, 23, of 812 Stewart street; Robert Warner, 23, of the same address, and Henry Dapper, 22, of 4619 Avalon Boulevard.

All were confronted by their asserted victim at the Wilshire Police Station. Each in turn told conflicting stories, Hansen stated, but admitted in general that they had been "out with Miss Manske." They stated, Hansen said, that they met the girl at a dance hall and that she allowed two of them to accompany her home.

PILOT LEAPS, THEN PLANE GUIDES SELF

Unlicensed Flyer Takes to 'Chute and Lets Machine Man Own Controls

A pilotless airplane humming merrily along above the heads of several hundred gaping motorists on Burbank Boulevard and Ventura Canyon Road yesterday afternoon, zoomed of its own accord over a string of telephone wires and then lost control of itself and crashed in a field without injuring anyone.

But William Curlett, an unlicensed aviator of 709 Bedford Drive, Beverly Hills, can hardly believe it. For a half minute before the pleasure biplane made its one and only solo flight Curlett had been in the cockpit 900 feet in the air.

"The ship went into a spin when the motor cut out and I 'bailed out' at 600 feet after it refused to catch," Curlett told police investigators last night. He landed uninjured in the middle of a road with his parachute and did not visit the scene of the wrecked plane. A motorist took him home.

Just before the freed plane struck the ground, however, a dozen motorist witnesses told Police Lieutenant Ainsworth of the Van Nuys division that the motor took hold, the plane straightened itself out and like a frisky colt went hedgehopping for two blocks along the boulevard.

Curlett rented the plane at noon from Lee Flanagan of the Eagle Rock Biplane Company at the Aero Corporation of California Airport on South Western avenue. He said he wanted to take a pleasure hop.

PHONE RATE INQUIRY DUE THURSDAY

Reopening of Quiz Part of State-wide Program to Equalize Service

Reopening of the State Railroad Commission's inquiry into rates and service of the local telephone companies is scheduled for Thursday at 10 a.m. in the commission's court room, 810 Associated Realty Building. The investigation is part of a State-wide campaign waged by the commisison to establish equitable rates throughout the State.

The hearings, begun in June, were authorized on the commission's own motion and the scope of the probe will be wide before it is completed, State officials said. It is planned to make an exhaustive survey of the rates, contracts, charges, rules and practices of the Southern California Telephone Company, the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company and the United States Long Distance Telephone organization.

Hearings will be conducted by Commissioners Seavey, Decoto and Carr.

Mrs. Iva Baker Given Divorce

After testifying that her husband showed her no affection and was constantly gloomy and morose, Mrs. Iva W. Baker was granted a divorce from Arthur G. Baker, attorney, by Superior Judge Dehy. Baker did not appear to contest the action.

According to the complaint filed by Mrs. Baker her husband told her he wanted to keep young and she was too slow for him, also that he had found some one else to love.

A property settlement in which each took title to their respective properties, was approved by the court.

According to the complaint of Mrs. Baker, she and Baker were united in marriage at Riverside on October 9, 1923.

U.S.C. to Offer New Oriental Study Courses

In line with the growing program of international education at the University of Southern California, a new department of oriental studies is announced to begin this fall, in charge of Prof. H. Nordwein von Koerber, formerly of the University of Amoy, China. Dr. von Koerber has studied and taught in Tibet, Siberia, Central Africa, the Dutch East Indies and in the Philippines.

The schedule for the new department includes a class for beginners in Japanese, one in the Chinese classical language, a one-year course in comparative oriental philology, a year's course in history of Chinese culture, and lectures on Chinese and Japanese literature.

Prof. von Koerber believes that Southern California will one day form the nucleus for the exchange of the best treasures which occidental and oriental mankind have to offer for the benefit of the world.

Utilities Board Considers Bus Extension Plea

Following investigation of the asserted need for bus extensions by the Los Angeles Railway Company from the present terminus at Fifty-fourth street and Normandie avenue northerly to the intersection of Santa Barbara and Normandie avenues, and southerly from the terminus at Normandie and Florence avenues to the intersection of Manchester and Normandie avenues, the Board of Public Utilities has made a report to Councilman McAllister.

The board stated it is informed by the railway company that it cannot see its way clear to file applications for either of the extensions urged, as the northerly extension is crossed by an east and west line on Forty-eighth street and a parallel line on Dalton avenue. The company held that conditions on the proposed southerly extension do not warrant it.

The board expressed the view that conditions on Normandie south of Florence do justify an extension at least to Manchester avenue, but that in view of the fact that the company cannot be compelled to extend into a territory which it does not desire to serve, the best that can be done will be to continue efforts urging the extension.

We are never nearer death than when we sneeze. The act causes a momentary convulsion of the brain.

Today's Bible Text

For in Him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, for we are also his offspring. The Acts xvii:28.

QUICK ACTION

Italy hears allegation of public graft and political scandal. With one gesture Mussolini removes the chief suspect from office and has a showdown. There are times when it is rather handy to have a competent dictator on the job.

THE LONG COURSE

An Indiana youth is reported as having shot 180 holes of golf in a single day. Evidently he doesn't belong to the union, else he would have been disciplined for his hours. Anyhow, he didn't have much time for soliciting life insurance.

WHAT'S THE ODDS?

Some golfers have been playing their favorite game in Florida while arrayed in their pajamas. There is nothing particularly startling in this. There is nothing now to prevent a northerner from invading a Confederate State and playing golf in a union suit. Out here a golfer in pajamas might be considered all dolled up. Comfort with decency is the rule under a southern sun.

CARS BY MAIL

It is common gossip that a prominent mail-order house is about to put out a pony automobile that can be sold at a profit for $200. It is smaller than anything now in use and has some revolutionary features that could cheapen production. Maybe the idea is that they can be sent by mail. If we could get our motor cars by parcel post this would be a wonderful country. What does Henry Ford propose to do about it?

BIGGER JAILS

Something over 50 per cent of the inmates of the Federal prisons are there because of offenses connected with the use and sale of drugs and liquors. If enforcement is to be more strongly pressed it is evident that the President is right in calling for an immediate extension and building program which would make room for a rising roster of derelicts. It is a pity we cannot stake more of them in the great outdoors and give them a bit of work in the open. It would help clear their noodles.

THE NATION'S DOUGH

It is conceded that any material reduction of Federal expenses is impossible. No department is willing to make any sacrifice and they are all prepared to prove the absolute need of every dollar to be had. It is only through an unexpected swelling of receipts or a stray increase of surplus that reductions in taxes can come. There is no desire to run the government on a parsimonious basis. The nation seeks the greatest good to the greatest number, but there is no call for paying any worker more than he earns.

WEATHER TO SUIT

The modern architect not only creates theaters, but office buildings so that they make their own weather. One skyscraper being built in Houston is guaranteed never to have a temperature in any of its rooms higher than 80 deg. in summer nor lower than 70 in winter. Also the air is pledged to be pure and fresh at all times. This should be appreciated in Houston, where the score runs rather high in the summer—as some of the delegates to the last Democratic national convention will attest.

WHAT PRICE GLORY

Whenever a man makes the front page some dancing girl turns up to sue him for something. No sooner is the engagement of an eastern performer to the Hollywood pet announced than a Pennsylvania fairy rushes into court asking for heavy damages. It isn't even for breach of promise. She thinks he slapped her once. Another vaudeville girl wants $250,000 damages because she has been slightingly mentioned by her former dancing partner. Any time an aviator hangs out a new record he may be met when he comes back to earth by a greedy little chorus girl with a court summons. The girls crave gold or glory and care not which. Yet they grow indignant at being described as gold-diggers.

COST OF THE ARMY

The statement of President Hoover that the Army and Navy of the United States now entail "the largest military budget of any nation in the world today and at a time when there is less real danger of extensive disturbance to peace than at any time in more than half a century" has been followed up by the appointment of a commission to study army costs and some means of reducing them. Navy costs are another matter, largely dependent upon international agreement; but the President makes it plain that he considers the $803,000,000 estimated for the two services in the fiscal year 1932-33 vastly in excess of what is either necessary or desirable.

A comparison of available figures seems to indicate that the President's comment is a just one. In numbers the United States Army is rather modest, consisting of about 130,000 men, but its cost runs to more than $400,000,000 a year, while the French army of 666,000 men required for its maintenance last year about $248,000,000. The French is the largest standing army in existence. Great Britain, with an army of about 140,000, exclusive of India, expended about $205,000,000 last year, to which must be added the cost of the Royal Air Force, $80,000,000, and which had 33,000 in personnel. But the Royal Air Force includes the British naval planes.

Army costs for the principal European nations in 1913-1914, before the war, were: Germany, $183,000,000, France, $191,431,000; Great Britain, $224,000,000, and Russia, $317,800,000. But these sums maintained in Germany 870,000 men, in France 783,000 men, in Great Britain 262,000 men and in Russia 1,500,000 men.

It is thus plain that European army costs are not vastly in excess of prewar expenditures, considering price advances. The United States Army, in 1914, cost $173,522,000; in 1928 the amount was $390,000,000.

The difference is in part accounted for, of course, by the vastly higher pay of both officers and men in this country—a rate which no one desires to reduce—but this consideration aside, there remains a discrepancy which it will be the function of the President's commission to discover and explain.

It may be said that great expenditures are being made on the air service. This is true; the Army is not only building many new planes, but is training pilots by wholesale, many of them for commercial aeronautics. The Army expects to have, by 1932, some 1800 airplanes. A couple of years ago the French army had 3500 airplanes, all built since the war, of which it was estimated 1542 were suitable for first-line service.

A century ago the annual cost of the United States Army was $4,700,000. Half a century ago it was $40,000,000. A quarter of a century ago it was about $120,000,000. The smallest annual cost since the turn of the century was the budget of 1902, at $112,000,000. A volunteer army such as ours is necessarily more costly than a conscript army, since the army is necessarily something of a competitor for man power with industry and housing and subsistence both cost more here than abroad.

No doubt a considerable amount of the American army budget is due to the continued maintenance of obsolete interior posts and fortifications, part of which were constructed to fight Indians in the days when the frontier was the frontier. They are decidedly anachronistic now and could be discontinued except for the Congressmen in whose districts they are located, who would as leave part with them as with a leg. If the President can overcome pork-barrel politics in this matter, he can effect a material saving and at the same time add to the effectiveness of national defense.

The United States can afford, of course, to spend money on both its Army and its Navy, so far as these expenditures are necessary or desirable. But it is plain, too, that to spend more than the most militaristic nations of earth have ever spent is somewhat out of proportion for a peace-loving people, especially with no war clouds in sight. It does not seem sensible.

VOTING MACHINES WIN

New York City is now equipped 100 per cent with voting machines and in subsequent elections the totals will be made known as fast as election-district returns can be added, since the task of counting the individual ballots has been eliminated and with it all disputes over void, blank and spoiled ballots.

The change was bitterly fought by Tammany and was imposed on the city by the State Legislature during the administration of Gov. Miller eight years ago. Of late, it is asserted, the influence of John R. Voorhis, election commissioner, centenarian and Tammany Sachem, has converted Tammany to mechanical voting. It has always been in favor of machine voting!

If New York's heterogeneous population can learn to operate these devices, as apparently it has, there seems to be no reason why the population of Los Angeles is incompetent to pull a few levers and do away with the endless counting that leaves the result of every California election in doubt, at times for days. There has been no open political opposition in Los Angeles to voting-machine adoption, but the slowness of voting-machine progress may be due to political pressure exercised under cover.

No doubt the acceptance of this reform will help Tammany to put on a virtuous front, behind which it will remain the same old Tiger. The organization doubtless feels its control over the voters is so secure that control over the ballot is no longer necessary. There is justification for this belief, from all appearances, since the best man the Republican organization seems to be able to muster to run for Mayor is Congressman La Guardia, who has been a Socialist at least as often as a Republican and whose only recommendation for the job seems to be that he is dripping wet. That he can unseat Mayor Walker, voting machines or no voting machines, is extremely unlikely.

The LEE SIDE O' L.A.
BY Lee Shippey

The LEE SIDE O' L.A.

BY Lee Shippey

WE NEVER saw the Passion Play at Oberammergau, so we cannot compare it to the Pilgrimage Play now being given here for the tenth consecutive year. But we doubt that it is as completely satisfying.

Last night we were part of a very large crowd at the Pilgrimage Play and we felt that everyone in that crowd was greatly stirred by the tragic and beautiful scenes outlined against the gigantic gloom of a rugged mountainside. But from first to last there was never one ripple of applause. There are plenty of churches here in which people applaud. But the atmosphere of the Pilgrimage Play made them feel too deeply reverential.

The First Hatless Man?

Ten years ago the first hatless young man we ever met called for us one day and took us out to look at a canyon. There we met a Mrs. Stevenson, who had written a play. In that canyon she had seen possibilities for wonderful and beautiful dramatic effects. And as she pointed out what would be we could almost see it, though then there were only stark hillsides and scrubby brush here and there in the canyon. "The Passion Play takes only one period in the life of Christ," she said, "but this play will dramatically present his whole life, every incident on which Christianity is founded, and every word the Christ utters in the play will be an exact quotation of his words, as given in the Bible."

So we wrote, we believe, the first feature story anybody wrote about what the Pilgrimage Play was to be. And then our roving feet took us out of the United States for several years and we never saw the play till last night.

Years Improve It

We're glad we hadn't seen it before, for it has, we are told, been perfected year by year, until now it is much more beautiful and impressive than it was a few years ago. There are actors in it who have been in it for years and live their parts. One gets a sense of atmosphere and traditions which might be centuries old. We don't like to brag, but we Californians must admit we're wonderful people. With us traditions, background and sometimes even ancestry are like geraniums. Often we can raise 'em bigger and better in a few years than they can in other countries which have been at it since the middle ages.

Tragic as the Pilgrimage Play is, it is not depressing, for it is inspired by that spirit of hope which is the Christian faith. We came away from it with only one gloomy reflection and that had nothing to do with the play. We asked Mr. Berry, the manager, about that first hatless young man we had seen ten years ago. We were thinking of how amazingly the hatless fad has grown and wondering if he was the originator of it. His name was H. Ellis Reid.

"Yes," said Berry, "I believe he was. But in spite of all that his hair's getting a little thin!"

Alas, the worldly hopes men set their hearts upon are but the frothings of futility!

Dangers of Sense of Humor

If it were not for gravity, they say,
We'd fall right off the earth and float away.
And so I'm feeling scared as I can be—
I find it hard to keep my gravity.

Good, Better, Best

Lee: I see by the paper that Secretary Good may resign to manage the G.O.P. The slogan in mind seems to be "Let Good enough alone."—The Watchdog.

Possible Explanation

Leeside: As a Times reader of old standing, I have noted the continual recurrence of the headline, "Slot Machines Under Fire." The latest is over a dispatch from Ventura. Next week it will be over an item from some other town. Some place or other is always fussing about slot machines. Has it ever occurred to anyone to forbid the manufacture and sale of slot machines or are they merely used to distract public attention every time some city or county attorney wants to bolster up his record?—A. Yet What Men They Raise in Scotland

Our friend Mackenzie tells this one on his own grandfather. Mack took his family back to Scotland for a visit and their first breakfast at the old home consisted of oatmeal gruel, served plain.

"Where's the milk?" asked Mackenzie's small son, born in Los Angeles.

"Milk!" exclaimed the lad's great-grandfather. "What do you think this is, Christmas?"

EMBARRASSMENT FOR ACTORS

While stage actors in Hollywood are being forbidden to work in talking pictures by the leader of their labor union, Frank Gillmore, their livelihood is being endangered in another quarter, according to the New York Times. Theatrical producers in New York, this journal reports, face difficulties in casting at the present time because so many actors have left the stage temporarily for the talking screen, and in consequence are taking on new talent to replace the deserters.

Meanwhile the talking-picture producers, the paper says, "are sure that they can lay their hands on plenty of new talent. They declare they do not need stage actors for the talkies. They can train their own movie people and, better still, they can get new people, young, beautiful and plastic and more pleasing to the movie public than actors from the legitimate stage.

"Whatever the outcome of the main struggle, actors may find themselves in a distressing position. Stage players may find themselves both excluded from the talkies by Equity and crowded out by newcomers on Broadway."

Realization of this situation, commented on not only by the New York Times, but also by such theatrical papers as Variety, is likely to produce a crisis soon in the Hollywood Equity situation. If the New York Times and Variety are accurate, the only conclusion that can be drawn is that if the talking-picture producers sit tight a few weeks more the Equity "strike" here will collapse from internal dissension and there will be an end, for the time being at least, to President Gillmore's effort to levy tribute upon a prosperous industry for the benefit of himself and other officials of the Actors' Equity Association.

The current New Republic, as is its custom, taking wholly the union side of every industrial controversy, in an article laudatory of Equity's attempt to unionize the talking picture, declares at the same time that such resentment is being aroused among the Equity members here by Gillmore's tactics and declares that there is "too much New York" in the direction of the struggle. This is another symptom that all is not well in the Equity camp.

TAKING THE CENSUS

When the enumerators come to the door next April to take the census a lot of householders will think the government is mighty nosey. The enumerators are given a list of about thirty questions they are supposed to ask for every man, woman and child in the country and if the man is out of a job there are about a dozen extra quizzes to put. But the idea is to make the census something more than a mere count. The information will be of value in compiling massed statistical facts for use in industry and sociology. Even the men who are unemployed will be helped to new positions if the thing be found possible. The official population of American cities is the least vital of the compilations.

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

[Boston Transcript]

Warnings from the Interstate Commerce Commission that western railroads must stop using "propaganda" in preparing for hearings before the commission are described as unprecedented. The case grows out of the petition of the Great Northern and its ally, the Western Pacific, to build a line from Oregon into California. The Southern Pacific, with extensive mileage in California and a dominant position in its railroad affairs, does not like the idea. All three roads have been endeavoring to secure public support.

The Interstate Commerce Commission sees evidences of efforts to induce the adoption of resolutions and in other ways to secure expressions of opinion. As the matter stands, 135 civic and municipal organizations are on record as opposed to the entry of the new line; 107 record their approval, and fifty-four take a neutral position. Commissioner Meyer, in letters to the heads of the three roads, says that while some of this material may be spontaneous, "a very considerable portion of it is the result of solicitation by opposing interests," and that "it appears obvious that a great deal of propaganda work is being done for and against this project." But the case will be considered by the commission "on the record, and not by the consideration of resolutions, communications, newspaper articles and the like." Consequently, if any of the parties to the proceeding are encouraging efforts to try the case "off the record," it is suggested that the practice be immediately terminated. The statement is so vigorous that it has been described as constituting a gag.

REAL DETECTIVE WORK

[New York Sun]

A Sheepshead Bay householder advertised for a maid. A young woman applied, took the job, stripped the home of its jewels and silver and disappeared all in a few hours. Detectives McDonald and Harrington of the Sheepshead Bay police station took the case, with no clews except a description of the girl and the fact that the advertisement she answered had been printed in one Brooklyn paper and one German paper. They watched the "help wanted" columns of these publications and three weeks later found another Sheepshead Bay resident advertising for a maidservant. He hired one who answered the general description of the thief. The detectives arrested her and she refused to talk. In her purse were a housekey and a ticket issued by a laundry at Lexington avenue and Twenty-seventh street, Manhattan. With these and a photograph of the prisoner the detectives set out to find a needle in a haystack, or, rather, to find a house to fit the key. Sherlock Holmes scarcely would have done that. He would have left such humdrum work as climbing tenement stairs to Inspector Lestrade. But in the absence of finger and footprints, cryptograms and other favorite aids to detectives the detectives plodded along key in one hand, picture in the other.

The result was a deserved victory. After hours of trial and error truth prevailed and the key opened a door. "Yes," said the landlady, "that is a picture of a young woman who has a room here." In the room were the stuff stolen from the Sheepshead Bay complainant and about $10,000 worth of other loot. This was real detection, with patience overcoming a multitude of obstacles.

SUCH A JOKE

[Atlanta Constitution]

It would be a joke on the legislatures that are running their States on the gasoline tax if some one would invent a combustible something-or-other that would take the place of gasoline.

THE GLORIOUS ABSENTEE

BY EUGENE BROWN

"Speaking of irrigation problems," began the Old Resident by way of greeting, "how would a noggin of buttermilk strike you?"

"Like the condemned man on the way to the scaffold, I have noggin to say," returned I, with a grin. "But that reminds me of a little story: It seems that there were two Scotchmen—"

"Yes, I know," interrupted the pioneer, hastily. "One of them was a Swede from Jerusalem who was so close you could hardly touch him."

"Now that we have gone thus far," resumed I, confidentially, "tell me, as man to man, to what do you attribute your success—if any?"

"Well, I'm going to be equally frank with you—if it is you," responded the veteran. "I owe my glory and prosperity to the circumstance that while I may shave myself I never do any work that I can get the hired man to attend to."

"Then you do have a hired man?" said I.

"Two of them, in fact," answered the old man. "There are Samuel and Hiram."

"How come?"

"In me you see represented the sovereign State of California," exclaimed the pioneer, dramatically beating his breast. "When I want anything done at Washington I write to Samuel and Hiram and then forget about it."

"So? It's as quick as that, eh? How do they do it?"

"Darned if I know, but there it is," answered the aged one.

"Who does it?" persisted I.

"I'm not sure," ruminated the veteran. "Maybe it's the teamwork. One makes all the noise and the other does the business. That's what counts. It does seem funny though. Did you ever try to plow with a team where one animal kept his nose steadily to an east and west furrow while the other was always braying, kicking up his heels or turning north or south?"

"What of it? You get your furrow, don't you?" countered I.

"Sure thing, but maybe it's too much strain on the thoroughbred," replied the veteran thoughtfully.

"That reminds me of something," ejaculated I. "I read in the papers the other day how your Sam sticks in a red-hot Washington toiling and moiling over the tariff schedules that the California fruit farmers need so badly while Hiram is pleasantly disporting himself amid the refreshing breezes of the Pacific Coast. Take it from me any human being who clings to his work in Washington during July and August loves his country."

"That's what I told you," chirped the old-timer. "Hiram would be there if there were any pictures to be taken; any names to be called, or any noise to be made, but if it is just a matter of hard work or conducting the public business, let Sam do it. Hiram isn't interested. Don't you remember that whenever vote was to be taken on a matter vital to his State or his people Hiram was almost sure to be away? They even called him the glorious absentee. He doesn't owe California anything, anyhow. Didn't he rescue California from the insatiate clutches of the railroads and other fiendish corporations? With his own vigorous hands he plucked California from the gutter and set her upon her proud and haughty way. If it had not been for Hiram you would even now be down in the Southern Pacific yards switching box cars for $180 a month. Ask Hiram. He knows."

"Well, at that maybe I'd have a steady job," said I. "Working for a railroad isn't so bad."

"There's money in working for a railroad and there's money in working against one," admitted the veteran. "Any lawyer will tell you that. Hiram knows. He has tried both. Now the State of California is tickled pink at the chance to pay him $10,000 a year to do whichever he likes."

"That's what I admire in Hiram," urged I. "He knows what he wants, but he is too big a man to be hampered by any office or influenced by any party. He can be a Republican when the going is good or personal expediency suggests, but when the organization is out of tune with his whims God help the Republican party. He doesn't have to lend aid and comfort to any administration, as his opinions are worth more to him than the policies of any President who ever found lodgment in the White House. He is what they call a big man and he will even admit it himself if cornered by a battery of photographers. When the battle is on he will emerge. He will be found where the noise is heaviest and he will be making most of it himself. He knows that his country needs men who are strong of lung and implacable of purpose—the purpose being to get what he wants. To the rack with all trimmers and compromisers! Anyhow, he would rather be wrong than be President. He knows. He has tried it out."

"What do you know about politics?" snorted the venerable citizen. "Just the same, it looks to me that at a time when the State of California is awfully concerned in a dozen items in the tariff schedules in which an increase would mean the progress or the passing of an industry the senior Senator of the State should be doing something to help. He might at least register interest. About the last word had from him was when he was fighting the administration's farm relief program when he told the world to a brass band accompaniment that nothing the people of California had to say to him—no appeal his constituents might make—would have any effect upon him, once his mind was made up."

"Well, doesn't that prove that he is a bigger man than the State of California?" queried I.

"It surely does, to Hiram."

"Well, what more could you ask?"

"I might ask whether you are for or against buttermilk," chortled the veteran in conclusion.

DIAMOND JUBILEE OF STATE FAIR

BY ROCKWELL D. HUNT

This is the Diamond Jubilee year for the State Fair of California. Sacramento, the capital city, has been keenly alert to the significance of this event and has planned to provide for this seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the State Agricultural Society a grand setting that shall be both befitting and duly impressive. The classic is scheduled to begin August 31 and close on Admission Day, September 9.

The State Fair has been for three-quarters of a century closely identified with the development of California in agriculture, horticulture, stock raising, industry and commerce. The first fair was held in San Francisco in October, 1854, the exhibits being transported in freight wagons drawn by oxen or mules, and the cattle show being held at Mission Dolores. Sacramento was the scene of the second fair in 1855, by which date California had been definitely established as possessing great agricultural potentialities. The following year the fair was held at San Jose, in 1857 at Stockton, and in 1858 at Marysville. In 1859 it returned to Sacramento City. A spirited contest arose as to where the 1860 fair should be held, ending in an amendment to the constitution of the Agricultural Society, as follows: "The society shall hold an annual fair at the city of Sacramento"—thus settling permanently the question of location.

For many years Gen. John Bidwell of Rancho Chico was the leading patron of the State Fair, beginning to make extensive exhibits in the late fifties. He served as president of the State Agricultural Society and was frequently invited to give the annual address. Later, on being convinced that betting on horse races and attendant evils had come to be the chief features of the fairs, he refused to countenance them, withdrew his moral support and discontinued his extensive exhibits, thus wielding his powerful influence toward a restoration of the rightful emphasis of activities.

A contemplation of the numerous and diverse functions of the State Fair awakens real admiration for the minds conceiving them and working devotedly for the advancement of the commonwealth. It has long since become a real factor, a great clearinghouse, in the material and cultural development of all parts of the State. As a dignified agency of publicity it has amply justified the heavy costs involved in its continued maintenance. "Just as great stores trim their windows and display the best they have," said Samuel H. Greene of the California Dairy Council, "so California on this occasion displays the best it produces so that the world may see it. It is California's great show window."

The great State buildings at Sacramento are now in readiness for the superlative exhibits that will come. The huge central structure, agricultural and manufacturers' pavilions and the new Machinery Hall are flanked with groups of smaller buildings, with long lines of stock barns, ideal mile race track and horse show amphitheater, with an area of approximately 200 acres. The exhibits will include the finest specimens from the world-excelling agricultural production of the State and the very acme of various breeds of live stock. A single county raises 225 different varieties of fruits, grains and vegetables.

But this year is Diamond Jubilee Year. The directors are not content to make the fair merely representative of all sections of the State, but have decided to make it include the entire group of Pacific States. Accordingly, eleven States have been invited to prepare exhibits and thus magnify the jubilee event to dimensions of a "super-Tiffany." "We shall have a fair," said Gov. Young, "that sets aside State boundaries and includes the entire West. It will be a mighty thing for the spirit of fellowship that it will build up." It is anticipated that the attendance will run close to a half million.

The California State Fair has become a great educational factor, for it reveals in attractive manner tangible evidences of advancement in one of the world's most favored localities. It is a huge mirror, reflecting the successful endeavors of the fruitful year, affording free interchange of ideas and suggesting new ideas for the continuous upbuilding of a better and nobler California. The jubilee exposition of 1929 will represent the marvelous cumulative results and achievements of three-quarters of a century in our loved commonwealth. It is worthy of whole-hearted support.

FETE AT RALEIGH MANSION

To raise funds to repair the ancient Church of St. Mary's at Youghal, Ireland, a garden fete was held recently at Myrtle Grove, once the home of Sir Walter Raleigh. Myrtle Grove is a perfectly preserved Tudor mansion, now occupied by Mrs. M. Arbuthnot, and seldom thrown open to the public. Its walls are five feet thick, and behind the wainscotting secret recesses abound.

HOLLYWOOD ESCHEWS ITS NOTED DIET

Eighteen-Day Reducing Regimen Taboo Among Supposed Devotees

Hollywood's eighteen-day diet, delight of the California grapefruit grower but a pain in the neck to Idaho, land of the potato, means nothing to some of Paramount's players. Mary Brian, Clara Bow, Jean Arthur, Fay Wray, Esther Ralston, Jeanette MacDonald and Helen Kane all said they have not tried it.

"My physician has advised against it as harmful," Miss Bow declared. Miss Brian says she has been informed by her doctor that many have suffered ill effects from following the diet. Nancy Carroll said:

"I know it would kill me if I tried it, so I'm not going to. I don't want to take the risk."

Dr. H. J. Strathearn, studio physician, said:

"The diet involves too rapid a reduction in weight, causing increased acidity of the body and gastric disturbances. It is not wise to reduce too rapidly, as resistance is thereby lowered. It is not a well-balanced diet. It is best to reduce more slowly and on a balanced ration. There is no universal diet."

Main Bursting Shorts Phones

Nearly 1500 telephones connected with the Garfield central office were put out of commission yesterday as the result of the bursting of a water main at Avenue 60 and Monterey Road.

In the flood that followed the break a master cable was short-circuited and service in the neighborhood abruptly halted. The telephone company rushed an emergency crew to repair the damage and by nightfall service was resumed.

COURT TOLD OF 'FEE' FOR JAIL 'JOB'

Ex-Prisoner Accused by Another Recently Freed After Being "Trusty"

"You're not going to knock me over again, are you Mac? You got that money all right, didn't you?" asked Bennie Castro, 1657 East Thirty-third street, recently released from jail, of Policeman McClanahan.

In Municipal Judge Stafford's court Castro explained that he had agreed to pay $100 to Coriss Hilliard, negro prisoner at Newton-street police station, shortly after his incarceration there following conviction on a liquor charge, with the understanding that Hilliard would have him made a trusty. The money, Hilliard told him, was to pay to three negro policemen, one of whom was Officer McClanahan. He was made a trusty, evidence introduced by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Bialock disclosed.

Shortly after his release, Castro declared, Hilliard told him that unless he paid the money immediately he would be "framed" and rearrestby by McClanahan. Mrs. Bessie Castro, wife of the witness, said she received a letter from Hilliard stating her husband would be arrested again unless he paid the money. In defense, Hilliard said the $100 was his fee for getting the trusty "job" for Castro.

Judge Stafford ordered Hilliard held for trial by Superior Court on a felony charge of petty theft with a prior conviction.

BAIL FIXED BY COURT IN RACING-CHART CASE

Irving Moss, 26-year-old salesman of 626 San Benito street, was required by Municipal Judge Ambrose to post $500 bail to insure his appearance on September 9, next, for jury trial for possession of a form chart. The usual fine, in cases of conviction, is $50. Police Officer Thomas told the court that Moss had the form chart in his hand when the officer entered a store at 510 West Sixth street. Judge Ambrose set the high bail when Deputy City Prosecutor Jack revealed that Moss has been convicted eight times in Municipal Court for the same offense.

NEWPORT AND CLARKE TO APPEAR TODAY FOR TRIAL

Fred P. Newport, millionaire real estate operator, and Robert D. Clarke, former Municipal Court clerk and unsuccessful candidate for City Council, are scheduled to appear for trial today before Superior Judge Fricke on charges of conspiracy to offer a bribe and offering a bribe of $50,000 to Municipal Judge Stafford.

Owing to the trial of another case in Judge Fricke's court, it was said yesterday that the charges against Newport and Clarke either will be transferred to another department, or continued.

Newport and Clarke were indicted by the county grand jury following an investigation by that body of the reported attempted bribery of Judge Stafford.

According to the indictment, the bribe was offered Judge Stafford while he was sitting in Superior Court and during the pendency before him of a civil suit brought by Charles O. Middleton against Newport.

Newport and Clarke are asserted to have offered $50,000 and other forms of compensation, including a fishing trip, to Judge Stafford, in an attempt to influence the latter to give a favorable judgment for Newport in the civil case.

Newport and Clarke are at liberty on $20,000 bail each.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him care of the Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

MELONS AND CANTALOUPES

As far as we can tell from recorded history, the origin of melons was in Africa and India, where they originally grew wild. A cantaloupe is a special kind of melon which was developed in the city of Cantaloupe, Italy. The watermelon, which was cultivated by the Egyptians, is relished by the natives during the hot months. The negro race whose natural home seems to be in Africa is noted for its fondness for this delicious fruit of the vine.

Watermelon is one of the largest of our fruits. Sometimes it weighs as much as forty pounds. Only the inside, rose-colored pulp is eaten which has a sweetish flavor, having a sugar content of over 6 per cent, the rest being over 92 per cent water, with a small amount of protein, fat and mineral matter.

The southern States are important commercial growers of melons, but the largest crop in America is produced by California.

Last year the value of the melon from from Imperial Valley and other sections of California was over $10,500,000, while Rocky Ford, Colo., the home of the Rocky Ford cantaloupe, and Arizona each produced only about 3000 carloads compared to 13,000 carloads from the Imperial Valley alone.

A great value to the use of melons comes from the fact that they afford so much natural water in its purest form.

Melons when taken as a cooling food should best be taken alone and not with a meal. Many people complain of having a good deal of stomach and intestinal gas after eating melons, but this is seldom noticed if the melons are used as a meal and not in addition to a meal containing many other food products. An enjoyable luncheon may be had during the summer months by using cantaloupes a la mode for the noon meal. This is a dish prepared by cutting the cantaloupes in half, cleaning out the seeds and filling the center with some kind of ice cream. In some restaurants, an egg meringue is put over this dish and the cantaloupe baked for a few seconds under the boiler in order to brown the meringue.

When buying melons it is well to choose those that seem to have a firm, ripe flesh. They should never be eaten in an unripe or over-ripe state, as a certain mild poisoning is often produced if the cantaloupes are over-ripened. It is better to throw away any doubtful melons than to take a chance on upsetting the gastro-intestinal tract with even a small part of melon that has spoiled.

Those who think that melons are poisonous to them should remember this, and also use the melons by themselves and not with an ordinary meal.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Hernia

Question: J. H. writes: "I have a lump in the right flank that came there this week—about as big as a hen's egg. Goes back in abdomen and then comes out. Can you tell me what it is and what to do to get rid of it?"

Answer: You are probably developing a hernia and if so you should be wearing the proper kind of support to keep the lump in place while you develop your abdominal muscles through exercising. As soon as the muscles are strong enough to hold the peritoneum in place the trouble will be cured. Cut down on the quantity of food you are using so the abdomen does not protrude, and avoid all gassy foods.

Stomach Ulcer

Q.: Mrs. W. D. B. asks: "What kind of vegetables, meats, fruits and pastries can one eat who has an ulcer of the stomach and intestinal gas? Will the same diet correct constipation?"

A.: If you really have an ulcer of the stomach, milk is the only food you should be using until all signs of the ulcer disappear. Then your diet should consist of well-balanced combinations, such as I recommend in my weekly health menus. The same kind of foods properly used will correct constipation.

Cracking in Neck

Q.: Ellen asks: "Will you please tell me the cause of cracking (like kindling wood) when I move my head or neck, and how to cure it?"

A.: The cracking noise is caused by ligaments slipping back into their proper places. This is because the ligaments are either too short or too long. They become short because of the contraction of muscles, and too long because of straining, such as holding the head in a faulty position. Persistent exercise of the neck muscles will correct the trouble.

GUIDING YOUR CHILD

TAKING KNOCKS

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Tom and Micky had gone to the same camp because they were such good friends. During the summer, however, a third lad called Jed entered the circle of their intimacy.

One day Tom said to Micky, "Say, want to sleep in the tree house with me tonight?"

"No, I dont. Not with you," and Micky turned to Jed, "What do you say Jed, to you and me sleeping in the tree house tonight?'

Tom looked dashed and unhappy for a moment but he rallied quickly. "See here, Micky," he cried, "It was my idea and I'm going if anybody does. Go with me, Jed?"

The incident which perhaps seems trivial to the grown-up is serious enough to the children. Tom's rebuff was a nasty one, coming as it did from an old friend. But Tom is made of the stuff which does not enjoy suffering. No one can hurt his feelings for long.

Childhood is the time of cruel slights and hard knocks which are in fact an excellent preparation for life. When your child behaves as did Tom you have reason to be glad, for he is learning the kind of response which will always stand him in good stead.

Don't try to protect your child. Don't side with him against a faithless friend. Help him instead to face the fact of his playmate's disloyalty and to adjust himself to it. Explain to him perhaps that a friend who turns you down is not your friend. Tell him that there are plenty of lads with whom he can have quite as much fun if he will take the trouble to know them.

Be sure, above all, that you do not allow your own hurt feelings over the incident to inculcate in your child a sense of injury and self-pity.

Crash Victim Fights Death

Webber Leedon, 26-year-old salesman, seriously injured in an airplane crash which killed his 5-year-old daughter, Barbara, Saturday afternoon, was reported by attaches at the Torrance Memorial Hospital as still in a serious condition with about even chances for recovery.

Leedon received a skull fracture and severe contusions, when the plane piloted by W. E. Thompson nosed into the ground after taking off from the Airflite flying school, One Hundred and Ninetieth street and Vermont avenue, near Torrance.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

BY MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED
PROBLEMS SOLVED BY MOTHER OF TWO

Mrs. A. L. C. writes:

"As usual, mothers are interested in the problems we have met satisfactorily as well as those which baffle us. This is a little more about the child who has many toys and won't play with them. My two boys were born when I was almost 40, and adoring family and friends showered them with everything. When the older was a baby he had a large pen into which he was placed each morning and afternoon, someone always near by but seemingly intent on reading or sewing. Not even grandmother was allowed to play with him. He learned to play by himself by the hour without effort.

"Some toys we keep for house play—they have a drawer in their dressing-room with things to use when I am busy there. Puzzles, pasting and cutting are kept for sick days, so they don't grow old to them.

"Out of doors they have bikes, wagons, trucks, sand pile and slide and they go from one to another all their waking hours (they are now 3 and 5 years old.) They use their toys and their play yard as they please, not as we expected when the toys were given them. Their slide wasn't two days old when they transformed it into a coal chute with sand for coal. Old bricks are great fun to haul in the trucks. The sand pile goes everywhere in the yard except where it belongs, but it builds cement walks. Threshing machines are constructed from old broken 10-cent store toys; their swing is a rope ladder, etc. They get much dirtier than other children, but they never ask what to do next and seldom get into real mischief, though plenty of the normal sort."

ANSWER

One feels like shouting this letter with its suggestions both sound and unusual. Parents buy toys with a certain idea in mind and then are upset when children see something quite different in them. If the child makes use of that toy or apparatus in any but the time-honored way, it is a most unusual parent who can let him alone. Far too often they feel impelled to rush out imploring the child to stop what he is doing. "Now don't put bricks on your chute; it will get all full of splinters and won't be of any use to you." Or, "You'll break your wagon if you haul so many boys in it and of course you don't want to do that." Toys are toys. They represent only what the child sees in them. Parents would do well to disregard the misuses to which a child puts any toy. What his imagination sees in the toy makes it valuable to him, even though he uses the train as a garbage wagon and the wagon as a train. Adults should "Keep out."

Writing Douglas in the skies
Douglas—First Around the World

THE DOUGLAS NAME on an aeroplane is like the Sterling symbol on silverware . . . a hallmark of fine quality. 'Twas ever so. From humble beginnings in an abandoned tool shed, with a borrowed capital of $15,000, and a scant half-dozen employees in 1922, the Douglas Aircraft Company, Inc., has grown to occupy a magnificent modern plant of 180,000 square feet, employs 1,000 men and women, and boasts a cash balance of better than $1,000,000.

The company's first contract was for three torpedo planes for the Navy . . . a contract won in stiff competition. Since then Douglas has built millions of dollars worth of military planes for the United States Navy, Army, and foreign governments. Douglas air-mail planes have been a by-word for efficiency; and recently, the company entered the rapidly expanding commercial field.

RED SHADOW ROAMS NEW SONG TRAIL

Perry Askam Orpheum Hit; Philosophy and Dance Come from Mae Murray

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

While the previously ballyhooed piece de resistance of the new varieties at the Orpheum had been Miss Mae Murray's act, the sugar coated aplause, the loud cracking hand-smacks on the occasion of the Saturday afternoon opening seemed to occur when Mr. Perry Askam, late leading man of "The Desert Song," took his bow.

Which may prove any one of a number of things, most important, perhaps, that Mr. Askam is an astonishing local favorite, and that he sings extremely well.

The strains of "One Alone," a favored piece of the Romberg operetta, sung offstage, heralded Mr. Askam's appearance. It was greeted by a tremendous rumble of approval. Then, striding purposefully on the stage, clad in the robes of the Red Shadow, he was heard in a ditty which may have been named "If a Man," followed by "Blue Heaven," "Ol' Man River," "Your Mother and Mine" (Gus Edwards) and finally "One Alone" again. Each song gained fresh and tumultuous applause which was only stopped by a brief curtain speech of thanks. Cecil Stewart proved a sympathetic accompanist.

Turned philosopher, has Miss Mae Murray. Although she gave, in charming and lilting manner, a version of the Spanish tango, waltzed aagin through that delightful round dance of "The Merry Widow," and even tripped out a modern number, the necessity of "Being Happy" seemed foremost on her mind.

She chatted most vivaciously on the subject. The art of happiness—to her, the ultimate in ambition—she avowed, meant all the difference between dreariness and sunshine in life. Why, she explained further, it was akin to the man with the umbrella and the man without one in the drenching rain. The first lifted his parasol (symbolical of happiness) and went marching off dry and poised. The other fellow, minus such a helpful device, let the soggy waters of discontent and malice drench him.

The curtain came down. There was a mild flutter of applause. Miss Murray reappeared to toss kisses, to swing on the curtain, to wave graciously toward her five-piece accompanying orchestra and skillful dance partner. The hand-clapping died away. Miss Murray tossed another kiss and there was—intermission.

A blithe, merry-mannered, blue-eyed chap by the name of Charles Irwin, who is official master of ceremonies, does much toward instilling verve and swing into what it is in its own way, a good bill. Irwin has a boyish, ingenious smile and a casual way of tossing off quips that make them very funny, indeed.

Karyl Norman (a he) wears some gorgeous feminine frumperies and impersonates successively, a debutante, a woman of the world, the co-ed and the flapper. His act has novelty and spirit which won it approval.

The man who eats not only shirts, but neckties, collars, cigarettes and match boxes, Chaz Chase, does some hilarious gallivanting about the rostrum. Finally, after having consumed in part a toy violin, he begs for the orchestra leader's instrument. Refused, he goes off stage, comes back with a huge clothes basket, fills it with refuse of one sort and another, then, suddenly tosses it toward the impervious leader, and with a huge gesture of disdain leaves the stage.

Raymond Bond and Helen Sullivan have a funny matrimonial skit; the Hilly Billies, featuring Art Hall, are a troupe of mountaineers from the Ozark Mountains who sing songs and play tunes of their own locality, which the program carefully explains, is 150 miles from the nearest railroad. Marie Racko and Company close the bill with acrobatic feats.

Sid Grauman to Enact Role of Official Host

Sid Grauman, pioneer theatrical exhibitor, will act as master of ceremonies at the United Artists' Theater Wednesday night at the premiere of Ronald Colman's new talking picture, "Bulldog Drummond."

Grauman has made but few personal appearances in his career, which extends from the time he first opened the Million Dollar Theater until a few weeks ago, when he sold his remaining interests in Hollywood. He has retired from the theater end of the picture industry, and is expected to become a producer in the near future.

Grauman will present to the premiere audience Ronald Colman, who will make the first public appearance of his screen career. He will also introduce Joan Bennett, Lilyan Tashman, Montagu Love and the other members of the cast.

Criterion Sets Premiere Ahead

The Fox Criterion announces that the premiere of Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in their first talking picture, "Lucky Star," will be held the 21st inst., instead of on the following day, as previously announced. "Showboat," current talking-singing romance from Edna Ferber's novel, will terminate its engagement at the Criterion the 20th inst.

The Criterion set out with the determination to inaugurate Greater Movie Season with the greatest picture the Fox studios had to offer, it is said.

STUBBS IN FINE PARTS

Completing three leading roles in six months is the record of Harry Stubbs, New York stage star, who was brought here six months ago by United Artists to play the role of the cafe owner and gang leader in "Alibi." Since completion of that picture he has played featured parts in "The Locked Door" and "Three Live Ghosts."

Apprentice Practices on Sawbuck

Edward Everett Horton and Patsy Ruth Miller Combine laughs and thrills in "The Hottentot," a merry film comedy at Warner Brothers Theater.

COMEDY CAST SELECTED

Henry Duffy has completed the cast for "She Couldn't Say No," the farce comedy which will bring Charlotte Greenwood, comedienne, to El Capitan on Sunday as guest star with the Henry Duffy Players.

Bryant Washburn, motion-picture actor, will have the leading male role, that of Walter Turnbull, opposite Miss Greenwood. Washburn recently returned to the stage in "Night Hostess" and he will be seen as the lawyer who suddenly finds his stenographer arrayed against him as the opposing counsel in a breach-of-promise suit which is being tried in a smal town.

The balance of the cast will include Jane Morgan as Pansy Hooper, Doris Brownlae as Mary Hudson, Eddy Waller as Edward Page, Stanley Taylor as Christopher Morton, Edward McWade as Eliphalet Potter, William Robyns as Ely Sweezey, William Turner as Judge Jenkins, Wilbur Higby as Hank Smith and John Mackenzie as Ezra Pine. Rehearsals of "She Couldn't Say No" are now in progress under the direction of Edwin H. Curtis.

Audiences are saying farewell this week to Dale Winter and Henry Duffy, whose co-starring engagement at El Capitan in "The First Year" has proved so popular that the engagement has been extended beyond the four weeks originally scheduled.

"JAZZ AGE" TREATS OF MODERN YOUTH

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Marceline Day Lead Escapades at Pantages

Modern youth should by now be an old, old story. Nevertheless, in the guise of "The Jazz Age," it is the weekly topic at Pantages. Plot and detail vary imperceptibly from similar dissertations on the subject, yet it makes semiexciting entertainment. The labors of an excellent cast save it from the mediocre. Among these players are such names as Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Marceline Day, Henry B. Walthall and Gertrude Messinger. In fact, Gertrude and Douglas, Jr., carry the whole show. Miss Messinger, in particular, as the baby sister, is an outstanding feature. Miss Day has nothing to do except lead a wildly pleasant life and Walthall can always make the best of anything.

Two homes are set in contrast, the old-fashioned, filled with sterling qualities and the gay, sophisticated, furnished from "modern business" deals. Son and daughter of the former battle to have a good time against the principles of Henry B., the only honest man in town. Douglas is in love with Marceline, daughter of the street-car magnate. This gentleman allows her and her friends to tear up the town, believing they are wild but harmless. Both parents are fighting each other in a civic way.

The night Walthall has set to expose his rival, it is discovered that Douglas has taken one of the latter's street-cars out and wrecked it. He faces prison bars and his poor father's heart is torn between honesty and the saving of his son. This takes up some little time. As one would want, honesty wins by an effort and a compromise of standards is effected. The film's highlight is the wild dash of the street-car as a climax to an evening's simple fun.

A Montmartre cafe provides the atmosphere for the main vaudeville act, "The Gigolo of Paris," featuring Louise Elya and Iris Chipar. A few waltz strains for a pair of dancing figures and the orchestra settles down to "My Man." This is the cue for one of the waltzers to go out, don a sparkling tiara and return to be flung around with Apache artistry. Colorful and nicely worked out, the finale presents two girls whirled and tossed about simultaneously by three stalwart apaches.

"Accidents Will Happen," as Ashley and Sharpe comically demonstrate.

Parodies on late song hits, espicially that eternal child song, "Sonny Boy," are some of the act's big moments.

The Three Orantas show what a help it is in porch-climbing to be an all-star athlete. Kennedy and Davis amuse themselves with a burlesque comedy skit, while the Radio Jacks and their Queen offer some innovations in broadcasting.

Post to Stage Aquatic Meet

Guy Bates Post, star of "The Masquerader," which the Henry Duffy Players are presenting at the Hollywood Playhouse, is planning to hold a swimming contest among the members of his company. Post is an expert swimmer and has won several medals for championship swims in the East. Practically all the members of the company have accepted Post's invitation, among them Raymond Lawrence, Lilian Kemble Cooper, Flora Bramley, Lulu Mae Hubbard and Elizabeth Heistand.

Prizes have been donated by the management for the winners of the various events the star is planning. The contest will be held at Santa Monica some time next week.

Stage Premiere of Dell Farce Listed Tonight

With the New York cast headed by Thomas Mitchell and brought to the Coast intact, "The Little Accident," said to be one of the greatest laughing hits of the current New York season, will tonight make its local debut at the Belasco Theater before a large and fashionable audience.

"The Little Accident" is being presented by Crosby Gaige, noted New York producer, and was taken from Floyd Dell's novel, "An Unmarried Father." Dell and Mitchell, who also plays the leading role, prepared it for the stage.

The farce is in three acts and the production is elaborate. Owing to the fact that the "Little Accident" company must return east shortly to begin a long run in Chicago, the engagement at the Belasco will be limited to a few weeks.

COMEDIENNE LEAVES FOR FEATURE ROLE

Stephen Roberts, Educational ace comedy director, is bidding one of his comediennes farewell with regrets and best wishes. With the completion of the current Educational comedy, Roberts is directing, Addie McPhail, makes her debut in feature dramatic pictures in the role of one of the sisters to June Collyer and Joyce Compton in the Fox picture, "Three Sisters," in which Louise Dresser is featured. This young Kentucky beauty from White Plains is considered by Roberts one of the most promising actresses to recently be discovered in comedies.

RIDERS WILL VISIT WARNER'S THEATER

A type of theater party that should prove to be a novelty will be present at Warner Brothers Theater tonight. In honor of a trick horse that plays an important role in "The Hottentot," now appearing at that theater, a party of 100 people are to ride into Hollywood to attend the performance of that picture. They will ride in on Ventura Boulevard and down Hollywood Boulevard from Highland avenue to Wilcox avenue, where they will park the horses while seeing the show.

CARROLL PICKS SONG WRITERS FOR REVUE

Jesse Greer and Raymond Klages, two well-known musical comedy song writers, have been chosen by Harry Carroll to write the score and lyrics for his new revue, which opens at the Music Box Theater soon.

Greer and Klages were originally brought to Hollywood by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and while with this studio wrote several outstanding song hits, including "Low Down Rythm."

FOLK-SONGS WIN FAVOR AT BOWL

Fisk Jubilee Singers Heard by Large Crowd; New World Symphony Pleases

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Saturday was Jubilee Night at the Bowl. Singers from Fisk University made everybody happy with their negro spirituals and southern folk songs, and Conductor Goossens built an appropriate program of a pleasing overture on negro themes by Henry Gilbert and the Dvorak New World Symphony around the singers.

The Henry Gilbert comedy overture has not been played here lately. It is good music and falls acceptably upon American ears for its melody, its rhythms and its entertainment value. Although a comedy, it has its serious moments and they are impressive. The humor is portrayed by rag-time and not jazz, which is much the same, as the difference between an Uncle Remus story and a "hot-mamma" write-up in a confession magazine.

The beloved New World Symphony by Dvorak had a sympathetic reading from Goossens. Interest centered in the slow movement of course, but the entire four were creditably done. This is a favorite of Bowl audiences and never fails to gain a response from the fans.

The quartet of perfectly matched male voices which make up the Fisk Jubilee Singers of this generation (there have been three,) is composed of finished singers of unique distinction. They sing as one and have all the esprit de corps of a fine string quartet. There is no intrusion of personalities, but an exquisite balance is maintained. Another unusual merit is that of clear enunciation. Every word stands out in the tone of its own importance and the result in spirituals and folk song is very satisfying.

The Negro spirituals, "The River Jordan" and three chariot songs of exceptional interest were done without exaggeration and filled with a touching fervor and sincerity. Good taste and a simple dignity characterized these singers and the audience listened in that respectful hush which is granted but few. The evident enjoyment of the orchestra members was another unusual tribpaid these soloists.

In the last group of "Kentucky Home" which brought tears to many in the audience, "The Blind Plowman," the reverent 121st Psalm by LaForge and the jolly "Little Tommy" of fishing fame, the four singers proved to be masters of tone coloring and encores were demanded and generously given.

"HALF MARRIAGE" HILLSTREET FILM

"Half Marriage," one of the first productions of the reorganized Radio Pictures and evidently some kind of experiment, was screened yesterday at the Hillstreet Theater. Neither musical comedy, drama nor motion picture, the effort spent itself in noisy dissertations which were, for the most part, over nothing. Olive Borden and Morgan Farley were co-featured in an ambling, intermittent love story, with vaudeville headliners filling in gaps by singing and wise-cracking. Richard Tucker, in a bit, carried conviction.

Miss Borden is easier to look upon than to listen to, and Mr. Farley, on the other hand, has a better voice. A stage "juvenile" of familiar type, he fails to register seriously as the half-married husband of the lady. (The "half-marriage" of the title is the designation given by Miss Borden to her elopement.) Ken Murray, the Orpheum cut-up, repeats some of his well-known lines, but isn't very funny, Ann Greenway, the Orpheum prima donna, introduces the theme song, which is not, as one might at first believe, "My Mother's Eyes," but a specially written tune dubbed "After the Clouds Roll By." Once heard, the clouds continue to roll by steadier whenever the lovers engage in what can only be described as heavy necking. This is nearly all the time.

The piece goes melodramatic when Anderson Lawler, a rival for Miss Borden's hand, demonstrates his affection by chasing the lady out on a ledge above the street. From here, losing his balance, he falls to the ground and is killed, like Chester Morris in "Alibi." A detective arrives and immediately accuses Miss Borden of murder, his theory being, possibly, that she pursued the deceased out on the roof and booed him over the edge. She is acquitted.

These activities have been lavishly mounted by the producers, with Gus Arnheim's Cocoanut Grove orchestra syncopating the melodies. Hedda Hopper, Sally Blane, Pat Collins and James Bradbury, Jr., are among the players.

This week the Hillstreet is presenting the "A. B. Marcus Glorified Revue," mildly subtitled as "An Extravaganza of Pep, Youth and Beauty with a Glittering Galaxy of Glorious Girls." This is a large order. There are no stars worthy of the name, the revue being divided into unrelated episodes, blackouts, dances, songs and all the expected outlet channels. It runs for perhaps an hour.

KERRY FINISHES

Norman Kerry has completed his dialogue for the "Phantom of the Opera," a former starring vehicle which Universal will release with sound. The actor was recalled from Europe for the production and was about to commence a picture in England when the cable reached him. Kerry plays a French officer in the picture.

'AGED WANDERER HAS NEW TRADE

Lives from Articles Found by Roadside

"Road Prospector" Name Applied to Avocation

Never Begged in Eight Years of Tramping

PASADENA, Aug. 11.—"Road prospecting" is an avocation that is followed by more than 100 persons in California, according to a barefooted man who limped through this city today en route to Glendale and the northern part of California.

Hiding his identity behind a bushy red beard, he asserted that his only name is "Wanderer," and that he left his real name behind him when he left Chicago eight years ago to "become a part of nature."

He is proud of the fact that he has never begged and has supported himself by prospecting highways between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

"I found that I was a misfit in the industrial world, so I left everything behind me and just started to walk the roads without any idea of how I should keep alive," Wanderer explained.

"One day, I was so weak with hunger that it seemed impossible to go any farther, when I found a spare tire that had dropped from the back of an automobile. I sold that tire for $5—enough to keep me going for two weeks.

"From that time on, I have been a road prospector. It's a profession you have to study. The best prospecting is always along the rough spots in the highway, where tires blow out. Motorists are pretty careless to put their tools back after changing a tire, and if I look hard enough, I can usually find a couple of wrenches and pliers about a rough spot that I can sell for a quarter.

"Once I found a fur coat that sold for enough to let me retire for two months, but I can't count on such things—it's the small articles that help."

Mr. "Wanderer"

The best time for prospecting, according to Wanderer, is just after sunrise, before traffic has started.

"I know another prospector," he said, "who specializes in vanity cases and straw hats."

"This fellow picks out a place that is popular for parking cars in the moonlight and he always makes a pretty good haul."

POLICE PUBLISH YEAR BOOK

TORRANCE, Aug. 11.—The first year book of the Torrance Police Relief Association made its appearance today. Proceeds derived from the book will be devoted to relief work among police officers.

"WE CHRISTEN THEE WANDERER"

Santa Ana Woman Conducts Ceremony

With Water Not Wine

Mrs. Lida Hilliggoss, winner of newspaper contest, names plane as she breaks a bottle of water on the propeller, Vern Speich, the aviator, is standing near.

SANTA ANA, Aug. 11.—Christened Wanderer, the single-motored biplane in which Vern Speich expects to shatter the world's solo-endurance mark in a flight this month from the Martin Airport, circled over Santa Ana this afternoon in the initial test trip. Speich was at the controls as the plane took off from the Zenith Airport, near Midway City, where the craft was built.

The flight today was intended to prove the plane, Speich said. The economy runs and load tests will be held the last part of next week in the Mojave Desert country.

Mrs. Lida Hilliggoss, 1321 North Ross street, performed the christening ceremony by breaking a bottle of water on the propeller of the plane. She was winner of a naming contest sponsored by a Santa Ana newspaper and is entitled to a trip in the plane.

"Child of the air, on this, your natal day, we christen you the Wanderer and send you forth to great feats," Mrs. Hilliggoss said.

The plane has been painted blue with yellow wings. The cabin space has been taken up with a huge tank to supply a gasoline capacity of 530 gallons for the endurance flight. Assurance has been given that the mile runway at the Martin Airport will be prepared for the take-off about the 20th inst. Speich is confident that he can maintain flight long enough to exceed the thirty-six-hour and fifty-six-minute record now held by Lieut. Herbert Fahy, noted transcontinental pilot.

City Planners Announce New Master Plan

ONTARIO, Aug. 11.—A master plan for zoning Ontario for residential and business districts, announced today by a special committee of the City Planning Commission, will be presented to the general public at a mass meeting to be called soon.

Included in the tentative plan of restriction are these zones: Residence district No. 1, for individual dwellings only. Apartment-houses and duplex structures will not be permitted in this district.

Residence district No. 2, for apartment-houses and individual dwellings.

Commercial district, for mercantile establishments. This will include Euclid avenue between Park street and E street; portions of A, B and C streets; part of California Boulevard.

Industrial zone No. 1, for manufacturing establishments without noticeable odor or noise.

Industrial zone No. 2, business firms such as slaughter houses. These places of business may not be permitted within the city limits if the sentiment so favors.

Agricultural district, area for housing poultry, rabbits and other small animals to be raised in commercial quantities.

The master plan of zoning will affect only future building. On the special zoning committee are D. W. Jason, Arthur I. Peterson, Austin Burt. Others on the committee are Willard D. Ball, chairman; Mayor Francis P. Williams, N. H. Garrison, E. H. Jolliffee, Mrs. B. F. Warmer.

VALLEY TO GET MORE SCHOOL BUNGALOWS

OWENSMOUTH, Aug. 11.—Several more school bungalows are to be built this summer in San Fernando Valley by the Los Angeles school board. A bungalow to cost $1200 will be erected on the Owensmouth High School campus; another one will be built at the Eton-avenue school and a third at the Granada school on Los Alamos street. Permits for construction have been issued.

NEW DIRECTOR CHOSEN

REDLANDS, Aug. 11.—Dr. M. J. Sweeney, vice-president and managing director of the Redlands branch of the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, has been elected a director of the Consolidated Little Securities Company and the Security Title Insurance and Guarantee Company to fill the place made vacant by the resignation of L. R. Lackey. Mr. Lackey has entered the practice of law.

Attorneys to Combat Plan to Abolish Farm

ALHAMBRA, Aug. 11.—Formation of a battery of attorneys to combat an asserted plan to bring about the abolition of the Pasadena sewer farm on Valley Boulevard near Alhambra by incorporating the farm in a new sanitation district is under way in Alhambra, Pasadena and South Pasadena today.

The sewer farm is the site of a sewage-disposal plant operated by the city of Pasadena to care for its sewage and that of Alhambra and South Pasadena. Officials of the three communities assert that A. K. Warren, county sanitation engineer, is planning to include the farm in the new sewer district, thus causing abolition of the plant and the entrance of the tri-city combine into the sanitation district, which is termed District No. 12, and contemplates the installation of a huge outfall sewer system to the sea.

A number of San Gabriel Valley communities have signified a desire to enter the new district, which will supplant District No. 7, which has been dissolved.

The three cities interested in the Pasadena sewage-disposal plant claim that forcing them into the new organization will cause them to suffer a loss upon the present plant, which is operating upon a satisfactory basis.

Officials have announced that Warren contemplates recommending the new sewer plan to the county Board of Supervisors Monday morning.

PEAR HARVEST IS ON IN ANTELOPE VALLEY

LANCASTER, Aug. 11.—Growers in South Antelope Valley are at the peak in pear picking and packing, with a large harvest at hand. It is stated that the more mature and larger fruit which is being gathered now will be sent to the Los Angeles market, while packing for the eastern shipments will follow. County inspectors who have made a survey of orchards in the section declare the pears this year of larger size than last season, and grading is high.

ZOO GETS SCOUT'S SNAKE

VETERANS MEET IN REUNION

Spanish War Men Celebrate Anniversary of Important Battle

WEST LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—More than 1000 United Spanish War Veterans extended the hand of comradeship today to members of the organization who are at the National Soldiers' Home, Sawtelle. The event, according to speakers on the program, is an annual affair, commemorating the fall of Manila, when 6000 United States troops under Gen. Wesley Merritt captured 24,000 Spanish and insurgent soldiers under Gen. Weyler, who had come from Cuba to take command.

Reminiscences of the battle and "Butcher" Weyler were exchanged by veterans, who picnicked on the grassy parade ground at the Home. The big event of the day, however, was the visit paid to the sick and disabled in the hospitals.

Wives of veterans and auxiliary organizations served a big outdoor dinner at noon. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the throng gathered at the flagpole for "retreat," while the Soldiers' Home band played. In the evening Camp No. 97 sponsored a program at the Municipal Auditorium, Ocean Park. Today's anniversary was a State-wide affair, under the California U.S.W.V. organization.

Among the afternoon speakers were A. C. Munson of Los Angeles, department commander; J. Lavalle Stuart of San Diego, junior vice-commander, and others. In the evening an elaborate vaudeville program was given in Ward Memorial Hall.

Speakers on the evening program at Ocean Park were: A. P. Entenza, past commander-in-chief; Judge Morgan Galbraith and Congressman Crail. At both gatherings speakers recalled the stirring events at Manila, where the soldiers were landed after Admiral Dewey's fleet sunk the Spanish warships and silenced the forts. Dewey's action occurred on May 1, and the city fell to the soldiers August 13. The surrender actually occurred a day after the peace protocol was issued.

PROMINENT ATTORNEY DEAD

Heart Attack Proves Fatal to A. S. Maloney of San Bernardino

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 11.—Stricken with a heart attack, A. S. Maloney, prominent San Bernardino attorney, died late last night at Laguna Beach.

Mr. Maloney, for many years active in Republican politics of California and famed as an orator, was stricken shortly after he had retired, after driving from San Bernardino to the beach resort, where Mrs. Maloney and their two children were spending the summer. Death came within half an hour after the attack.

Mr. Maloney had resided in San Bernardino since 1911, coming to California from Minneapolis. In Minnesota he was an outstanding member of the bar and had served in the State Legislature. He engaged in the private practice of law until 1922, when he suffered a severe illness, which continued for more than a year. In 1923, he was named an assistant District Attorney, an office he held until 1925, when he again returned to private practice. He served as secretary of the Republican County Central Committee for a number of years and was active in the party's campaigns.

Although a devout Catholic, he supported President Hoover in the campaign, making a number of addresses throughout the county in his behalf. Because of the characteristic quick wit of his race, Mr. Maloney was perhaps the county's foremost orator. He was active in the Knights of Columbus and in the Catholic Church.

He was born in Waseca, Minn., July 22, 1876, the son of John and Bridget Maloney. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret E. Drysdale Maloney, and two children, Geraldine and Mary. Funeral services have not been announced.

Business Men in Opposition to Extra Tax

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 11.—The Merchants' Association of San Diego has gone definitely on record as opposing any amendments to the present city charter or provision in the new city charter whereby any additional tax may be levied upon business in this city.

The legislative and arbitration committee of the Merchants' Association, consisting of Samuel I. Fox, chairman; A. E. Merrick and Guy H. Miller, was instructed at a special meeting to confer with like committees of other organizations and to strenuously oppose any provision for additional tax on San Diego business, and to recommend to the charter committee that no additional business tax be levied on the merchants, but to write into the charter a provision for assessing such tax upon all business and professional men who were not already shown as paying taxes upon real or personal property in San Diego.

It was pointed out by members of the board of directors of the Merchants' Association that business today is already bearing more than its share of the burdens of taxation. The business man is the first one who is approached on any subscription or special drive, and the Merchants' Association has attempted to safeguard the merchants against such unwarranted solicitation by issuing permits only to those who could show a legitimate reason for such a campaign.

Justice Urges Appointment of Attorney

PASADENA, Aug. 11.—The need for a full-time appointment of a deputy District Attorney in this city has become imperative, according to letters which J. Russell Morten, local justice of the peace, has written to the County Board of Supervisors.

In the letter, Judge Morton described previous fruitless efforts to obtain the services of a full-time deputy District Attorney.

"For some time," the letter recites, "Judge Elliott Gibbs and I have been trying to get a deputy District Attorney assigned to Pasadena on full-time duty.

"Dist.-Atty. Buron Fitts apparently appreciated the merits of our requests, but has pleaded that he has not enough deputies to spare one for Pasadena. Our need for a full-time deputy has been great during the last two years, and with the increased criminal jurisdiction of the local Justice Court, effective the 14th inst., the need will become imperative."

Pacific Electric Annual Picnic

REDONDO BEACH, Aug. 11.—Preparations are under way for the annual picnic of the Pacific Electric Railway Company employees to be held here next Saturday. About 4000 persons are expected for the picnic, the largest event of the summer among concessionaires here. H. E. Proude, resort manager for the company, is in charge of the entertainment. There will be a Blue Rock shooting tournament for the Pacific Electric Gun Club, a golf tournament at the Palos Verdes course open to all Pacific Electric employees, a tennis tournament, baseball, bowling and three hours of athletic contests to be held on El Paso street in the afternoon.

A vaudeville program is being prepared and will be preceded by a radio program in which the company officials from President D. W. Pontius down will be heard over the microphone. A carnival ball at the Mandarin Ballroom will close the event.

As in former years N. B. Vickery is general chairman of the picnic plans and all employees who cannot be spared from their work on that day will be given a day's outing at some other time during the summer.

SOUTH GATE ENLARGES POLICE COMMISSION

SOUTH GATE, Aug. 11.—Another chapter has been added to the police situation in South Gate by the City Council, which has now increased the number of members of the Police Commission from five to nine, the new members being Thomas F. Silvester, real-estate dealer and who also has been active in local civic and political affairs; James R. Tweedy, president of the Tweedy Homesites Company, and also prominent in civic affairs; Frank O'Denz, Tweedy Boulevard real-estate dealer, and W. A. Barrager.

The commission for the last two or three years has been composed of five members, Thomas Ridge, chairman; Lew Worley, L. C. Lewis, Earl Pike and Arthur C. Cottrell.

A few weeks ago the City Council instructed the commission to make a report within thirty days, and it would be decided at that time as to whether the commission would be continued or whether entirely abandoned.

The Council has since changed its mind by increasing the number of members.

He enlisted at the age of 15 and served with Company G, Seventy-seventh Regiment, Illinois Infantry, for three years, being discharged July 10, 1865. He fought in several major battles, including the Battle of Gettysburg.

A painter by trade, he worked here for fifteen years, before failing health caused him to retire.

Valley Airport Cites Growth

VAN NUYS, Aug. 11.—One of the fastest growing industries in San Fernando Valley is the Metropolitan Airport, northwest of here.

In April, 1928, the promoters, Heffron, St. John & McCray, bought a 381-acre bean field near Woodley avenue and Saticoy street, and announced the establishment of a commercial airport. Figures now show that about $2,000,000 has been invested in land, buildings, and equipment by six major concerns in operation at the port. More than 280 men are employed, with a payroll of about $50,000 monthly.

The Bach Aircraft Company has an investment of $120,000 in land and buildings and the monthly payroll for 200 workers is $30,000. Factory equipment is valued at $35,000.

The Commercial Aircraft Company has a monthly payroll of $8000. Other concerns are the Apache Motor Company, the Angelus Aero Corporation and the Ruckstell Corporation, Ltd. All have large investments and payrolls that are increasing monthly as new workers are added.

It is estimated that within the next year more than $500,000 will be invested at the airport in the purchase of sites and the erection of buildings by concerns now making plans to locate at the port.

Aged Woman is Amnesia Victim

REDONDO BEACH, Aug. 11.—A woman probably 90 years of age, a victim of amnesia, is being held by the deputy constable's office here until her identity can be established. The woman, who is very shabbily dressed, is about 5 feet in height, of slight build, has neatly dressed gray hair, blue eyes and thinks that her name may be Annie Holmes or Annie Baker.

She originally lived in Nebraska City, she says, coming here by stage and train. She also believes that she has relatives in Lincoln, Neb., and Seattle. Her clothing consists of a short black coat faded to a dusty brown, a blue wool dress and a black felt hat with bright flower trim. She had no purse or paper to give the officers any clew when brought to the station.

Officers are of the opinion that the woman has either come a long distance by obliging automobile rides along the highway, or had been living alone in the outskirts of this city and has wandered away from her home, as no reports of missing persons have been made here. Deputy Constable Johnny Alder is conducting the investigation.

VENTURA ONLY FAIR-BY-THE-SEA

Horse Show Supreme to be Featured

To Market Eventually

These little pigs going to market but not until after Ruby Bounds of Ventura takes them to the Ventura County Fair. After that they may be "little pig sausages."

VENTURA, Aug. 11.—The horse show supreme is the name selected for the equine event which will be staged each night at the Ventura County Fair, September 12-15, next. And one of the largest tan-bark arenas in California will be constructed for the affair.

Tom Donovan, veteran horse-show director is in charge of the horse show. He has secured the assistance of others who are actively identified with similar affairs all over the Pacific Coast and is now engaged in securing entries. He announced that the fair board of directors has allotted $10,000 for the horse show and that he will have additional stakes from noted horse lovers in California which will total an additional $4000.

Ventura believes that it has the only fair grounds in America "right on the seashore." The setting is perfect, it is declared, the cooling breezes from the sea making it pleasant and comfortable for the visitors. Entries are coming in splendidly, it is stated, in that Ventura is "on the circuit," and also because there is a demand for a horse show upon the part of the fashionable colony in Santa Barbara, the multitude of horse enthusiasts in Ventura county, Hollywood, Beverly Hills, Los Angeles and other places.

The coming county fair will be the biggest ever offered by this county, it is declared. The citrus display is offered for the first time and will add to the beauty of the fair. It is stated that there is a 100 per cent co-operation upon the part of the Ventura distributors of citrus fruits.

County Horticultural Commissioner A. H. Call is called the "flying horticulturalist" because he uses an airplane in securing the exhibits for his department. Call is in charge of the citrus displays as well as the county and community displays. His latest trip was to fly from Ventura to San Bernardino where he conferred with the authorities there over the San Bernardino county exhibit to be stationed at the Ventura fair. The whole trip both ways and conference took but three hours. Call left his office in Ventura at 8 o'clock and at 11 o'clock he was back.

Ventura county will have its own exhibit from the State fair and there will also be county exhibits from Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Orange, Riverside and Santa Barbara counties.

Every community in Ventura county will have an exhibit as well.

One of the new features for the fair will be an American Legion drum and bugle contest which is expected to attract drum corps from a dozen or more cities. Prizes in cash of $750 together with trophies will be awarded the victors. This event will be staged Sunday, September 15.

All departments of the fair give promise of a greater number of exhibits than ever before.

PARK COMMISSION FAVORS ORDINANCE

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 11.—Recommendation has been made to the City Council by the Park Commission that an ordinance be adopted to create the position of organist in the park department at a salary of $5000 a year, the position to be exempt from the civil service and employees' retirement system regulations.

It is contended that under civil service rules and employees' retirement system, the regulations are such that an organist qualified to preside at the console of the park pavilion organ cannot be obtained, particularly under regulations governing age and time of residence.

Thieves Carry Poultry Away by Truck Load

The poultrymen were warned to be on guard following theft of eighty prize Rhode Island reds from Mrs. J. H. Chamberlain, at the J. E. Solter ranch west of here, late at night.

Indications are the wholesale robbery was done by experts. Mrs. Chamberlain's sleeping quarters are less than 100 feet from her poultry pen. She neither heard nor saw the thieves as they cut away a portion of the pen, neatly folded back the wires and stuffed the chickens into a poultry truck. It is believed the chickens were rendered senseless by gas, as not a sound was heard. Tracks of a truck showed where it had been backed up to the chicken pens. Police said today the gang feared a burglar alarm, and disregarded the door to the pens, choosing rather to cut their way in.

A neighbor reported seeing a chicken truck late at night, driving slowly and without lights.

RESEDA, Aug. 11.—Word has been received here that there is no likelihood of Detective Captain V. E. Newstetter being placed in permanent command of the valley division of police to succeed Police Captain P. E. Kiersoey, recently retired on pension. Capt. Newstetter is in charge of the division temporarily. He is a veteran officer in the valley, and one of the best detectives in the Los Angeles Police Department. It is stated here that Chief Davis has announced that for the good of the service Capt. Newstetter will not be removed from the detective bureau to take the administrative job as commander of this division.

INGLEWOOD COUPLE ON EXTENDED TRIP

INGLEWOOD, Aug. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Anselm Grieve, pioneer residents of this city, left last night for an extended trip to the land of their birth, England. They also will travel extensively in Scotland, Ireland, France and Belgium. Mr. Grieve was educated in the latter country.

When Mr. Grieve and his wife arrive in Colnbrook, Eng., it will be his first sight of the place of his birth for fifty-six years, having left there for America in 1873. Although so long away from his birthplace, the Inglewood man has never forgotten it, having named his extensive dairy business here the Colnbrook Creamery. Mr. Grieve has just disposed of his interests in this business to his partner, Frank W. Vorhees, and announces his permanent retirement from business. He started the business with one cow and three customers while now a herd of more than 1000 head is owned and a force of about 100 men are employed.

TEN MILLIONS VISIT CITY'S BEACHES

Surf and Sand Lure Them

WHETHER you know it or not, Mr. and Mrs. Average Angeleno, you and yours will visit the beach at least nine times before the end of next June, should you live up to the expectations of the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department. In all probability these expectations will be fulfilled, according to C. P. L. Nicholls, supervisor of the division of aquatics.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, last, about 10,000,000 persons were guests of Los Angeles at its four municipally owned or operated beaches, according to Nicholls's records. The present year is expected to eclipse the former record by approximately 1,000,000.

The present warm spell has resulted in a large percentage of persons getting in their quotas of visits early. Should anyone be inclined to think that this daily influx to the seashore is without a good reason it is a mistake, said Nicholls.

"Los Angeles possesses more than four miles of what may be considered some of the finest bathing beach in the country and each year thousands of dollars are spent on its maintenance and improvement," said Nicholls.

If appearances are to be believed, one of the outstanding characteristics of subsequent generations of Angelenos will be an irrepressible desire to take to the water. It is estimated that 15 per cent of those visiting the beaches don bathing suits and records show that last year municipally owned swimming pools were used 500,000 times.

The city takes the task of providing for the enjoyment and safety of its citizens at the beaches seriously. Between twenty-five and twenty-eight life guards, including a number of Olympic champions, other swimming champions and athletes, are on the pay roll this year and represent one of the finest beach patrols the city ever has had, said Nicholls. Plans now are under way for the establishment of a new municipal bathhouse at Sunset pier in Venice at a cost of $20,000. It will provide accommodations for close to 3000 persons.

Other beaches under city jurisdiction include Playa Del Rey with a frontage of 6000 feet, Cabrillo, 4500 feet, and Terminal Island, which is operated through courtesy of the harbor department, with 3000 feet. Venice, with approximately 10,000 feet frontage, is the largest.

While guards are on duty twenty-fours of the day and every effort is made by the city to familiarize bathers with necessary precautions it becomes more difficult with the increasing use of the beaches, Nicholls pointed out. Lack of knowledge on the part of bathers as to what a riptide really is probably is one of the most serious difficulties encountered, he said. Out of 122 rescues since January of this year, 35 per cent were rescues from riptides, according to records.

"Riptides usually occur in the spring and winters and are caused by a cut in the floor of the beach, made by storms," Nicholls said. "It results in a stronger current flowing outward due to the declivity and may be avoided if a person swims parallel with the shore instead of fighting against it. Otherwise persons should call for help, refraining from struggling," he said.

The Playground and Recreation Commission recently ruled on the suggestion of Supt. Hjelte that the old signs reading "Danger, Riptide" be replaced with signs reading "Temporary Danger Account of Riptide. Sign Will be Removed When Danger is Over." The signs will be placed opposite the spots affected by the currents and moved when the riptides change their course.

SPEED-LINER RACE SCOUTED

North German Lloyd Official, Arriving Here, Discusses Bremen's Feat in Atlantic

The recent record-breaking trans-Atlantic round trip of the new North German Lloyd liner Bremen will not lead to a speed competition in the near future between the German and English companies vying for the North Atlantic passenger trade, in the opinion of E. Glassel, general manager of the North German Lloyd. He arrived here yesterday on a combined business and pleasure tour, and was a passenger on the west-bound trip of the Bremen when it first demonstrated its speed by breaking the Mauretania's Cherbourg-to-New York record.

E. GLASSEL

The only other ship afloat which has any chance of beating the Bremen's records is the Mauretania and Herr Glassel said he doubts whether a twenty-two-year-old ship can be so reconditioned as to surpass the best performance of its most efficient period. Even if the Bremen's records are beaten by some ship of a rival company, no special effort will be made to regain them, for his company's first concern is safety, he asserted.

The full limit of the Bremen's potential speed has not been reached, however, he pointed out.

Herr Glassel was more anxious to discuss the rehabilitation of the German shipping industry in general and his company in particular. He said the North German Lloyd at the end of the war was left without a single seagoing vessel, its only possessions being a few tenders and tugboats. Within eleven years it has assembled and will be operating on March 1, 1930, when the Europa, sister ship to the Bremen, goes into service, a fleet of 183 ocean vessels with a gross tonnage of 950,000.

The company has regular passenger or freight service to every port of any consequence in the world. Its direct service to this port was established in 1924 and one of the objects of his visit here is to determine whether business conditions will warrant an increase in this service in the near future.

Accompanying Herr Glassel on his trip are his wife, son and daughter and Paul Nolze, manager of the San Francisco office of the North German Lloyd, and E. Von Aschenburg, manager of the line's New York office. The party is stopping at the Ambassador and will remain until tomorrow.

BROADCASTERS OFFER VARIETY

Tin Pan Alley Hour Will be Given by KEJK

KMTR Plans Revival of Old Spanish Music

Radio Playlet Promised by KNX Program

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Local broadcasters seem to be opening the week with a wealth of variety in their programs.

KEJK, Beverly Hills, at 9 p.m. is to hold its usual Monday night Tin Pan Alley hour. Harry Stoddard and Marcey Klauber, local composers, will give some of their own numbers, playing their own accompaniments for the songs.

One of them will be "I Get the Blues When It Rains." They plan to use this for the theme of the hour and will build up the musical setting around that number.

SPANISH TUNES

The days of the Dons are due for a radio revival tonight over KMTR at 7 o'clock with the Marimba Symphony, led by Paul Finstein in a program of songs from early California days.

Artura De Palma, Spanish tenor, will act as soloist. The station has been collecting manuscripts of old Spanish tunes for several weeks in anticipation of this broadcast.

It is said that some of the manuscripts were so old as to make legibility almost impossible, so there is a fair chance that some of them, when actually deciphered, will be found to be musical gems.

LIGHT CLASSICS

KNX at 7:30 o'clock will have a radio playlet, "All in the Dark," enacted by Adelaide Byrd, Roy Regnier, and Georgia Fifield.

Rudy Seiger's Symphonists, over KFI at 8 p.m. will use violin and 'cello solos to intersperse the group selections.

GREAT LAKES WILL HAVE EIGHT NEW RADIO BEACONS

DETROIT, Aug. 11. (AP)—With the construction this year of eight new radio beacon stations, the Great Lakes will have 43 per cent of the beacons which guard the entire coastline of the United States. Twenty-one beacons now are in active service on the lakes.

Three Attempt Suicide and Two May Succumb

Three persons who attempted suicide were treated at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital last night and two of them are not expected to live. These are Eugene Blecha, 46 years of age, of 255 North Rosemont avenue, and Mrs. Eunice Corny, 22, colored, of 4416 Wall street.

While he was alone at home, Blecha, who is said by his wife to have been despondent because of six years of illness, shot himself in the head with a 22-caliber revolver after writing a farewell note to his wife and his son, Hugh. His wife returned home shortly afterward and found him dying.

Mrs. Corny, who had been having domestic troubles, according to police report, took poison. After treatment at Receiving Hospital, she was removed to the Dunbar Hospital. The other suicide attempt was made by Mrs. Grace Hayes, 21, of 1125 South Dacotah street. Despondent over separation from her husband and the recent death of her mother, she took poison, but she is expected to recover.

DEAF 'MEDIATOR' JAILED; HIS VICTIM IN HOSPITAL

Because a deaf man mistook him for an assailant when he merely was urging his son to return home with him, Samuel Gore, 50 years of age, of 1345 East Thirty-seventh street, landed in the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital with a fractured skull yesterday, and the afflicted man found himself in the City Jail charged with suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon. The accused man is Eddie Wylls, 32, of 1047 East Forty-second street.

The asserted attack occurred at the Tivoli Social Club, 4207 Central avenue, where Gore had gone to dissuade his son, Charles, from playing pool. According to the police report, the son objected to accompanying his father away from the place, whereupon the elderly man proceeded to use force. Being deaf and, therefore, not having understood the nature of the verbal argument, Wylls, police charge, intervened in the son's behalf, thinking Gore was attacking him. He knocked the father down, it is charged in the police report, and the man struck his head on the pavement outside the club.

KINGDOM OF GOD VISIONED ENLARGING BOUNDARIES

Canada Pastor Says Church Union of Dominion Rising Success; Other Evidences Cited

Declaring that the unification of the great denominations into the United Church of Canada is a growing success, Dr. W. L. Armstrong, pastor of Trinity United Church of Toronto, Can., in a sermon at First Methodist Church of Hollywood yesterday predicted the final union of all churches and organizations founded on the life and teachings of Christ.

"God's methods are progressive, rather than cataclysmic," said Dr. Armstrong. "To glad and hopeful hearts the signs of the times are all on the side of righteousness. The world is being unified by radio and new methods of transportation, trade and commerce and by the ever-expanding boundaries of the Kingdom of God. As a result of this coming together men are understanding one another better and and, as they understand they love one another more. The old barbarities are passing. A new brotherhood is coming on apace.

"The great peace pact of the leading nations of the world which promises to make war forever illegal as a means for the settlement of international disputes; the rising tide of temperance reform which is clearly manifest all over the world and which will not stop until the nefarious liquor traffic is blotted out of society, and last, but not least, the coming together of divided Protestant Christianity, all these things point unmistakably to the triumph of the Kingdom of God in the world.

"In Canada the three denominations, Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational, have had four years of experience in an organic union under the name of the United Church of Canada. They have been blessed years. We have 8800 preaching places in Canada. Every twelfth person is a communicant member of the United Church of Canada. During the four years there has been an increase of 50,000 members. There have been amalgamations, or local unions, in 560 places and there have been 1000 new places opened up where the gospel had never before been preached in any regular way. The enlarged fellowship, in Christian valuation, is far beyond reckoning.

"The bishop of the Reformed Episcopal Church has recently received and accepted a call to the pastorate of a united church in Vancouver, which is made up of a former leading Presbyterian and a former leading Methodist church.

"The disciples, or Christian church, not being a corporate body, are coming in by congregational action and bringing their pastors with them and the end of such union is not yet in sight. In all this we see the signs of the Kingdom of God. We hear the call to a deeper consecration to Christ, and we catch the vision of a unified Christianity, and a harmonized world."

MENTAL HEALING OLD AS MANKIND

Declaring that mental and spiritual healing are as old as human history, Bramacharee Nerode in his sermon at Mt. Washington Center yesterday said that Freud, Jung and others have proved the reaction of the mind upon the body.

"This truth has been believed, proved and experimented upon by mental healers before the dawn of psychiatry," said the speaker. "Spirit reacts on both mind and body. Any change brought about in the spiritual outlook of man, at once creates readjustment in his menetal and physical conditions. The best evidence of things is personal experience, those who have touched the spiritual realm can testify. Others, instead of arguing, should experiment. As a great Hindu thinker said: 'Listen, reason, ponder and experiment.' That is the scientific way to know the truth of spiritual healing."

SALVATION LIES IN RIGHTEOUS LIVING

"Jesus did not test His followers by their orthodoxy nor by ceremonies or membership in any organization," said Dr. H. C. Culbertson in his sermon yesterday at Plymouth Congregational Church.

"To be a follower of Jesus is to be actually saved, out of the cellars and dungeons of hating and grudge-bearing, out of the straight-jacket of prejudice and selfishness, into the glorious sunshine of loving and spreading goodwill," said Dr. Culbertson. "It is to be saved out of bitterness, cynicism and brain-sapping sorrow into the joy of expressing our noblest possible selves in the true way of life, the joy of casting all care upon God. It is to be saved out of contentiousness and wrangling with others into the peace of Christ-like sympathy and to be saved out of fear and anxiety into the serenity of trusting our Father in Heaven. It is to be saved from impatience and uncharitableness into the divine glory of forgiving and long-suffering tenderness. It is to be saved by the wonder-working power of God out of badness and evil thinking into sheer, clean, wholesome goodness."

GLORY OF THE SOUL LAUDED BY SPEAKER

Discussing the glory of the soul, "the true self of man," Swami Dhirananda, in his sermon at Figueroa Playhouse yesterday declared that man's higher self and the "universal self" are identical in their nature and essence.

"When maddening desires shout for fulfillment the soul stands back and patiently tolerates the confusing noise, biding its time to burst forth in enchanting symphony until the desires wilt with exertion and become quiet," said the speaker. "Worldly ambitions and desires may have and should always have their value, but their chief value is that they cannot last. They cannot last to view their own triumph. They have to ultimately promise the coming dawn of the soul on the horizon of our hearts. Secular knowledge has a charm, but its glory finally fades into the glory of self-knowledge. When everything is felt to resound with the music of the self we are not 'obsessed,' we are on our way to freedom. That self is in every expression, every word. That self cannot be known by logic or learning, although both are useful. One who mingles deepest meditation with right action can realize that self and be drunk with its sublimity."

"SPIRIT" THEME OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the spirit. For the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death . . . For they that are after the flesh do not mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the spirit the things of the spirit. For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." These words of Paul to the Romans were included among the Scriptural citations in the lesson-sermon on "Spirit," Sunday in all branches of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston.

Another passage in the lesson-sermon, selected from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," contained these statements of Mrs. Eddy: "In spirit there is no matter, even as in truth there is no error, and in good no evil. It is a false supposition, the notion that there is real substance-matter, the opposite of spirit. Spirit, God, is infinite, all. Spirit can have no opposite."

OCCULTIST SPEAKS ON SPIRITUAL LAW

"Self Help Through the Law of Attraction" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. E. E. Thomas, head of the Universal Order of Occult Science. Dr. Thomas spoke in part, as follows:

"Things occur in the spiritual world before they are seen in outward act or event. By the simple process of governing our spiritual thought forces of today we help create the events which will come into our individual lives in the future, perhaps tomorrow. Aspiration and educated desire are species of devotion which may be used as potent means of bringing into action the law of attraction. So far as possible we should rule out fear, anger, disbelief and doubt, because of their counteracting and withering effects upon the action of the interior law of attraction. We need not hesitate to aspire to the highest attainments. If through false teaching we have been led to believe in the 'fall of man' or in his 'natural depravity,' we should at once reconstruct our beliefs so that they will be in accordance with those true basic principles which teach the divinity and omnipotence of that interior law of attraction which is man."

J. L. Matheson Succumbs After Lengthy Illness

John L. Matheson, 76 years of age, well-known merchant of Los Angeles, died at his residence, 1933 South Union street, yesterday, after an illness of six months. He was the senior member of the firm of Matheson, Inc., and had been in the haberdashery business here for thirty-five years.

Funeral services will be private and will be conducted from the Breese Brothers' Mortuary, 855 South Figueroa street, tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Interment will be in the family lot in Hollywood Cemetery.

Mr. Matheson was a member of the Masonic order and was past high priest of Signet Chapter, R. A. M. He also was a member of the Los Angeles Commandery No. 9, K. T., and Al Malaikah Shrine Temple. He leaves his wife, Mary A. Matheson, a son Kenneth, who was associated with him in business, and a daughter, Mrs. R. D. Norris.

Engineer Opens Recording Plant

Paul Lewis Hodge, sound engineer, yesterday announced the opening at 6642 Santa Monica Boulevard of a phonograph recording plant for the use of individuals, orchestras and commercial, radio and motion-picture companies. The plant is prepared to make phonograph recordings on ten, twelve and sixteen-inch discs. A plating and pressing plant will be operated in connection with the recording laboratory.

Associated with Hodge in the capacity of sales manager is Roy G. Miller, former publicity director of the Fox-Carthay Circle Theater.

ASSERTED SMUGGLING EPISODE ENDS TODAY

The last chapter of an asserted attempt to bring three Armenian girls into the United States by smuggling them across the border from Mexico under a pretense, is to be enacted today in the court of United States District Judge McCormick. Donald Stegman, Mabel McGee and Charles W. Inman were accused of having conspired to violate the immigration laws on June 15, 1926, by bringing the three girls into this country. The cases of Stegman and Mabel McGee were disposed of, but Inman is to appear in court today to enter a change of plea. The girls, all of tender age, are reported to have fled from Armenia and to have entered the United States from Tia Juana after being adopted by Inman, a distant relative.

The camel is said to be the only animal which cannot swim. When once it has lost its footing in the water it turns over on its side and makes no effort to save itself.

NEW CONCERN IN TRADE LISTS

Import and Export Company Formed by Port Group

Initial Operations to Center in North Europe Field

Mexican States Line Passes from Transport Picture

BY WAYNE B. CAVE

A new concern to deal in foreign trade and to be known as the Pacific Coast Import and Export Company, was announced at the harbor yesterday.

The company is headed by C. S. Sampson, banker at the port, as president, and G. A. Sconhoft and Erik Flamer of the chandlery of Sconhoft-Gallis Corporation, which has branches up-coast as well.

Initial endeavors will be toward importing, particularly from Northern Europe, Sampson said, although the field gradually will extend to other areas, while exports from here will be given attention. The company also will maintain a ship chartering agency.

The personnel has a background of experience in kindred lines, Sampson in marine banking; Sconhoft and Flamer in handling foreign products and ships, of which they represent a number. An open letter attesting the character of the principals has been issued to the trade by Andrew O. Nelson, Vice-Consul here for Norway, long a personal friend of the men behind the new enterprise.

Offices have been established at 639 Beacon street, San Pedro, although affiliations will be established in San Francisco as well. Incidentally the company and staff have nine languages at their command.

FORMER "MYSTERY SHIPS" SCHEDULED TO GO ON BLOCK

The Mexican States Line has formally passed out of the picture in trade transport between California and the west coast of Mexico. The fleet has been laid up and prices have been set for the ships' disposal, according to Williams, Dimond & Co., which has handled them in the past.

The Chiapas long has been languishing at Los Angeles for want of a buyer or charterer. Recently the Sinaloa has been added to the laid-up Chihuahua and Guerrero at Alameda. The Oaxaca was sold to other interests two years ago.

The vessels were the famous British mystery ships during the war, which, disguised as slow freighters, apparently easy victims for enemy craft, suddenly would drop down false sides concealing guns. They had speed then and, outmaneuvering their enemy, sank several.

More than 300 easterners are due at sunrise today on the Panama Pacific steamer Mongolia from New York and Havana. Among them are Drs. J. W. Allen and F. W. Baldwin of New York; Peter T. C. Ten Eyck, Albany; Misses Mary P. Reid, Julia Weyse and Lucille Wilder of Los Angeles, and Capt. and Mrs. James S. Woods and sons of Berkeley. The liner is commanded by Capt. George Richardson, who soon will gain command of the electric liner Virginia, the latter's master being slated for the new Pennsylvania, soon to be commissioned at Newport News.

Bishop G. R. Grose, head of the Methodist Church at Peking, arrived from the Orient yesterday accompanied by his family, on the Dollar Line trans-Pacific liner President Taft, which disembarked fifty-five travelers and is discharging 1000 tons of cargo. He will remain here six months, recovering from illness, before returning to his post. Others were Dr. B. W. Billings and family of Denver, and Lieut. Chester Peake, U.S.N., transferred home after duty with the Asiatic fleet. The liner will return to the Orient via San Francisco at noon today after embarking fifty passengers and loading 1200 tons of fruits, canned sardines, oil-well machinery and general cargo.

"No babies born, no storms, no celebrated passengers," was the report on arrival of the globe-circling O.S.K. motor liner La Plata Maru yesterday from South Africa and South America. Six passengers disembarked and the ship dropped 200 tons of corned beef and coffee. She will embark 125 before sailing west Wednesday.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11. (AP)—Weighing and inspection bureaus established by the United States Inter-Coastal Conference at this port and Los Angeles have given such satisfaction that additional bureaus soon are to be opened in the Pacific Northwest. This announcement was made today by H. M. Runyon, Pacific Coast representative of the conference here, who disclosed that Seattle will be the first port in the Northwest to receive a bureau. Branches will be established at Portland and Tacoma, he said, adding that he will leave during the week for Seattle to arrange matters.

Names of the new steamers and motorships to be added to the fleet of the 'round-the-world service of the Bank Line Trading and Transport Company were received here today by Capt. Walter Gay, president. The steamers are being named Nithbank, Trentbank and Tarbank while the motorships will be known as the Avonbank, Forthbank, Irisbank and Lindenbank. All of the new vessels are being turned out at the Workman, Clark, Ltd., yards at Belfast. The Trentbank is scheduled to arrive here October 28, next.

The Shipping Board vessel West Cussetta, first of the four 8800-ton ships allocated by the government to the South African Dispatch Line, will arrive here from New York tomorrow. The West Cussetta will inaugurate the new Pacific Coast-South African service of the company.

SEATTLE, Aug. 11. (AP)—Nine vessels of the Alaska Steamship Company fleet are scheduled to reach Seattle this week. Of this number three are passenger liners with large tourist lists. The others are cannery boats with cargoes of salmon, herring and wheat products.

To lift a cargo of 6000 tons of wheat, lumber and general at Seattle, Tacoma and Olympia this week, the Reardon-Smith Line carrier, Jersey City, is due from the Orient tomorrow.

NEW YORK MAKES BID FOR FILMS

J. Charles Davis Tells of Attractive Studio Offers to Independent Producers

Concessions in studio rentals, sets and sound equipment are being made to independent producers of Hollywood by studio officials in New York in an effort to attract them to the eastern metropolis and thus revive the making of features there, according to J. Charles Davis of the J. Charles Davis Productions. He arrived here yesterday from a business trip to New York.

Davis went to New York City to sign contracts for distribution of the twenty-six feature productions that comprise his $500,000 program for the 1929-1930 season, all of which are to be made in Hollywood. The day following his arrival in New York, he said, officials of two different studios made him offers of space, sets and sound equipment at a figure much lower than he is paying in Hollywood. The following day two other offers were made.

"The figures quoted were much lower than those that have prevailed in New York for years," said Mr. Davis. "But the more I pondered the propositions the more I became convinced that in the long run it would cost more to make my productions there than in Hollywood. What I might have saved in rental, sets and sound equipment, would have been exceeded by losses due to delays caused by storms and frequent lack of sunshine in making exteriors."

Mr. Davis announced all his productions will be talking films and that he has signed Bruce Mitchell to direct the first.

Civil Service Plans Test for Detective Chief

A civil-service test for the purpose of creating an eligible list for the position of chief of detectives, from which to select a successor to Capt. Cline, who has retired on a pension, will be held September 24, with entries closing September 18, according to Secretary Glenn G. Gravatt of the Civil Service Commission. Tests also will be held in September for four positions under City Forester Tibbets, a department recently created by the City Council.

Applicants for the job of chief of detectives, which pays $400 monthly, will be limited to captains of detectives and inspectors of detectives.

Tests also will be held September 24 to create an eligible list for captains of detectives, and on September 11 for police chemist, which pay $300 and $225, respectively.

Tests will be held for assistant city forester, which pays $200 monthly, and tree inspector, which pays $175, on September 10; tree foreman, paying $140 to $150, on September 12, and for treeman, which pays $125, on September 13.

Tests for assistant playground superintendent, which pays $350 monthly, and for assistant city controller, which pays $450 to $500, will be on September 27.

Extra Concert Scheduled for Music Patrons

Prefixing the regular weekly series of four concerts, the management of the Hollywood Bowl Association announces an extra added concert for tonight in order to complete its obligation to season box-holders and to others holding rain checks for the canceled program of July 30, when labor difficulties led to a temporary withdrawal of the orchestra.

The heavy financial liability devolving on the Bowl association in arranging the extra event, dictated by its moral obligation toward its patrons, is reduced to a considerable degree by the generous donation of services on part of Conductor Eugene Goossens and Madame Elsa Alsen, celebrated dramatic soprano.

The "Ruy Blas" overture of Mendelssohn, originally composed for a benefit at Leipsic in 1893, will receive a deferred reading as the opening number. Elsa Alsen will sing the beautiful "Love Death" aria from "Tristan and Isolde" as her principal contribution. It is expected that she will respond to encore demands with the Brunhilde "Battle Cry" of "Die Walkure." Another high light of the program will be the regional premiere of Dr. Howard Hanson's latest symphonic poem, "North and West," another postponed work.

JUDGE INCREASES "PAY" OF HUSBAND

WIFE'S ACTION FOR DIVORCE DISCOURAGED BY COURT AFTER HEARING PLEA

If Mrs. Catherine Oswold accepts the advice of Superior Judge Schauer she will not go through with her divorce proceedings brought against Walter Oswold, city school gardener, on the ground of cruelty, after twenty-eight years of married life. Mrs. Oswold seeks temporary alimony pending trial of the divorce action.

"If you will accept my advice, madame, you will forget about a divorce," said the judge. "You have stood it for twenty-eight years, so try to carry on. However, if you will not listen to me, you'll have to prepare to become self-supporting, for your husband has not enough income to support himself and you apart."

Oswold told the judge:

"I make $24 a week. I keep 35 cents out each week for myself and give her the rest. She gives me three meals a day and a place to sleep. That is all I ask."

"I'll do better than that," Judge Schauer replied. "After this you can keep $5 a week, give her the rest, and she will have to pay the bills and still give you three meals a day."
